Mrs. Partington again .- "So, old Dr. Quil is dead," said Mrs. Partington, as she put an extra piece of butter to her bread, " they do say he died of information on the brain; but they must n't try to make me believe sich un unprobable story as that; information on the brain truly! why he was the greatest fool I knows on : I can't help laughing at his presumptuous ignorance; why, didn't he at one of his lectures, one cold night last winter, try to make me believe, together with the rest of a large and respectful ordinance, that the sun was then nearer the earth than it would be in the hottest day in summer; and didn't he try to suppress on my mind, when he called on me, that time was money? Oh, the dolt! Why, there's cousin Slow, he has his whole time; for he was never known to do anything but loaf-and the Lord knows how poor he'is. Oh, you can't make me bolieve sich stuff. I wonder what will carry ne off if he died of information?" and she area from the table flushed with excitement.

Instructing a carrier.-The fun lovers had a hearty sugh on Wednesday, at a process which was going on in Main street. It appears or, father Cist, had occasion to employ a new carrier for his Advertiser, and having cough a very green one, sent him around with one before employed to "learn the places." As they came to each subscriber's door they chalked a large "C" on it, that the new one might know it when he came again. Thus they passed on. When they got out of sight, the wags took their turn, and Ca were soon to be seen on each side of the street in wonderful abundance. Yesterday, we are told. our neighbor's ordinary edition was exhausted in an astonishingly short time.-[Cincinnati Atlas

Getting up in the world -There is a young man now living in Coxackie, New York, who promises to make considerable noise in the world, on account of his standing. His name is Nathan Lampman. He is but sixteen years old, and is seven feet one inch in height. During the past year he has grown nine inches-

More truth than Poetry .- An old picture represents a king sitting in state, with a label, 'I rule for all." A bishop with the legend, "I pray for all. A soldier with the motto, "I fight for all," and a farmer drawing forth reluctantly a purse, with the inscription, "I pay for all."

A person reading in an English newspaper that the Bishop of London had refused to grant a license to the floating chapel on the river Thames, cried out : " That he was not at all sur prised at his Lordship's refusal, for," said he, "the chapel does not float in his see."

" James, who was the oldest man !" an't know, ei "Well, who was the oldest woman, then !" " Ann Tiquity, sir."

Sir Robert Peel at Church - I went to Whitehall Chapel, being assured that he would be there. I was placed on a seat in an aisle opposite the pew which he occupies.

The chapel was splendid, and was well-filled. Just before the service began, I was told that Sir Robert was entering. I looked and saw an elderly gentleman rather corpulent and shrunk coming up the aisle with a short shuffing pace, a heavy countenance, and his eyes cast down. He was followed by a rather tall, thin, pale young man, who I learned was his son.

Sir Robert took his seat in the pew opposite to me, I was really astonished at the change. He not only appeared to be thirty years older than he was in 1830, but the cast of his countenance, his features, and his person appeared so altered that I could not trace the least resemblance. with my face towards him, with my back to the preacher, and being rather deaf, I could hear little or nothing, so that my employment was intense study, partly religious and partly political; in this instance they were with me inseparable. With a professed minister behind me, and the prime minister of the greatest empire in the world before me, both professedly met to worship with me God in his holy temple: both the scenes, the persons and occasion, were highly interesting and instructive. The greatest and most powerful man in existence sat before me; yet the poorest truly humble paupers, who have died of oppression in the Union Workhouse, if in Heaven, was greater than be, while there was not a single person in the whole chapel who appeared so dreadfully miserable as he did. If I had been there, knowing nothing of him, and asked what I thought of him, as a stranger, I think that I should have said that I thought he was a highly respectable elderly gentleman, of moderate talents, suffering deeply from some severe domestic affliction. There was a striking look of settled melancholy on his countenance that never The greatest and most powerful man in existence varied. When he was seated he never moved bu with his head inclined downward, and with hi eyes heavily closed; he occasionally slowly raised them, but seemed to look at nothing. Two c three times he heaved a deep and long drawn sigh I felt my own heart heavy at the sight-that he was full of care, and could not but feel thankful that I was not prime minister of the British Empire .- [Lessons for Statesmen. . . .

American Cannibalism .- At the meeting of the Academy of Arts and Sciences of the 27th inst., Prof. Shepherd, who has lately spent some time in exploring the mining regions on the shores of Lake Superior, related an instance of the most orrible cannibalism among the Ojibbeway tribe of Indians on the north shore of the Lake. He frequently passed on foot, alone and unarmed, by the hut of an Indian, who had killed and eaten his wife and two children. The personal appearance of the savage monster, as might naturally be supposed, was horrible beyond description. He also related an instance of parricide among the same tribe of the most heart-rending character:-The parents of an Indian had become old, Infirm and incapable of supporting themselves.—

Therefore, the son took them into a boat, with his gun loaded rowed them into the lake, shot the father end threw him overboard; the astonished father and threw him overboard; the astonished mother jumped into the lake and swam to shore. The son followed, after loading his gun, and shot her as she was crawling up the bank.—[Hartford DURDON'S DIGEST, last edition, a few copies remain unsold at [Ocio] BANNAN'S Book wore. Journal.

Let all who are affected with Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Spirting Blood, Pain in the Side and Breast, Sore Throat, Hourseness, Palpitation of the Heart, Whooping Cough, Croup, Hires, Nervoux Termors, Liver Complaint, and diseased Kidneys, Iver THOMPSON'S COMPOUND SYRIP OF TAR AND WOOD NAPTHA.

If there is power in medicine to remove and cure distease, this one will rapidly and effectually secure a restoration to health.

From all parts of the country testimony continues to pour in of its unequalled and salutary power over Pulmonary, Throat, and Pectoral diseases.

A recent letter from Hendershott & Co., an old, and highly respectable firm in Nashville, Tenn., states:

"That the Compound Syrup of Tar and Wood Naptha gives universal satisfaction,"—more so than any medicine they have ever sold.

Read the following from Dr. Young, the eminent oculist:

PHLADELPHIA, Jan. 18th, 1847.

Messrs. Angney & Dicksor.—Gentlemen:—Having recommended in my practice, and used in my own family. Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar and Wood Naptha, I have no hesitation in saying that it is the best preparation of the kind in use, and persons suffering from colds, cougha, affections of the throat, breast, &c., so prevalent at this senson of the year, cannot use any medicine that will allay a cough or consumption sooner than Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar and Wood Naptha. Wh. Young, M. D., 152, Spruce street.

Read also theifollowing from a man who will, at any time, corroberate its statements.

MOST WONDERFUL CURE! time, corroberate its statements.

MOST WONDERFUL CURE!

Penetrated with a deep sense of gratitude for the benefit experienced by the use of Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar, and that others, who, like me, have languished through years of affiction and suffering, without being able to find a remedy, may know where it can be obtained, I voluntarily make the following statement: About 4 years since, after being affected with a violent cold it left me a troublesome and severe cough. Whilst, the cough continued, which, was, with scarcely any intermission, during this long period, language fails to tell what I have suffered from debility, pains in the breast and side, night sweats, difficult expectoration, oppressed breathing, and, in fact, all those symptoms which mark a severe pulmonary affection. The relief occasionally obtained by the discharge of the matter which obstructed the, healthy action of my system, but increased my fears, as the purulent matter discharged was frequently streaked with blood.

During this time I was under the treatment of several physicians, and took many of those preparations recommended as servicable in the cases of others, but without relief; and I, at length, concluded that a cure, in my case, was hopeless. But how agreeably changed is now my opinion! I have used, for about three weeks, Thompson's Compound Syrup of, Tar. By the use of one bottle my cough has been relieved and my system reinvigorated, and by continuing its fise up to this time. I am satisfied that my complaint is entirely removed and eradicated. R. Kearakey, 242, Seveenh batteets, Philadelphia.

A repared only by Angney & Dickson, (successors of S. P. Thompson) at the N. E. corner of Fifth and Spruce streets, Philadelphia.

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLdS, &c.

TO THE PUBLIC!!

IN PRESENTING this valuable medicine to the public as a remedy for Consumption, and Pulmonary Diseases in general, I have been actuated solely by the great success attending its use in my own immediate neighborhood, and a desire to benefit the afflicted, I shall simply endeavor to give a brief statement of its ascfulness, and flatter myself that its surprising efficiency will enable me to furnish such proofs of its virtues as will satisfy the most increduous, that CONSUMPTION may and "CAN BE CURED," if this medicine is resorted to in time. As Consumption, however is a disease which differs much in the severity of its sympoms, and the rapidity of its progress, and has long baffeet the skill of physicians it cannot be supposed that this or any other remedy is capable of effecting a cure in every case, and in every stage of the disease; on the contrary, we must expect it to fall sometimes, if it is contrary, we must expect it to fall sometimes, and the remedies we possess, for the most simple diseases. The proprietor submits the following testimonials in its favor from citizens of this County, well known to the public.

Facts for the People.

The constanty increasing popularity and sale of B.

A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge has induced persons who are envious of its success, to palm off upon the public preparations which all medical men know to be inefficacious in expelling worms from the system.

This Vermifuge made its way into public favor upon the ground of its own intensic merits, more than any other medicine of the kind now used; and, while many worm remedies have, by dint of puffing, been forced into sale, and shortly after gone into the obscurity which their worthlessness justly merited, B. A. Fohnestock's Vermifuge continues to be triumphantly sustained. It has only to be used and its effects will fully sustain all that is said of its wonderful expelling power.

GOD SAVE THE PLOUGH By Mes. Sigoarasy, See how the shining share Marketh earth's bosom fair, Crowning her brow— Bread in its furrow springs, Health and repose it brings, Treasures to unknown kings— God save the plough! Look on the warrior's blade.
While o'er the tented glade.
Hate breathes its vowWrath, its unsheathing wakes,
Love at its lightning quakes,
Weeping and woe it makes—
God save the plough!

Ships o'er the deep may ride, Storms wreck their bannered pride, Waves whelm their brow— But the well loaded wain, Gannering the golden grain, Gladdeneth the household train— God save the plough!

Who are the truly great?
Minions of pomp and state,
Where the crowd bow?
Give us hard hands and free,
Maturers of field and tree,
The friends of Liberty—
God save the plough!

The Hessian Fly .- At a meeting of the Philadelphia Agricultural Society, held on the 5th of October, a verbal communication was made by a member, relative to a new species of Hessian Fly, discovered by Miss Margaret Morris, of Germantown. This lady, having devoted herself with great zeal to the study of ethonology, for several years past, has been investigating the natural history of the Hessian Fly, with results which cannot fail to interest the general inquirer and especially the farmer. It was commonly believed that the deposit of eggs was always made upon the leaves. Having however, watched the progress of the insect from 1836, she was soon satisfied that she had frequently seen the larva within the seed. She had also detected it at various stages of its development, progressing from the seed till it became situated between the body of the stalk and the sheath of the leaves. According to her observations, the larva recently hatched from the grain in the ground, penetrates to the centre of the straw, where it may be seen of a pale greenish white, semi-transparent appearance, in form comewhat resembling a silk-worm. From one to six of these have been found at various heights from the seed to the third joint. Having reached a proper height the magget or larva cut its way from within the hollow straw to the outside, where it takes on the prepa or flax seed form from which it emerges in due season in the winged state resembling a small gnat. The fact so often observed that the Hessian Fly lays its eggs upon the leaves of newly sown wheat, seemed to conflict materially with the discoveries of Miss Morns, whose statements consequently met with a great deal of opposition. Even rofessed naturalists did not besitate question the rrectness of her observations, or suspect that the insect she had observed, was not a Hessian Fly. This doubt and hesitation to admit of Miss Morris' discovery having lasted for several years, has just been terminated by the candid acknowledgment of the distinguished naturalist, Dr. Harris of Cambridge, Massachusetts, that Miss Morris has been the first to discover and describe the habits of a new species of Hessian Fly. To prevent the ravages of this fly, Miss Morris has recom-mended the procuring of fresh seed from locali-ties in which the fly has not made its appearance. In order to avoid the introduction of straggling insects of the kind from adjacent fields, she thinks it requisite that a whole neighborhood would persevere in this precaution for two or more years in succession. Since she has made these recommendations it has been ascertained that the seed wheat kept over one year will not be affected by the fly; as the eggs deposited in the grain either loose their vitality, or hatch out the first scason and disappear. We have thus become possessed of the important fact, that in addition to the long known species of fly which lays its eggs on the wheat blades soon after sowing in the fall and spring, there is still another fly which deposite its eggs in summer in the wheat-grains during their soft or milky state. And for this discovery we, in common with so many others interested in agricultural affairs, are indebted to a lady residing within the limits of our society. Surely then we should be the first to acknowledge and sustain her claims to that distinguished merit which is the just reward of successful and useful research - [Ger. Tel. Signs of a prosperous Farmer.-1. When farmer is seen marrying youngest shows that Providence helps those who help themselves, and that in future he will have "helps" of more kinths' than one.

? 2. When lights are burning in his house before break of day, in the winter especially, it shows that the day will never break on his "breaking" in the winter of adversity.

3. When you see his barn larger than his house, it shows that he will have large profits and small afflictions.

4. When you see him driving his work instead of his work driving him, it shows that he will never be driven from good resolutions, and that he will certainly work his way to prosperity. 5. When you see in his house more lamps for burning lard or greese, than candlesticks for more xpensive purposes, it shows that economy is lighting his way to happiness and plenty, with that light which should enlighten every farmer into the world.

6. When you always see in his woodhouse a sufficiency for threedays, if not more, it shows hat he will be more than "ninety days wonder" n forming operations, and that he is not sleeping n his house after a drunken frolic. 7. When he has a small house, separate from the main building, purposely for ashes, and an iron or tin vessel to transport them, it shows that he never built his dwelling to be a funeral pile for his family and perhaps himself.

8. When his house is boarded inside and out, it shows that he is "going the whole hog" in keeping plenty inside his house and poverty out.

9. When his sled is housed in summer and his farming implements covered both winter and his farming implements covered both winter and summer, it plainly shows that he will have a good house over his head in the summer of early life and the winter of old age.

10. When his cattle are properly shielded and fed in winter, it evidences that he is acting activities.

cording to Scripture, which says that "a merciful man is merciful to his beasts." 11. When he is seen subscribing for newspapers, it shows that he is speaking like a book respecting the lates improvements in agriculture, and that he never will get his walking papers to the land of poverty. Keeping Cows .- The point at which farmers are most at fault, and that for which hun-dreds of others blame them, and with reason, too. is, that they overstock their farms—only half foed their animals—let skelton cow-frames drag themselves over the premises, and complain because wherever cows are kept for the dairy, it is possible and proper—yes, it is a duty—to keep them well. This can be done. If you cannot keep them four well, try two, the two well kept will give more income than four half-starved ones. The goodness of the cow is determined partly by her native properties—but the food also has much. and very much to do, in making her good or othcrwise. Keep no more than you can feed wellvery well.

Smoked Mutton .- The Editor of the Tennessee Farmer declares his preserence for the ovice over the bovine or the swinish race. He says on his knowledge of physiology,-which none will dispute,—that a pound of lean, tender mutton, can be procurred at half the cost of the same quantity of fat pork; and that it is infinitely healthier, in summer, especially; and that those who feed on it become more muscular, and can do more work on it, with more case to themselves. He knows of nothing more delicious than smoked mutton bams.

Fattening poultry.—It is asserted in the transactions of the Society of Artists, that there is a great advantage in fattening geese, turkeys, and, in short, fowls of every description, on potatoes mixed with meal. On this diet they are said to fatten in less than one half the time ordinarily required to bring them to the same condition of "exrellence," on any kind of corn, or even on meal itself. The potatoes must be boiled and mashed fine while they are hot and the meal added just
