PATENT METALLIC ROPES,

FOR THE USE OF MINES, RAHLWAYS, &c.,

For sale, or imported to order, by the subscriber.

THESE Ropes are now almost exclusively used in the Colliaries and on the Railways in Great Britan, and are found to be greatly superior to Hempen ones as regards safety, durability and economy.

The Patent Wire Ropee, have proved to be still in good condition after three year's service, in the same situation where the Hempen ones, previously used, of double the size and weight would wear out in nine or ten months. They have been used for almost every purpose to which Hempen Ropes and chainshave been applied. Mines; Railways, Heavy Granes, Standing Rigging, Window Cords, Bightning Conductors. Signal Halyards, Tiller Ropes, &c. They are made either of Iron or Copper Wire, and in cases of much exposure to dampness, of Calvanized Wire.

Testimonials from the most eminent Engineers in England can be shown as to their efficiency, and any additional information required respecting the different descriptions and application will be given by

Asthma, of every stage, Liver Complaints, Bronchitis, Influenza, Coughs, Coulds, Bleeding of the Luars, Shortness of Breath, pains and weakness in the side, breast, &c., and all other diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

VERY important disease over which this 'Balsam' exets a very powerful influence, is that of a DISEASED LIVER. In this complaint it has undoubtedly proved more efficacious than any remedy hitherto employed, and in numerous instances when patients had endured long and severe suffering from the disease, without receiving the least benefit from various remodies, and when MERCURY has been resorted to in vain, the use of this Balsam has restored the LIVER to a healthy action, and in many instances effected to a healthy action, and in many instances effected PERMANENT CURES, after every known remedy PLEMANEAU CUITES, after every known remedy had failed to produce this effect.

Besides its astonishing efficacy in the disease above mentioned, we also find it a very effectual remedy in ASTIIMA, a complaint in which it has been extensively used with decided success, even in cases of years standing.

I consulted a physician, but have never taken any medicine which has done me so much good as WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. I consider it the BEST medicine in the world for Colds, Coughs, and Pulminary Complaints.

WILLIAM B. SWARTS.

OPINION OF A REGULAR PHYSICIAN.

This certifies that I have recommended the use of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY for diseases of the Lighas, for two year past, and many bottles to my knowledge have been used by my patients, all with beneficial results. In two cases where it was thought confirmed consumption had taken place, the Wild Cherry effected a cure.

With doors still open wide:

But when the happiest time is come,
That to the year belongs,
Of uplands bright with harvest gold,
And meadows full of songs;
When fields of yet unripened corn,
And daily garnering stores,

Of umpler threshing floors—
How pleasant, from the din and dust
Of the thoroughfare shoot,

Political Affairs.

THE TESTIMONY OF A DEMOCRAT AGAINST In Brownson's American Quarterly Review for the month, of July, 1847, the editor appears to have conclusively proved that the war with Mexico is uncalled for, impolitic, and unjust." Mr. Brownson is known to wield, a powerful pen; he has been for many years considered as no mean champion of Democracy; in support of which he obtained considerable celebrity while editor of the on Mexico. But since he cannot fasten it on "Democratic Review." He is still the political Mexico—for war did not already exist, or if so, by friend of the President, and an adherent of the our act, and not here—it necessarily recoils upon party by whom he was elected. It was, there—himself, and he must bear the responsibility of dofore, certainly not to be expected that such a man, in such a position, would so completely demolish every argument advanced by Mr. Polk and his In effect, therefore, he has trampled the Constitufriends in support of the present war, as Mr. Brownson has done. He has thus, voluntarily, rendered a service to truths, for which the Demo crats will never forgive him. But we will allow him to speak for himself :

"For ourselves, we have regarded the Mexican war from the first as uncalled for, impolitic, and unjust. We have examined the documents published by order of the government; we have read the official defence of the war in the last annual Message of the President to Congress, and with every disposition to find our own government in the right; but we are bound to say, that our original impressions have been strengthened rather than weakened. The President, undoubtedly, makes it clear that he had many just causes of complaint against Mexico, which at the time of their occurrence might have justified reprisals, perhaps even war,-but he cannot plead these in istification of the present war; for they were not the ground on which we professed to engage in it. The official announcement of the President to Congress was that war already existed between the two republics, by the act of Mexico herself and whatever use we may make of old grievance in adjusting the terms of peace, we can make no use of them in defending the war. We can plead in its defence only the fact on which we grounded it, namely, war exists by the act of Mexico her-self. But unappily, at the time of the official announcement, war did not exist between the two republics at all, for neither republic had declared war against the other. There had been a ollision of their forces, but this was not war, a the President would probably have conceded, had he known or recollected the distinction between war and hostilities. By placing the war on the ground that it existed by the act of Mexico, and that ground being false, he has fleft it wholly indefensible, whatever the old grievances we may have to allege against Mexico.

"The fact of Mexico in cossing the Rio Grande, and engaging our troops on territory which she had possessed and still claimed as hers, but which we asserted had, by a recent act against which she had protested, become ours,—the act which the President chose to inform Congress and the world was wor-may or may not have been a just cause for declaring war against her, but it assuredly was not war itself. We have no intention to justify Mexico. She may have been decidedly in the wrong; she may have had no valid title to the territory of which the President had just taken military occupation; that territory may have been rightfully ours, and it may even have been the duty of the President to occupy and defend it; but it cannot be denied that she had once possessed it; that it was still a part of one of her states or provinces; that she still claimed it, and had continued to exercise jurisdiction over it, till driven from it by our army of oc-cupation; that she invaded it with an armed force, invasion it can be called, not as territory benging to us, but as territory belonging to her; and that she attacked our troops, not for the reason that they were ours, but for the reason, as she held,—and she had as good a right to be judge in her own case as we had in ours,—that they were intruders, trespassers on her soil. The mo tive of her act was not war sgainst the United States, but the expulsion of intruders from her own tergitory.

No sophistry can make her act war,—certainly not without conceding that our act in taking military possession of that territory was also war; and if that was war, then the war, if it existed at all: existed by our act and not by hers, for her act was consequent upon ours. The most that the President was at liberty to say, without condemning his own government, was, that there had been s collision of the forces of the two, republics on a territory claimed by each; but this collision he had no right to term war, for every body knows that it takes something more than a collision of their respective forces on a disputed territory to constitute a war between two civilized nations.-In no possible point of view was the announce ment of the President that war existed between the two republics, and existed by the act of Mexico, correct. It did not exist at all; or if it did, it existed not by act of Mexico, but by our act. In either case, the official announcement was false, and cannot be defended.

The President may have been governed by patriotic motives; he may have felt that prompt and energetic action was required; he may have believed that in great emergencies the chief magis-trate of a powerful republic, having to deal with a weak and distracted state, should lise superior to pear original, he has placed his country in a falso position, and debarred himself, whatever the just causes of war Mexico may have given us, from pleading one of them in justification of the actual > norality, which he may regard as a small matter, but has even committed a blunder. "The course the President should have pursuthings on the frontier, the critical condition of our army of occupation, he should have demanded of Congress the reinforcements and supplies necessary to relieve it and secure the purpose for which it was avowedly sent to the Rio Grande; and, if he believed it proper or necessary, to have, in addition, laid before Congress a full and truthful statement of our relations with Mexico, including all the unadjusted complaints, past and present, we had against her, accompanied by the recommendation of a declaration of war. He would then have kept within the limits of his duty, proved himself a plan constitutional President, and feit the responsibility of war or no war to and their motion; and there is something awful might, or might not, have declared war,—most likely would not; but whether so or not, the responsibility would have rested with it, and no blame would have attached to the President.

In the true issue, Congress might have hesitated in the one actually presented there was no room to hesitate, if the official announcement of the President was to be credited, and hesitation would have been criminal. By declaring the the proportion of the president was to be credited. that the war already existed, and by the act of Mexico horself, the President relieved Congress of the responsibility of the war, by throwing it all Mexico-for war did not already exist, or if so, by ing what the Constitution forbids him to do of making war without the intervention of Congress. tion under his feet, set a dangerous precedent, and, by the official publication of a palpable falsehood, sullied the national honor. It is with no pleasure that we speak thus of the chief magistrate of the Union, for whose elevation to his high and responsible office we ourselves voted. But whatever may be our attachment to party, or the respect we hold to be due from all good citizens to the civil magistrate, we cannot see the Constitu-tion violated, and the national honor sacrificed, whether by friend or foc, from good motives or bad, without entering, feeble though it be, our stern and indignant protest.

SOUND DOCTRINE.-The editor of the. Sunbury American, a locofoco paper, holds the following views, which are really admirable in a locofoco: "General Irvin, though a Whig, we know to be a liberal minded and honorable man. In advocating the election of Governor Shunk, we shall certainly not so far forget our regard for truth, consistency and self-respect, as to raduce Gen. Irvin as an Iron master, or be guilty of the still more contemptible conduct of impugning his motives on account of his munificent donations and the liberal distribution of his means for charitable purposes, or the law demagogueism which would array the people against him on account of his wealth. Such appeals are degrading to the character of the Press—disgraceful to those. oncorned, and unworthy the character of a free and enlightened people. Charity is one of the noblest virtues that can be practised by matt, and s much too sacred to be made the subject of criticism by soulless editors or profane partisans." A little further on, in in the same article, he says: -" To stigmatize a man as an iron master may injure him in the eyes of some; but in this secion of the State it would rather have a contrary effect."

> FIRE AND EXCITING SCENE.-A. fire occurred in the store and factory of Mr. Kirkman, New York, on Thursday morning. So sudden and quick was the spread of the flames that Mr. K. and his family came very near being destroyed by them. "One of his daughters, Miss Margaret Kirkman, a young lady about 19 yerrs of age, only escaped, after being severely burnt, by jumping from the fourth story front window of the room in which she slept. It was for some moments a scene of the most thrilling and agonizing interest to those who had assembled in front of the burning building. The fourth story, though even with the rest of the edifice, has very small attic windows. At one of these Miss K. appeared, shricking in alarm, the fire evidently behind her and the smoke pouring out over her head. No ladders had 'yet arrived. and her destruction seemed inevitable at first, to escape the flames, by which she had been already severely burnt, got out on the sill of the window, but it was evident she must soon perish there, and the cry was raised for her to jithip —other voices, among which by this time, was that of her father, exclaiming: 'Not yet, wait at moment till we get ready for you.' A feather bad was instantly procured, held about three feet from the ground by six gallant hearts, who were in great jeopardy that she might fall upon and injure some f them, but they heeded not and cared not for that. By this time Miss Kirkman, to escape from the smoke and flames, was compelled to let herself down, and was seen hanging by her extended arms from the window, 'Jump now,' was the cry.— Vast numbers of persons had now assembled, and were lookers on the agonizing scene. The young lady soon let go her hold from that dizzy hoight of opwards of lifty feet, and in an instant was whirled towards the sidewalk.
