As, the thick forest through,
Auggins—as-usital, "blue"—
When all at once he "brought up" right
Against an old dead yew,
At which he "munded to,"
And "squaring off," as if for fight,
Said, with an oath I shan't indite:
"—infernal seounder lou!
Light, an' I'll lick you, black or white."
An owl, which on a branch did 'light,
A few feet o'er the boozy wight,
And then commenced: "Tu whoo.

Interesting Love Story .- At the sea bath ing town of Schevening in Holland, the population is composed principally of fishermen, some of whom become very wealthy. The sea is gener-ous to them, and fortune seems to have taken their village under her protection.

Last year a young lord, whose finagees were more shattered than his health, came to take sea baths at Schevening, not by order of his physicians, but to e-cape from his creditors, who pressed him rather too closely in London. Here at the village of Schevening he fixed his retteat, and in the idleness of bath life, he annused himself, pour passer le temps, in paying court to a young girl whose beauty was the talk of the country all around. The lady took the tender protestarious of the young man seriously, and returned with a sincere affection the captrice of which she was the object. The romance was about to be wound up by the departure of the young dandy and the abandonment of his victim when the further of the young lady interfered. He was a retired fisherman of Schevening. One day the gentleman, coming to make his accustomed visit, met, instead from the cities of Clothing and Gentlemen's Turnishing. Store.

any preamble, said:
"I know what is going on, you love my daugh; ter; very well, I give her to you-marry her." Arthis strange proposition the young laid, not withstanding his embarrassment, could not check a violent burst of laughter.

The Dutchman remained unmoved, and went on; after having shook the ashes from his pipe. "I know that you are a gentleman, and this displeases me, berruse I do not like this kind of people. I know, too, that you have not a cous, but that is of little importance. I am comfortable, and; can give my daughter a pretty little At the words prefly little dowry, the young

"Six hundred thousand florins," cried the young ford, " fifty thousand pounds sterling twelve hundred thousand French francs!" "Yes," replied the Dutchman, puffing out clod of smoke.

"Do you give this to your daughter, you Schevening fisherman !" "Oh," answered the Dutchman, "I have not made all this by fishing. I have carried on a little trading, a little piracy, a little negro dealing. This last article wounds your liberal opinions, you Englishmen, the partizans of emancipation, I sup-

Penetrated with a deep sense of gratitude for the benefit experienced by the use of Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar, and hat others, who, like me, have languished through years of affliction and suffering, without being able to find a remedy, may know where it can be obtained, I voluntarily make the following statement:

About 4 very since after being efforted with a violation. out being able to find a remedy, may know where it can be obtained. I voluntarily make the following statement: About 4 years since, after being afferted with a violent cold it left me a troublesome and severe cough. Whilst the cough continued, which was, with scarcely any intermission, during this long period, language fails to tell what I have suffered from debility, pains in the breast and side, night sweats, difficult expectoration, oppressed breathing, and, in fact, all those symptoms which mark a severe pulmonary affection. The relief occasionally obtained by the discharge of the matter which obstructed the healthy action of my system, but increased my fears, as the purulent matter discharged was frequently streaked with blood.

During this time I was under the treatment of several physicians, fand took many of those preparations recommended as servicable in the cases of others, but without relief; and I, at length, concluded that a cure, in my case, was hopeless. But how agreeably changed is now my opinion! I have used, for about three weeks. Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar. By the use of one bottle my cough has been relieved and my system reinvigorated, and by continuing its use up to this time. I am satisfied that my complaint is entirely removed and eradicated.

Planting Fruit Trees .- Peach stones and pple trees will both vegetate and propagate kinds f we lot them have their own way. But we cannot afford to let the fruit fall and loose it-we want the meat for us and the seed for propagation.—
When a peach falls from a tree in sward land, if it is suffered to lie there it will be likely to grow; the meat keeps the stone moist for a time and it soon becomes imbedded in the grass so far as to preserve its vegetating powers.

But though nature provides in this way for the propagation of trees and fruits, yet it will not folw that we must let every seed take its natural. cousse. Such a theory would wholly exclude cultivation; and skill in gardening would be of o avail. We follow nature, we imitate her in the great outline, but she wants our assistance. We are not to thwart or obstruct her course, but to clear away and give her room for acti Thus we are obliged to prepare land for grain and to check as far as possible the growth of everything that would obstruct it. Grain and corn would make but poor progress if we aban-dened them to nature. Yet we are always obliged to consult her when we aim at improvement. We are obliged to be cautious whenever we attempt/to counterast her energies. If we trim a tree severely it dies. If we furnish too much arlificial food for it we run a risk of losing it by repletion, as all animals may be injured by food too rich.

In planting seeds we are not obliged to tread exactly in nature's footsteps, but we must not be regardless of her general laws. If we bury stone fruit as deep as we do potatoes or other roots we lose our labor. Indian corn will vegetate when buried so deep as to smother many kinds of grass seed. Ctesnuts, horse-chesnuts, cherries, and many other fruits will bear but a very slight covering of earth. In our own nursery we tried for several years to propagate the horsechesnut by planting the nuts, but not a single one was found to vegetate. We gave the note but a slight covering of earth in outumn, yet they could not penetrate this covering. Afterwards some man of experience told us the huts must not be covered in the slightest degree with earth; that they must be buried in leaves or grass and they would grow. We took the hint from this, and planted some horse-chesnuts in the grass on sward land, and buried them with strips of board. In the spring in removing the boards we found the nuts had sprouted, and by placing some earth about the shoots we reared some real horse chesnut-trees-the first that ever sprung from the nuts in that vicinity.

We advise to the cracking of the peach stones at the time of planting because they have not always been kept as fresh as they should be. -[Mare Ploughman Treatment of the Horse -I will state a few things that I have learned, and they may be of benefit to others. A horse that is driven on hard roads is liable to get stiff in the joints. In 1831'I had an animal, after driving three or four days, which got quite lame. An old Baltimore erably salt brine which was done accordingly three times a day for the balance of the journey. The stiffness disappeared in a few days, and I drove the mare 1400 miles afterwards, and there was no more trouble on that account. What pleased me most was the mare had a very poor foot to hold a shoe when I started. It was very brittle and hard; it would break out when a nail was put in. . But it grew together at every shoeing. A black smith n New England remarked that her foot had a Singular appearance; where he pared, it was soft and tough. I account for it in this way: salt will attract moisture from the atmosphere, which keeps the foot moist all the time; salt has nearly the same effect that grease has on a foot or a piece of timber. Drippings from salt on a floor if continued long, cannot be got off; the wood becomes moist and tough, and so a horse's foot. After washing the leg, turn up the horse's foot, clean the bottom, pour the hollow full of brine, hold for a few minutes to soak the bottom. The practice of rasping the foot all over to toughen it, is abom-

Productions of the U. S. The Patent ofice report furnishes the following important information: Wheat, oats, rye, Indian corn, potatoes, hav, and tobacco, are raised in every State and Territory in the Union. Barley is raised in all except Louisiana. Buckwheat is raised in all except Louisiana and Florida. The New England States, and New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin, do not raise cotton. The States that do not raise cotton, raise cotton. The states that up not raise cotton, together with Maryland, Delaware, and Indiana do not raise rice. Iowa is the only State that raises silk. Every State except Delaware makes sugar. New York raises the most barley, 1,802. 282 bushels: potatoes, 21,907,553 bushels; and hay, 4,595,936 tons. Ohio raises the most wheat, 10,786,705 bushels. Pennsylvania raises the most rye, 8,429,256 bushels; and buckwheat, 6,408,509 bushels. Tennessee raises the most corn, 67,738,447 bushels. Virginia raises the nost flax and hemp, 31,726 pounds. Kentucky raises the most tobacco, 72,322,543 pounds.—Georgia raises the most cotton, 148,175,129 lbs. South Carolina raises the most rice, 66,892,207

How to preserve Eggs.—A gallon pot is filled with eggs; and one pint of lime, of the consistency of common white wash, poured in, and the pot filled with water. A board is then placed on the top, and the water, which is never changed, as well as the eggs, remains pure and sweet.— This practice is the one most common in France, the inhabitants of which, to their love of frogs and soup, add also, it appears, a very commenda-

Roger Sherman's Plough.—Among the many curious things now exhibiting at the Mehanics' Fair, in Boston, one of the most interesting is a plough which formerly belonged to that distinguished patriot, Roger Sherman, of Conn., one of the signers of the Declaration of ndependence.
