It clearly shows that Wistar's Bal-sam of Wild Cherry has attained a high reputation in Batavia as well as in this city: ... BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY — This is one of the very few patent medicines of the day which we can re-commend with confidence to all who are affected with Coughs, Colds, or Consumption, or who are preliapsoed to the latter complaint. It has been used with conside-rable advantage by many families in town, and in a few stubborn cases has produced highly beneficial effects. Editors, Jawyers, clergymen, and almost every class, have at last found out that Wistar's Balsam of Wild (Cherry is what 'tt is cracked up to be.'' the very best medicine to be found. A MODERN MIRACLE!

SERMONS IN STONES .- "Shakapeare read "sermon "in stones," but we doubt whether he ever dreamt of deriving a rope from the same source. And yet if a sermon," why not a "long yarn ?" Modern inge-Inuity has not found it a thing impossible. A rope nearly three miles long, now lies on the verge of the borough of Gateshead, which was the other day a "stone in the bowels of the earth ! Smelted, the stone yielded iron. The iron was converted into wire. The wire was brought to the wire-rone manufactory, and "there twisted into a line 4,660 yards long! It is, we made. It weighs 20 tons 5 cwt, and will cost the pur-*chasers upwards of 1,134l. It is intended for, the inscling on the Edinburgh and Glasgow Railway, near the latter city. A rope of hemp, of equal strength, "would weigh 33] tons, and cost about 3001, more."

[Galeshead Observer The Rope referred to in the above extract from "a English paper, was manufactured under the Patent, the agency of which, for the United States, is advertised in this paper. We have been furnished with the following particulars respecting this patent : It is a new method of laying wires round a core, hemp, or other fibrous substance, to form a strand, and laying such strands cound a core to form a rope, the machinery being so constructed as to prevent the separate wires from being twisted in themselves. It will always be found that a wire twisted in itself will be materially weakened in proportion to the num ber of twists in a given length. This machinery has the important advantages of not only effectually preventing the wires from being individually twisted, but by laying several wires into a strand and several strands into a Rope, at one and the same time, it will make a much more perfect Rope than when the strands are fin made and afterwards laid into a Rope by hand. The angle of the lave of a six-strand Rope is as follows : Diameter of Rope, i + + + 1 1+ Inches. One twist in 6 7:8 9 10 11 Inches In order to preserve them as much as possible from decay, the hempen cores are saturated with a solution of Caoutchouc in Caoutchouceine (liquid India Rub-

The Rope is coated externally, either with a mixtur of six parts tar, iwo parts linseed oil, and one part talfow, mixed together and applied hot ; or with the same solution as above. This should be occasionally renewed. The attention of Miners and others is particularly called to these Ropes, which have proved so efficacious, durable and economical as to supercede entirely al other means, in the mines, and on the Incline plane in England, and on the continents of Europe. They are used in many of the mines in our region with the best success, and it will not be long before it supercedes entirely the himpen rope, and those in general ouse heretofore, as they are much stronger, durable, and economical.

We continue to hold the agency for the sale of this Rope, and shall be happy to fulfil orders.

The Outside Pages should not be skipped, by any means. The Farmer will find his column well filled, and the hints thrown out might no doubt be acted upon with advantage. The lovers of fun may have their risibles excited in reference to the column "devoted erclusively to that object," On the first page, we have the pleasure of presenting several excellent poetical effu sions-the first from the pen of a very young lady, and the second from that of Mr. J. Bayard Taylor-both special pets of N. P. Willis. As for the other matter read and judge for yourselves !

ANECDOTE OF A RAT. An incident occurred the other day in our composing room, which forcibly illustrates the mischievous ingenuity of the rat tribe. Rats, so called, are generally well known in the depredations they are wont to coin mit upon the profession ;-but it is only the four-legged customers that have boldly invaded our territory, and carried off sumps of candles, contrary to the usuges of peaceable nations. At the cellar door we have a trough in which the candiesticks are deposited, and at the back end of the room, under the composing-stone, some five or-six pounds of candles are kept in a bundle. The rats were always welcome to such spoliations as could be had from the candle-sticks, but we were always op believe, the stoutest rope of the kind that was ever posed to their interfering with the five pound bundle For some time past, however, they have been carrying on arrangments below the floor, immediately under the bundle, with the view of making a hostile demonstration in that quarter. But, unfortunately, there wa something yet between the floor and the Candles, and suspecting the fact, as we presume, they suddenly ceased operations and despatched one of their body, a ven erable deek looking chap, to make a topographical aurvey of the position, and report accordingly. The rat cautionsly appeared at the cellar door, and farefully reconnoitering sundry boxes, ink-kegs, papers, &c. h glided softly by the wall, and reached the position o the candles in safety. Here he continued his scientific researches for some time, when, satisfying himself o the entire practicability of the plan of attack. he strode back as softly as he had entered. He had barely disappeared before operations were again resumed-but this time in a different place ! Perceiving our danger, we immediately threw up additional intrenchments, and thought proper to remove our stores to a more secure quarter. Thus, it would appear, the spirit of the memorable lines of Davy Crockett is sometimes carried out

y the inferior animals : I leave these lines for others when I'm dead-Be sure that you're right-then go a-head !

The Onderdunk Question Settled .- The question elative to the suspension of Bishop Onderdonk, we are happy to learn, has at last been decided. The N Y. Tribune of Thursday says - "The final vote in the case of the Biorese of New York was taken up in this body yesterday, and resulted in the complete triumph of the High Church party. With regard to the position f Bishop Onderdonk, nothing was directly done by this vote to change it, but as the cannon adopted empowers the Bishops of the Church, as a body, to remit his sentence, it will depend on them whether he be restored to the exercise of the office now or at a future time. The general impression seems to be, that they will at least not act immediately in the matter." Ter Murderous Afray .- A German' named Martin Kupp, engaged in a conflict with Thomas Carson, an Irishman, on Sunday the 17th inst., at the Delaware mines, when the latter, was struck over the head, and after lingering some eight days, died from the effects of the wound. The German entered bail in the sum of $4000 to answer at our next court.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM GEN. TAYLOR.

The New York Courier speaks of a letter of General Cavior to the Hon. Jos. &. Ingersoll, of Philadelphia, which it has hoped for some time past, to obtain a opy of, but has been disappointed, "and for reasons which may be hereafter stated." The general tenor and substance, however, it is permitted to impart to its of 65 Democrats and 37 Whige. readers.

The letter is dated the 3d of August, 1847, at the Headquarters of the Army of Occupation in Mexico. t commences by stating that he (Gen. Taylor) is "a Whig, not an ultra partisan Whig, but a decided Whig," that no one could have observed the debate in he Congress of the last session on the attempt to cen-mre him for the capitulation of Monterey, conducted mainly on "party grounds," and doubt "the complexion of his" (MY) politics." That he has held a commission in the army of the United States for forty years,—this commission being one of the last issued by Mr. Jefferson; that in the last Presidential election he advocated the election of Mr. Clay, believing that he and his friends, "assimilated" more to the principles of Mr. Jefferson than their "opponents." "If, however, the people of the United States shall spontaneously elect him, he shall feel himself bound to serve ; but that he will not accept of a party nomination "exclusively." That, if he should be elected he will go into office unpledged to any particular course : that he was determined to carry out the intention of the framers of the constitution, of whom two (referring o Washington and Madison) were among the early Presidents of the country, and that he is determined insuch case to be the President of the "nation" and not of a "party." Gen. Taylor proceeds then to define his present po sition-that he does not think himself qualified for the Presidency.; that he would willingly postpone his name to secure the election of Mr. Clay or any of the distin duties of that important Office, on Mouday last. The guished mea of the same school now presented to the This letter is, the Courier understands, the most full and satisfactory exposition of General Taylor's views, for President yet given by him. Mr. Ingersoll will not consent to its publication, because it is an answer to a letter forged by some individual and purporting to have been written by Mr. Ingersoll, when no such letter was even written by him. The Courier thinks Mr. Ingersol take the proper measures to relieve himself from this difficulty, and obtain the consent of Gen. Taylor to lay this interesting document before the public
