MY HUSBAND USES TOBACCO! The quid goes in when his pipe goes out,

'Tis chew, chew, chew';

Now, a cloud of smoke pours from his throat,
Then his mouth sends a constant stream affoat,
Sufficient to carry a mill or a boat,

'Tis chew, chew, chew.

He sits all day in a smoke or log,

'Tis puff, puff, puff;
He growls at his wife, his cat and his dog,
He covers with fifth the carpet and rug,
And his only answer When I give him a jog,
Is puff, puff, puff.

The house all over, from end to end. in whatever room my way I wend,
If I take his old clothes to patch or mend,
Ungratefor perfunes will ever ascand,
Of smoke, smoke, smoke.

At home or allroad, afar or near. At home or alroad, alar or near,
"Tis smoke, chew, snoke:
His mouth is stuffed from ear to ear.
Or puffing the atump of a pipe so dear
And his days will end, I verily fear,
In smoke, smoke, smoke.

Young ladies, beware! live single, indeed, Ere you marry a man who uses "the weed;" Better that husbands you ever should lack, O, Than marry a "husband who uses tobacco:"

Wit and humor!

A GOOD EXCUSE.—The N. O. Picayun gives the following extraordinary case of the workings of conscience in a voter in that city, who had done more than his duty at the last municipal election :-

All a long a wanting to do what was right, sir, whimpered the prisoner, awakening to a sense of his moral turpitude. 'I'm a victim to conscience, sir. I went in the mornin' and voted one ticket, cause I seed that it was reg'lar it must be right. Pretty soon somebody asked me had I voted, and when I told him I had, he asked me how, and when I told him the reg'lar treket and what names was on it, he told me the country was ruined; that I'd put a rope around every poor man's neck and draw'd the slippery nose tight; that I'd twitched the last morsel of food out of the orphans and betrayed the unhappy widows; checked the current of the Mississippi, abolished the inspection of steamboat bilers, and the gen'ral bursting up of all the steamboats on the river, with an unaccountable loss of life, would be an overture of a dissolution and gen'ral burstin' up of the Union. What a deplorable picture,' said the Recorder. Yes, sir, (said the prisoner sorrowfully.) and 1846. drinkin' and thinkin, and finally I come to the conclusion that if I'd voted wrong I'd balance the law 4

From George Heisler collector, and the conclusion that if I'd voted wrong I'd balance the law 4 drinkin' and thinkin,' and finally I come to the conclusion that if I'd voted wrong I'd halance the matter by heavin' in a ticket on the other side. The responsibility was too great. I couldn' stand up and have every woman and child in the State pint their fingers at me and say there goes the man that's destroyed the Union.

The unhappy victim of conscience was too Oct, much overpowered to proceed further. The Recorder motioned to the officers, and he was removed for further and future examination.

A clergyman in Scotland desired his hearers never to call one another liars, but when one said a thing that was not true, they ought to whistle. One Sunday he preached a sermon on whistle. One Sunday he preached a sermon on the parable of the loaves and fishes, and being at a loss how to explain it, he said that the loaves were not like those now-a-days, they were as big as the hills in Scotland. He scarcely pronounced the words when he heard a loud whis What's that,' said he -who calls me a liar?

BLIGHT IN PEAR TREES CURED. ping of the leaves on one of the limbs, in about three days after the leaves turned black, which made me fear that I should lose my tree. I immediately examined Mr. Downing's work and there found the only remedy was cutting off the affected part, which I did. ed part, which I did.

This stopped the disease as far as the limb was concerned; but still the whole tree began to droop, which led me to examine farther, when I found the bark on the body of the tree to be entirely dead and all cracked open for about 4 feet from the roots upwards. I then immediately prepared some ordinary grafting salve which I melted over a slow fire, and kept it warm till I whittled the whole of the dead bark off of the tree to the naked wood. I then applied two coats of said salve on the tree with a brush, dug about the roots and left it. In about two weeks after, my tree revived ; the fruit, which had not grown for two weeks, commenced growing and ripened well, except it was most of it stung or indented on one side. The pears were Virgalien. My tree now has an entire new bark, and is as full of blossome as can be, and in perfect health, at No 48 Howard street.-Germantown

Telegraph'. -A NEW MODE OF CLAY HOUSES .-Mr. H. Clark, of Tazwell county, informs us that he has built a clay house of the following manner: After laying the foundation and setting the door and window frames, and preparing the mortar by mixing it stiff, he laid it up into a wall without any moulding, or moulds of any kind—making the wall 22 inches in thickness. After putting up as much as would stand properly at once, it was left to dry for two or three days, when a fresh course was put up. When the walls were up, two inches on each side were hewn off, leaving the walls 18 inches thick. They have never been covered; and though they have been built three years, so far from their sudering injury therefrom, he doce not anticipate that any damage would accrue to them if they were to stand thus till doomsday. Prairie Farmer. TO PROTECT CHEESE FROM VERMIN. -Persons who have the superintendance of dairies, are frequently much perplexed in consequence of the liability of insects to get into their cheeses. I have known serious losses ensue from this causo and I publish the following as a preventive.—
When cheeses are deposited in the shelves for maturation and making, if a little New-England Rum be poured over them it will prevent the fly touching them, at least for several days, and by renewing the application they will be kept entirely off. hould there be any 'blows' deposited, the cheese affected may be rid of them almost instanter, by punching several small holes in the superior surface, and pouring in a few drops of proof brandy, new rum or camphor. Brandy however is preferable, as it imparts a more agreeable flavor to the cheese, and being more potent, is more certain and speedy in its effects .- Germantown Telegraph. CUCUMBERS. - A writer in Blackwood, alluding to this vegetable, says that it was regarded as a great luxury by Sultan Mahmoud II., who cultivated it with his own hands in the Seraglio gardens. "Having one day perceived that some of his cucumbers were missing, he sent for his head gardener, and informed him that, should such a circumstance occur again, he would order his head to be cut off. The next day three more cucumbers had been stolen upon which the gar-dener, to save his own head, accused the pages of his highness of having committed the theft .-These unhappy youths were immediately sent for and having all declared themselves innocent, the enraged Sultan, in order to discover the culprit, commanded them one after another to be disem-bowelled. Nothing was found in the stomach or entrails of the first six victims, but the autopsy of the seventh proved him to have been the guilas necessary. On the front of the machine a man was stationed to adjust the forks and circular knives to the height of the wheat which was readily thrown back into the machine. No more was seen of it till another man in the rear part of the machine was seen tying up well filled sacks of pure grain, in perfect order for the flouring mill. CHARCOAL .- The preservative qualities of charcoal are not so generally known as they should be, and I hope you will tell your readers that if they will imbed their smoked beef and pork in pulverized charcoal, they may keep it as long as they please without regard to weather, Tell them, also, that if they will take about a pint of charcoal, also pulverized, and put it into a bag, then put it into a barrel of new cider, it can' never ferment, will never contain any intoxicating quality, and will become more palatable the longer it is kept. Further, take a piece of charcoal of a surface equal to a cubic inch, wrap it in a clean cotton cloth two thicknesses, and made moist, and work about one pound of butter which become rancid, and it will restore it perfectly .-
