[The following letters are a prelude to the observa tions of Dr. Hiester apon the ruins, of Pompeii Herculancum, &c., which we shall lay before our readers next week, if our limits permit. This will conclude our extracts from this interesting book.].

Letters of Pliny the younger to Tacitus, containing an account of the destruction of Pompeii-A. D. 79.

Your request that I would send you an account of my uncle's death, in order to transmit a more exact relation of it to posterity, deserves my acknowledgements; for, if this accident shall be celebrated by your pen, the glory of it, I am well assured, will be rendered for ever illustrious. And notwithstanding he perished by a misfortune, which, as it involved at the same time a most beautiful country in ruins, and destroyed so many populous cities, seems to promise him an everlast ing remembrance; notwithstanding he has himself composed many and lasting works; yet I am perspaded the mentioning of him in your immortal works will greatly contribute to eternize his name. Happy I esteem those to be, whom Providence stinguished with the abilities either of doing such actions as are worthy of being related, or of relating them in a manner worthy of being read; but doubly, happy are they who are blessed with both these uncommon talents; in the number of which my uncle, as his own writings and your history will evidently prove, may justly be ranked. It is with extreme willingness, therefore, I execute your commands, and should indeed have claimed the task, if you had not enjoined it.

He was at that time with the fleet under his command at Misenum. On the 24th of August, about one in the afternoon, my mother desired him to observe a cloud which appeared of a very unusual size and shape. He had just returned from taking the benefit of the sun," and after bathing himself in cold water, and taking a slight repust, was retired to his study. He immediately arose and went out upon an eminence, from whence he might more distinctly view this very uncommon appearance. It was not at that distance discerniple from what mount in this cloud issued, but it was found afterwards to ascend from Mount Vesuvius.† I cannot give a more exact description of its figure, than by resembling it to that of a pine tree, for it shot up a great heat in the form of a trunk, which extended itself at the top into a sort of branches; occasioned, I imagine, either by a sudden gust of air that impelled it, the force of which decreased as it advanced upwards, or the cloud itself being pressed back again by its own weight, expanded in this manner; it appeared sometimes bright and sometimes dark and spotted, as it was more or less impregnated with earth and cinders. This extraordinary phenomenonexcited my uncle sphilosophical coriosity to take a nearer view of it. He ordered a light vessel to be got ready, and gave me the liberty, it I thought proper, to attend him. I rather chose to continue my studies; for, as it happened, he had given me an employment of that kind. As he was coming out of the house, he received a note from Rectina, the wife of Bassus, who was in the utmost alarm at the imminent danger which threatened her; for her villa being situated at the foot of Mount Vesuvius, there was no way to escape but by sea; she earnestly entreated him, therefore, to come to her assistance. He accordingly changed his first der sign, and what be liegan with a philosophical, he pursued with a heroic turn of mind. He ordered the gallies to put to sea, and went himself on board with an intention of assisting not only Rectina, but several others; for the villas stand extremely thick upon that beautiful coast. When hastening to the place from whence others fled with the utmost terror, he steered his direct course to the point of danger, and with so much calmless and presence of mind, as to be able to make and dictate observations upon the motion and figure of that dreadful scene. He was now so nigh the mountain, that the cinders, which grew thicker and hotter the nearer-he approached, tell into the ships, together with 2 pumice-stones, and black pieces of burning tock; they were likewise in danges, not only of being aground by the sudden retreat of the sea: but also from the vast Iragobstructed all the shore. Here he stopped to consider whether he should return; to which the pilot advising him, " Fortune," he said, "befriends the brave; carry me to Pomponianus." Pomponianus was then at Stabiæ, separated by a gulf, able, however, for carrying my uncle to Pomponi anus, whom he found in the greatest consternation: he embraced him with tenderness, encouraging and exhorting him to keep up his spirits, and the more to dissipate his fears, he ordered with an air of unconcern the baths to be got ready; when, after having bathed, he sat down to supper with great cheerfulness, or at least (what is equally heroic) with all the appearance of it. In the meanwhile, the cruption from Mount Vesuvius flamed out in several places with much violence, which the darkness of the night contributed to render still more visible and dreadful. But my uncle, in order to soothe the springhensions of his friend, assured him that it was only the burning of the villages, which the country people had abandoned to the flames: after this he retired to rest, and t is most certain he was so little discomposed as to fall into a deep sleep; for being pretty fat, and breathing hard, those who attended him without actually heard him snore. The court which fed to his apartment being now almost filed with stones and asies; if he had continued there any time longer, it would have been impossible for which the sea, after several insensible windings, forms upon the shore. He had already sent his

of it, and, indeed, extremely near, if it should in the least increase, he was determined to put to sea as soon as the wind should change. It was favor-baggage on board; for though he was not at that in actual danger, yet being within the view proper, therefore, to awaken him. He got up, and went to Pomponianus and the rest of his company; who were unconcerned enough to think of going to bed. They consulted together wnother it would be most prudent to tru-t to the houses, which now shook from side to side with frequent and violent; concussions; or fly to the open fields where the calcined stones and cinders, though light indeed, yet fell in large showers, and threatened destruction. In this distress they resolved for the fields, as the less dangerous situation of the two; a resolution which, while the rest of the company were flurried into by their fears, my uncle embraced upon cool and deliberate consideration. They went out then, having pillows tied upon their heads with napiens, and this was their whole defence against the storm of stones that fell around them. It was now day every where else, but there a deeper darkness prevailed than in the most obscure night; which, however was in some degree dissipated by tyrches and dither lights of various kinds. They thought proper to go down farther upon the shore, to obrve if they might safely put out to ser; but they found the waves still run extremely high and bois terous. There my unelo, having drunk a draught the cloth which was spread for him, when immediately the flinies, and a strong smell of sulphur, need confugration. which was the forerunner of them, dispered the rest of the company, and obliged him to rise. He raised himself up with the assistance of two servants, and instantiv fell down deal; sufficated, as I conjectured, by some gross and noxious vapour, having always had weak lungs, and being frequently subject to a defibulty of breathing. As soon as it was light again, which was not till the third day after this melancholy accident, his body was found entire, and without any marks of violence upon it, exactly in the same posture that he fell, and looking more like a man a leep than dead. During all this time my mother and I were at Misenum. But as this has no connection with your history, so your inquiry went no farther than concerning my uncle's death; with that, therefore, I will put an end to my letter; suffer me only to add, that I have faithfully related to you what I was either an eye-witness of mysell, or conceived immediately after the accident happened, and before there was time to vary the truth You will whose out of this narrative such circum-stances as shad to most suitable to your purpose; for there is a great difference between what is proper for a letter and a history; between writing to a triend, and writing to the public. Farewest! LETTER II. "The letter which, in compliance with your request, I wrote to you concerning the death of my uncle, has raised, it seems, your curiosity to know what terrors and dangers attended me while I continued at Misenum; for there, I think, the acount in my former broke off.

Though my shocked soul recoils, my tongue shall tell. ? "My uncle having left us, I pursued the studies which prevented my going with him, till it was time to bathe. After which I went to supper, and from thence to bed, where my eleep was greatly broken and disturbed. There had been, for many days before, some shocks of an earthquake, which less surprised us as they are extremely frequen in Campania; but they were so particularly violent that night, that they not only shook every-thing about us, but seemed indeed to threaten destruction. My mother flew to my chamber, where she found me rising in order to awaken her. Wo went out into a small court belonging to the house, which separated the sea from the buildings. As

was at that time but eighteen years of age, know not whether I should call my behavior, in this dangerous juncture, courage or rashness; but I took up Livy, and amused myself with turning over that author, and even making extracts from im, as if all about me had been in full security. While we were in this posture, a friend of my uncle's, who was just come from Spain to pay him a visit, joined us; and observing me sitting by my mother with a book in my hand, greatly coudemned her calmaess, at the same time that he reproved me for my careless security. Nevertheless I still went on with my author. Though it was now morning, the light was exceedingly faint and languid; the buildings all around us tottered, and though we stood upon open ground, yet, as the place was narrow and confined, there was no resining without certain and great danger; we therefore resolved to quit the town. The people followed us in the utmost consternation, and, as to a mind distracted with terror, ever a suggestion seems more prudent than its own, pressed in greatcrowds about us in our way out. Being got at convenient distance from the houses, we stood still in the midst of a most dangerous and dreadful scene. The chariots which we had ordered to be drawn out, were so agitated backwards and forwards, though upon the most level ground, that we could not keep them steady, even by supporting them with large stones. The sca scemed to roll back upon itself, and to be driven from its hanks by the convulsive motion of the earth; it is certain at least the shore was considerably enlared, and several sea animals were left upon it. On the other side a black and dreadful cloud, bursting with an igneous serpentine vapor, darted out a long train of fire, resembling flashes of lightning. but much larger. Upon this our Spanish friend, whom I mentioned above, addressing himself to my mother and me with great warmth and earnestness: If your brother and your uncle,' said he are safe, he certainly wishes you may be so too; but if he perished, it was his desire, no doubt, that you might both survive him ; why, therefore, do you delay your escape for a moment?' . 'We could never think of our own safety,' we said, while we were uncertain of his.' Hereufron our friend les us, and withdrew from the danger with the utmost precipitation. Soon afterwards the cloud seemed descend, and cover the whole ocean; as indeed t entirely hid the sland of Capra and the prommary of Miseaum. My mother strongly conjued me to make my escape at any rate, which as I was young, I might easily do: as for herself, she said her age and corpulency rendered all attempts f that sail impossible. However she would wiltingly meet death, if she could have the satisfaction of seeing that she was not the occasion of mine. But I absolutely refused to leave her, and taking her by the hand, I led hor on; she chimplied with great reluctance, and not without many reproaches to herself, for retarding my flight. The ashes now began to fill upon us, though in no great quantity. I furned my head and observed behind us a thick smoke, which came rolling after us like a torrent. I proposed, while we had yet any light, to turn out of the high road, lest we should be pressed to death in the dark by the crowd that followed us. We had scarce stepped out of the path, when darkness overspread us, not like that of a cloudy night, or when there is no moon, but of a room when it is shut up and all the lights others for their parents, others for their husbands, inguishing each other by their voices; family; some wishing to die from the very fear of dying; some lifting their hands to the Gods; but the greater part imagining that the last and eternal night was come, which was to destroy the Gods and the world together. Among these were some who augmented the real terrors by imaginary ones, and made the frightened multiude falsely believe that Misenum was actually n flames. At length a glimmering light appeared which we imagined to be rather the forerunner of an approaching burst of flames, as in truth it was, than the return of day. However the fire fell at distance from us: then again we were immersed n thick darkness, and a heavy shower of ashes sined upon us, which we were every now and then obliged to shake off, otherwise we should have been crushed and buried in the heap. I might hoast that, during all this scene of horgor, not a sigh or expression of fear escaped from me, had not my support been founded in that miserable though strong consolation-that a'l mankind were involved in the same calamity, and that I imagined I was perishing with the world itself! At last this dreadful darkness was dissipated by degrees, like a cloud of smoke; the real day returned, and even the sun appeared, though very faintly, and as when an ecopse is coming on. Every object that presented itself to our eyes (which were extremely weakened) seemed changed, being covered over with white ashes, as with a deep snow. We returned to Misenum, where we refreshed ourselves as well as we could, and passed an anxious night between hope and fear; though indeed with a much larger share of the latter; for the earthquake still continued, while several enthusiastic people ran up and down, , him to have made his way out; it was thought heightening their own and their friends' calamities by terrible predictions. However, my mother and I. notwithstanding the danger we had passed, and that which still threatened us, had no thoughts of leaving the place till we should receive some account from niv uncle. · And now you will read this narrative withou any view of inserting it in your history, of which it is by no means worthy; and indeed you must impute it to your own request if it shall deserve the trouble of a letter.

Mr. George T. Warrington, residing in York atreet, Federal Hill, Baltimore, was attacked with a violent cough and sore throat, after trying many remedies, was induced by a friend to use Hance's Compound Syrup of Hoarbound, and before using one bottle was entirely cured. ANOTHER YET MORE ASTONISHING! ANOTHER YET MORE ASTONISHING:
Mrs. Henrietta Merrick, residing in Monument street hetween Cahal and Eden streets, was attacked with a very severe/cough and hain in the breast, which was so intense that it extended to the shoulders. She was afflicted also with a pain in the side.

After trying many remedies, she was persuaded by a friend to use Hance's Compound Syrup of Horehound, and, after being three doses, she experienced great relief, and beforeshe had finished the bottle, was entirely lief, and before she had misned the bottles for $2.50.

THIS spiendid equestrian company, composed entritely of STAR PERFORMERS, will exhibit under their spiendid Water Proof Parition, commodiously furnished for the comfortable reception of 3000 persons at Mirersville on Friday, the 5th, and Pottsville on Saturday, October 6th, in the afternood and evening, admiss in 25 cents.

Index redent of Willis' celebrated Brass Band, the company will be saluted on their arrival, by Mr. Wallace s String Band, playing airs from the most popular, Operus.

tace s String Band, playing airs from the most popular Operas.

In the evening the pavilion will be illuminated by the palent sylvic Gas, invented by B. F. Caston, Esq., of the United States Navy. Department, Washington. It is an entirely new method, giving a superior light; fee from all nauseous effucio, the fault of all other attempts, and casting a light scarcely less brilliant than the noorday sun.

Constituting this company will be found Mr. J. G. Cadvallader, who will ride his much admired acts of the Russian Enroy, the Terrors of a Sorcere of Siam, and the beautiful episode of the Sprite with the lost wing, on 2, 3, and 4 howes.

Madame Louisa Howard, the great NATIVE FEMALE SORDESTRIAN, whose dimirable personations on a sin-whose infinite IEST and FUN, unstained by rubeness and vulgarity, places him far beyond the reach of impartion.

Mr. Horare Nichols, the Prince of Ring Masters.

The Rivers Family, whose union of fatent is without a parallel in the world. Charles Rivers the most finished artist in his arrangement and execution of seenes and, symmastic groups. Frederick Rivers presents every kind of foreign art, that can surprise by movelty and Master Richard Rivers. (the "injunitable,") will perform his act on a single horse, as performed hefore the President and Senators of the United States, and by all present declared the most perfect union of WONDER AND GRACE the world over knew.

Master T. Neville, who has acquired the rare art of riding and executing the most difficult feats backwards, on a single horse.

Mr. Hu. Stow. will ride his fine classic acts on 2, 3, and 4-horses, forming a pyramid of five persons, whom he will bear above his horses at lighting speed.

Signier Germani, the mighty Italian equestrian, will ride his incredible nicromantic seenes, introducing "Less batuns du diable," and his Galden Peletons, &c., &c.—He will also bring fotward his two wonderful dogs, whose feats are without equal in the arena.

Mr. Hunard, the Spanish scenic rider, and great representative of the Red Man of the Forest.

Mr. Charles Fister, who rides a great dramatic scene and a grand Mittury act, entitled:

10NOR TO OUR HEROES.

Or All for our Country, in which, by the nid of correct costume, be will represent the Chief Patriarch praying

Or All for our Country, in which, by the aid of correct costume, he will represent the Chief Patriarch praying for his country; GEN. ZACK TAYLOR at Monterey; HIRAM STIFF, a Yankee volunteer; Santa Anna, the commander of Mexico; concluding with the SOLDIER OF FREEDOM, bearing the memorable resolve:

TIME subscriber respectfully invites the public to call at Mr. Whifield's Store, Centre street, and examine his assortment of C. Meyer's GRAND' ACTION PIANOS of Philadelphia.

The instruments are highly approved of by the most eminent Professors and Composers of music. For qualities of tune, touch, and keeping in time up the coupert pitch, they cannot be surpassed by either American or European Planos. They are chosen by all musical stars for their centerts, such as Madame Castellan, Leopold de Meyer, Vieux Temps, Burk; Wallace. Templefon and many others: they are used for 200 or 300 concerts every year. They have also received the first premiums of the three last exhibitions, and the last sil ver medal by the Franklin Institute was awarded to preminings of the three last exhibitions, and the last street medal by the Franklin Institute was awarded to them. The subscriber wafrants these instruments for the vear. He keeps themeconstantly on hand and sells often at the lowest manufacturer's prices for reisonable terms. B. A. Fahnestock's Vermituge.

Facts for the People.

The constantly increasing popularity and salv of B.

A. Fahnestock's Vermituge has induced persons who are cervious of its success, to paim off upon the public preparations which all medical mun know to be inesticated in the property of the salve of the kind now used; and, while many worm remedies have, by dintofpoiling, been forced into sale, and shortly after gone into the obscurity which their worthlessness justly merited, B. A. Fahnestock's Vermituge continues to be triumphantly sustained. It has only, to be used and its effects will fully sustain all that is said of its wonderful expelling power.

Wales, Eric Co., New York, Jan. 7, 1843.

We certify that we have used B. A. Fahnestock's Vermituge in our families, and in every case it has provided a decided and effectual tenedy for expelling worms from the system. We cordially recommend it to parents who have children afflicted with that dangerous malady.
