We shall strange the enlargement in such manner at to preserve the present shape of the paper, and in troduce three or four columns of additional space. We will thus furnish more matter, than is provided by man of the mammoth, publications of the more populou towns, and have none of their uncomfortableness to the strange of the more populous.

Our arrangements for furnishing the latest intelli-Our arrangements for furnishing the latest intelligence are ample and complete. The Magnetic Telegraph connecting this place with all the leading Cities in the Union, enables us to procure important news to the very latest moment. This is of course a very heavy expense to us, and we may add that this is the only Journal in this section of the State, that has engaged its services. The markets of New York, Philadelphia, &c., are reported to within a few hours of our going to press-thus placing us considerably in advance of the regular publications of the cities.

The character of the newspaper is, as a general thing, a certain index to the character of the people supporting it. The Miners' Journal has a very large circulation among the heavy capitalists of the larger cities, and is looked upon as the immediate representative of the interests of this region. Now, to render this representative worthy of the position, is our object and should be every citizens pride—for in proportion as the appearance and respectability of a journal is maintained abroad, is the character of the people for intelligence, and substantial integrity established.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

We present this document to our county-subscribers in an extra. Every one should endeavor to read it, as the matters discussed are of the greatest importance to every citizen of the Union.

For the convenience, however, of those who may not be disposed to read it at length, we append a brief synopsis of its contents. After alluding to the excellence of our system of government, and acknowledging the favorable dispensations of Providence, in the rich harvests of the past year, whereby we have been able to feed the starving thousands of other nations, he proceeds to speak of the pacific nature of our relations with all countries except Mexico. He alludes to the difficulties existing between that Republic and the causes leading to them, inasmuch as they were stated in a previous message. After the battles of Vera Cruz and Buena Vista, a commissioner (Mr. Trist) was despatched to the Head-quarters of the Army, with full powers to conclude a treaty of peace. The President thinks that Congress contemplated the aquisition of territorial indemnity when voting supplies for the war, and especially in the three million fund. (It was generally thought that the latter was for another specific and well-comprehended object!) But it appears the three millions still lie in the treasury. Mr. Trist's prepositions for territory included New Mexico and California, and the President thinks from the weakness of her government, and the contiguity of our own, she will at any rate not be able to hold them longer under her fold. In fact above occurrence. she is unable to govern her inhabitants in those provinces at this time, and they are every day becoming ripe for "annexation." A variety of considerations are held out in favor of our insisting upon their cossion to us-the advantages for our ships, being the principal ones. Negotiations having thus Tailed, Mr. Trist his been recalled, and no further overtures for Peace will be made until the Mexicans themselves, propose them. If we wait on them, we fear at will be a long time before we arrive at a " successful termination."

Mr. Gallatin and the War.
We have already alluded to the Peace Pamphlet by the Hon. Albert Gallatin. Whatever may be thought of the views of the writer, his high character and undoubted patriotism, his age, experience and ability, entitle them to the most espectful consideration. He contends that "truth never was or can be promulgated by fire and sword, or by any other than purely moral means. By these and by these alone, the Christian religion was propagated, and enabled in less than three hundred years, to conquer Idolatry. During the whole of that period, Christianity was tainted by no other blood than that of its martyrs."

He says that "the duties of the people of the United States towards other nations are obvious. Never losing sight of the divine precept, "Do to others as you would be done by," they have only to consult their own conscience. For our benevplent Creator has implanted in the hearts of men the moral sense of right and wrong, and that sympathy for other men: the evidences of which are

f daily occurrence." He urges that the " true honor and dignity of he nation are inseparable from justice. Pride and vanity alone demand the sacrifice. Though so dearly purchased, the astonishing successes of the American arms have at least put it in the power of the United States to grant any terms of peace, without incurring the imputation of being actuated by any but the most elevated motives. It would seem that the most proud and vain must be satisted with glory, and that the most reckless and bellicose should be sufficiently glutted with human gore."

And a more truly glorious termination of the war, a more splendid spectacle, an example more high-y useful to mankind at large, cannot well be coneived than that of the victorious forces of the United States voluntarily abandonin Inited States voluntarily abandoning all their inquests without requiring any thing else than at which was strictly due to our citizens. He continues:
"For the present nothing is more strictly requi

ed than to adopt the principal of status ante bellum, or, in other words, to evacuate the Mexican territory, and to provide for the payment of the inour citizens. The scruples of those who object to any cession whatever of territory, except on terms unacceptable to the South-States, might be removed by a provision that would only pledge a territory sufficient for the purpose, and let it in the possession of the United tates until the indemnities had been fully paid. Were I to listen exclusively to my own feelings and opinions, I would say, that if the proposition which I have attempted to establish are if I am not much mistaken in my sincere convic tion that the war was unprovoked by the Mexicans, and been one of iniquitous aggression on our part; it necessarily follows that, according to the the miseries of war on a people who were fighting in defence of their own homes. If all this bo true, the United States would give but an adequate compensation for the injuries they have in-flicted, by assuming the payment of the indemnities justly due to their own citizene."

We also annex the recapitulation of Mr. Gallatin's chief arguments : "It is an indisputable fact, that the annexation of Texas, then at the war with Mexico, was tantamount to a declaration of war, and that the comparative weakness of Mexico alone prevented its evernment from considering it as such. Under these circumstances, it was evidently the duty of the United States to use every means to soothe and conciliate the Mexicans, and to wait with patience for an unconditional recognirefetence. Whigs are designated by italics; In- tion of the Independence of Texas, till the feelings excited by our aggression had subsided.

It has been shown that after Mexico had resorted, as a substitute for war, to the harmless suspension of the ordinary diplomatic intercourse, to attempt to make it retract that measure, before any negotiations for the restoration of harmony between the two countries should be entered into, was neither countenanced by the acknowledged law of nations, nor necessary for any useful purpose, nor consistent with a proper and just sense of the relative position in which the aggressive measures of the United States had placed the two countries. But that the refusal of Mexico to submit to that additional contumely, should have been considered as an insult to the United States, betrays the pride of power, rather than a just sense of what is due to the true dignity and honor of this nation.

It has been demonstrated, that the republic o Texas had not a shadow of right to the territory adjacent to the left bank of the lower portion of the Rio Norte; that though she claimed, she never had actually exercised jurisdiction over any portion of it; that the Mexicans were the sole innabitants and in actual possession of that district; that therefore its forcible occupation by the army of the United States was according to the acknowledged law of nations, as well as in fact, an act of open hostility and war; that the resistance of the Mexicans to that invasion was legitimate; and that therefore the war was unprove ked by them, and commenced by the United

If any doubt should remain of the correctne f these statements, let them be tested by the divine and undeniable precept, "Do unto others a you would be done by." If at this moment France was to contract a treaty of defensive and offensive alliance with Mexico. and binding herself to defend it with all her forces against any and every other power, would not the United States at once consider such a treaty as a leclaration of war ?

If, in lieu of declaring war against Great Britain in the year 1812, the United States had only suspended the ordinary diplomatic relations beween the two countries; and great Britain had declared that she would not enter into any nego-tiation for the settlement of all subjects of difference between the two countries, unless the United States should, as a preliminary condition, restore these relations; would not this have been considered as a most insolent demand, and one to which the United States never would submit?

If the United States were and had been for more than a century, in possession of a tract of country, exclusively inhabited and governed by them, disturbed only by the occasion an enemy, would they not consider the forcible nilitary invasion and occupation of such a district by a third Power, as open and unprovoked war, commenced against them? And could their esistance to the invasion render them liable to the mputation of having themselves commenced he war? Yet it would seem as if the splendid and almo omantic successes of the American arms had, for while, made the people of the United States eaf to any consideration than an enthusiastic and exclusive love of military glory; as if, forgetting the origin of war, and with an entire disregard for the dictates of justice, they thought that those successes gave the nation a right to dismemb Mexico and to appropriate to themselves that which did not belong to them. But I do not despair, for I have faith in our institutions and in the people; and I will now ask them whether this was their mission? and whether they were placed by providence on this continent for the purpose of cultivating false glory, and of sinking to the level of those vulgar querors who have at all times desolated the earth ?"—Penna. LETTER FROM THE REV. R. JACKSON. formerly Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, N. York. Ciscinsatt, Feb. 15, 1840.

Dr. Swayne:—DearSir:—Permit me to take the liberty of writing to you at this time, to express my approbation, and recommend to the attention of the heads of families and others, you avaluable medicine—your Compound Syrup of Prants Verginiana, or Wild Cherry Bark. In mystravels of late, I have seen in a great many instances the wonderful effects of your medicine, in relieving children of very obstinate complaints—such as coughing, wheezing, choking with phlegm, asthmatic attacks, &c. I should not have written this letter, however, at present, although I have felt it my duty to add my testimony to it for some time, had it not been for a late instance where the medicine above alluded to was instrumental in restoring to perfect health an "only child," whose case was almost hopeless, in a family of child." whose case was almost hopeless, in a family of child," whose case was almost hopeless, in a family of my acquaintance.

Beyond all doubt Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry is the most valuable medicine in this on any other country. I am certain I have witnessed more than one hundred cases where it has been attended with complete success. I have used it myself in an obstinate attack of the bronchitis, in which it proved effectual in an exceedingly short time, considering the severity of the case. I can recommend it in the fullest confidence of its superior virtues. I would advise that no family should be without it; it is every pleasant, and always be neficial, worth double, and often ten times its price. The public are assured there is no quarkery about it. public are assured there is no quackery about it.
