BY AUGUSTINE DUGANAR. There is an old man in our land A noin of mighty mind;

And he hath served his country well,
And toiled for human kind:
And one who better loves our land
In sooth, we may not find. He hath upraised his voice of yore,
And spoken words of might,
And mused the struggling hearts of men
To battle for the right;
And at his word, o'er frecian hills
Beaned forth fair Freedom's light.

His words within the hearts of then,
Like fire-were wont to glow,
And, trembling at their thunder lones.
The giant Wrong, bent low,
As neath Judea's trump, fell down
The walls of Jericho. And he hath given his first-born son
The glorious and the brave,
Aniofering at his country's shrine,
To fill a patriot's grave—
As Abraham, at the word of God,
His best belov'd one gave.

And through the wide-spread, glorious land, Where Freedom's shrine is reared, A life for notlest deeds hath made; This man to all endeared: And he is loved by friends, as well, As he by his foes is feared. Yet stands that noble-souled old man, Refore his country's eye--As stood, amid the Forum's crowds, Him of Corioli,— With wounds which he disdains to show,
With bearing proud and high.

Unmarked--neglected stand? Shame on you—ye for whom he toiled, If ye forget his deeds! Shame on you—if ye barb that heart Which now with sorrow bleeds.— Shame on you - if you now refuse The sympathy he needs !

What is our World. BY WILLIAM ALEXANDER, A. M.

Our world, comparatively speaking, is but a little islet fleating upon the vast ocean of recency. So insignificant that, were it stricken out of the mass of Jehovah's vast empire, the loss would be felt far less than that of a drop of water taken out of the mighty ocean, or a grain of sand from the sea-shore. She has a definite position in the vast expanse, however, being the third planet of our System, whose centre is the Sun. Unweariedly she rolls upon her present sinful circle! and from day to day shall, until He come, at whose feet the universe gives way. Then, it is probable, a deludge of fire having puritied her surface, she may pass off into another but sinless orbit. Should this be the case, the heavens will appear to pass away with great noise, and the elements seem to have been melted by the fervent heat. Thus, to an observer, the heavens shall then appear to be rolled together as a mighty scroll; while actually, no change save relative, shall have taken place upon the other stars of heaven.

To the vulgar eye our earth seems motionless; whereas she has positively two motions, and perhaps a third, about some great central body, the Even savages have sometimes spared the altar primum mobile of all. She moves in her orbit around the sun, at the rate of twenty miles each second of time-and revolves about her own axis miles higher, and you shall see her careening on in her constant track, directed by His unerring hand, who sitteth on the circle of the universe, who loves his country. directing its vast and complicated machinery.

When the heavens and the earth were finished,

God saw everything, and behold it was very good. There was no disorder in His handy work. Our earth came from His hand a beautifully finished habitation for His noble creature man. Man sinned -and "Nature, through all her lower works, gave signs of woe, that all was lost."

How inconsiderable indeed is our little planetet how marked is her position, on the great mass of Creation! She has a moral reference. The wards her the inhabitants of countless globes now direct an inquiring eye. Sin made her woful visit here, and here was the mighty drama of Redemption performed. As the scene of its performance she is therefore noted-and to her though sinful, her Creator has paid especial regard. She is the workmanship of His hand-and was once fairso that the morning stars sang together, and the Sons of God shouted for joy, when they beheld the laying of her strong foundations. How manifold are our Creator's works! In uncreated wis dom bath he made them all/

SANTA ANNA.-In person Gen. Santa Anna is about six feet high, well made, and of graceful bearing, though he stumps along on an old-fushioned wooden peg, rejecting us uncomfortable, all tho " mock legs" with patent spring and self mo-ving inventions which have been presented to him by his flatterers from all parts of the world. His dress, as I have said before, is on all public occastone, that of a high officer in the army; and his breast is covered with richly gemmed decorations. His brow, shaded with black hair somewhat sprinkled with gray, is by no means lofty, but arrow and smooth. Although his whole head is rather small, and perhaps rather too long for its resulth, it has, however, a marked and boldly-defined outline, indicating talent and resolution. His nose is straight and well-shaped, and his brows knit in a line over his close and brilliant eyes, which are said to flash with fire when aroused to passion. His complexion is dark and sallow, and his temperament evidently bilious. His mouth is the most remarkable feature. Its prominent expression when at rest, is that of mingled pain and ther may two brothers marry two sisters. nxiely. In perfect repose you would think him looking on a dying friend, with whose suffering he was deeply but helplessly sympathising. His head and face are those of an attentive, thoughtful, melancholy, but determined character. There is no ferocity, vindictiveness, nor ill-temper in his expression; and when his countenance is lighted up by pleasant conversation, into which he appears to enter eagerly, though with a timid and subdued voice; and when he puts on that sweetly wooing smile, which seems too tranquil to ripen into a laugh, you feel you have before you a man who would be singled from a thousand for his quiat refinement and serious temper; one who would at once command your sympathy and your respect; s well-bred gentleman, and a resolute soldier, who can win by the solicitation of an insinuating address, or rule by the authority of an imperious

Such is the portrait of the person, who, since the outbreak of the Mexichn revolution, has played a chief part in the drama of the time, and has fought and forced his way to eminence from the humblest rank. The destroyer and builder up of many systems and men, he has not always been on the side of republicanism, according to the li-beral and enlightened notions of the north; but it is sincerely to be hoped that he is too deeply pledged as an old soldier and a brave fighter in the cause of liberty, now to shrink back into the folly of despotism.

ROBBING THE CHURCHES!-A late number o the Washington Union, the accredited organ of the Administration, contains the following extraordinary article recommending the sequestration of the Church properly in Mexico! We copy it word for word, and ask our readers to ponder over it carefully. The Union says:

"It seems that the Church has volunteered lishment, drawing a contrast between the United States and other Christian communities, including his own has pronounced his decisive opinion that that branch of the Christian church occupies more among us, than in any other nation. The posi-tion and the high public estimation which many of our Catholic brethren occupy, the intelligence. patriotism and social virtues which they exhibit, corroborate this statement.

"It is not as a religious body, but as an engine of state, that the Catholics of Mexico hook upon us with a hostile eye. It is far their own special political purpose—to retain their vast possessions, which impoverish the nation—to sustain their own hierarchy, which lords it over the ignorance and slavery-that they are thus solicitons and active. It is a zeal for the mammon of unrighteousness -- not for the welfare of souls -which inspires and animates the Catholics of

" In this aspect of the case, it may become a matter of grave consideration, if the church con-tinues to oppose a peace and furnish the fuel of war, whether the immense revenues of the church in Mexico shall be left untouched-whether they shall be suffered to remain at the disposal of the enemy, and be applied to sustain the war ogainst us—whether justice and policy do not equally dictate that they should at least be sequestered during the continuance of the war as a legitimate means of cutting off the enemy's supplies."
The plain English of the above was expressive of an intention, on the part of the Administration, to pillage the churches in Mexico! These churches, it is well known, contain a vast amount of treasure, lavished upon them in decorations by the religious zeal of the people. The indignation that this exhibition of vandalism has excited throughout the country, has been intense! The hetter scelings of the community are outraged! The Union has since attempted to smooth over the article, but it will not do. The language is too plain to be misunderstood THE CHURCHES OF MEXICO. - The proposition of the Washington Union, the official organ of the President, says the Village Record, to despoil the churches of Mexico and to sequester their property has met with the decided reprobation of the people

It was no doubt thought by the organ, that such a step would arouse among the Protestants a feel-Rise but a mile or two above her surface and ing favorable to the war. Miserable and despicayou will find her seemingly at rest. Rise a few ble suspicion! MARRIAGE CUSTOMS OF THE CRINESE. - The betrothat of children is arranged entirely by their parents, but when the parties are of age a go-between is employed; after betrothal it is considered improper for a young lady to go abroad before her marriage. The day before her marriage the bride has a crying spell; she then takes leave of her ancestors, whom she worships for the last time; henceforth she is dead to them. The bridal dress is the most splendid they can procure, being often hired for the occasion : the bride is carried to her future home in a sedan, but no member of herown family lattends her. As the procession moves along the streets, all persons are required to move out of the way while it passes. As soon as they reach the house, the match-maker goes in search of the bridegroom and brings him out : he then opens the sedan, and beholds his wife for the first time.

The wife, on her marriage, is considered to be perhaps about three months, she will re visit her former home and tenew her acquaintance with the family, as though she had been an entire stranger. From this blind method of contracting marriages, as might be expected, most buter disappointments often ensue, and are sometimes attended with deplorable results. Ladies who had been well brought up, and perhaps received a good education on finding themselves linked for life with men of hard and unsuitable character, have been driven by despair to suicide. A lady was once describing the wretched life she led in consequence of an illassorted marriage; und four unmarried women who heard her story were so affected by it that, fearing they might experience a similar fate, they

It is rare to find a man of twenty-five years, who has not been married. In villages, when parties to the Gazette, is upwards of fifty thousand, and are too poor to get married, the people will some are too poor to get married, the people will sometimes make a collection to enable them to do so. Persons of the same name are not allowed to intermarry, even though they be not related, nei- the Union.

How To BE HAPPY - Do all the good you can. Whenever you hear of a spoor widow, an orphan the trisls took place: that of those, 6 arraigned child, or an aged man who is affliction, pay that individual a visit. Do not hoard up all you carn; give a certain portion of your property to the poor. Never get angry. If you are slandered or imposed upon, better suffer a little than retaliate and use harsh language. Be not proud or selfish. Think no more highly of yourself and your talents than you do of the capacities of others. Pay-all you owe. Keep out of debt. Have nothing to do with lawyers. Get not entangled in the meshes of the laws; avoid it as the sure gate to ruin .-Shun vicious pursuits and unprincipled associates. Honor the Sabhath, serve God, and be devoted to truth and religion. Finally take some useful paper, pay for it in advance, and read it attentively, and our word for it you will be happy. Peace and contentment will smile in your path, joy dance on your connecance, and every lane of life before you will be fraught with blessings rich and abundant.

THE HEN-PECKED .- A friend of ours on Fourth street had a sprightly male Canary bird which he maled a short time since, and Mrs. Canary soon built herself a nest in the cage, laid the right number of eggs and commenced sitting on them. It would seem from what followed, that she now thought herself entitled to exemption from all labor, even that of providing food for herself, and that Mr. Canary was neglectful of her wants.— On Sunday last she came off her nest and went at him, drove him shout the cage, and after picking him severely, returned to her seat on the nest. The result of the thrashing was soon apparent; Mr. Canary has ever since been careful to keep Tunicing Incident .- Pres. Hitchcock, in a letter to the Amherst Express, from Virginia, describing some of the coal mines in that State, elates the following semi-tragic anecdote:-Major W. related to us a very thrilling meident that took place in this vicinity some years ego, which he assured us was, litterally true. A hunwhich he assured us was, litterally true. A future supply funds for the prosecution of the war. It is easily funds for the prosecution of the war. It is well known that in Mexico the property of the chase, found himself sliding down into an old abandoned coal pit. But seizing upon the top of a bush as he slipped down the craggy sides, he whatever is contributed from this quarter is done gratuitously. This is part of the system which the true of the system which the true of the standard of the place. has been indicted, in other modes of giving to the that if he fell he must drop at least 200 feet, and war a religious character. It is denounced as a he dashed into pieces on the rocks beneath. He war of it fidels and heretics against the holy church, struggled in vain to regard a foothold, he heard war of it due is and defends a gainst the noty church, and against Christianity. Those who are familiat with our history and institutions, know full well that there is nothing in either hostile to the Roman Church. A high dignitary of that established the forest returned the echo, but no voice of rescue came with it. The winds whistled around him, and the moon shone upon bis face, but they brought him no relief; his strength rapidly failed; he thought in agony of his family and friends, but he must die an awful death, and advantageous ground in this country, and is advantageous ground g out, and down he went-down-down-swifter and swifter, nor struck the pottom till he had reached the enormous depth of Six Incues.

EDECATION .- We utterly repudiate as unworthy, not of freemen only, but of men, the narrow notion that there is to be an education for the poo as such. Has God provided for the poor a coarset earth, a thinner air, a paler sky ! Does not the special political purpose—to retain their tast passessions, which imposers the nation—to sustain their own hierarchy, which lords it over the people—to preserve their power, which weight down the rest of the community into the slough of ighorance and slavery—that they are thus solicition of luxuriant nature, as the pale sons of kings?— Or is it in the mind that God has stamped the imprint of a base birth, so that the poor man's child knows, with an unborn certainty, that his lot is to erawl, not climb?

It is not so. God has not done it. Man cannot do it. Mind is immortel. Mind is imperial. circumstances. It asks but freedom. It requires but light. It is heaven-born, and it aspires to heaven. Weakness does not enfeeble it. Poverty cannot repress it. Difficulties do but stimulate its vigor; and the poor tallow chandler's son, that sits up all night to read the book which an appren-tice lends him, lest the master's eye should miss it in the morning, shall stand and treat with kings, shall hind the lightening with a hempen cord and bring it harmless from the skies. The common school is common, not as inferior, not as the school for poor men's children, but as the light and air is common. It ought to be the best school, and in all good works the beginning is one half. Who does not know the value to a community of a plentiful supply of the pure element of water?-And infinitely more than this is the common school, for it is the fountain at which the mind drinks, and it is refreshed and strengthened for its career of usefulness and glory .- Bishop Doane.

THE DEAR.-How little do we think of the dead. Their bones lie entombed in all our towns, villages, and neighborhoods. The lands they cul-t vated, the houses they built, the works of their hands are always before us. We travel the same It was reserved for Locofocoism to desecrate the temple of the Most High! gone -- Alas ! forever !

Strange that the living should forget the dead, when the world is full of the mementoes of their lives. Strange that the fleeting cares of life should so soon rush in and fill the breast to the exclusion of those so near. To-day man stands and weeps over the grave of his departed friend; to morrow he passes that grave with cold indifference. Today his heart is wrung with all the bitterness of anguish for the loss of one he so much loved; to-morrow the image of that friend is effaced from his heart and almost forgotten. What a commen. tary upon man!

THE TELEGRAPH LINES .- The Albany Evening Journal refers to the two new Telegraph inventions which are about to be put in operation at the North, and the fact that merchants of New York have subscribed the stock for new lines of Telegraph from New York to Boston, and from New York to Philadelphia. It says House's patent will work; but it is more complicated than Morse's. Prace's invention, however, it considers a gem; simplicity itself. A child, it adds, can catch the entire philosophy of it at a glance. If dead to her father's house; and some time after, it works well, it will prove a successful competito for the golden glories of the system. The Journal does not complain of the courtesy nor the accura-cy of the present lines that it thinks the publis convenience may be promoted by other lines; and winds up with the following very apposite remark in which all mliters will unite: "Competition is the lile of business; and while it may not make lightning travel any faster it may make it perform its astonishing functions at more moderate rates."
