Life Insurance. - In this age of and refinement, there appears to be nothing licking which could contribute to the present enperment of every one. There are a thousand dein force, unknown in former times all calentated to fill up the measure of worldly happimen and security, to dispel the worst apprehensiens of the future, and even to rob death of some of its terrors.

Foremost among these institutions, is the pringiple of Life Insurance-of the peculiar benefits which it is capable of conferring, we are daily re mixing the most conclusive evidence. It is not penable for all to enjoy wealth ; for though every one may dilligently strive for it, it is the force of circumstances, after all, which distributes it among a favored few. These circumstances no individmai hand can control-and therefore the breeze which renders a man rich to-day, may on to morrow turn into a whirlwind, and scatter his possessions in another direction. merits of the work, so the as recommendations can be relied on. As far as this work is known it has received universal approbation, and is considered by teachers as the beginning of a new era in this department of science, and a desire has been expressed that the old system of confining the pupil for years in the process of reducing pessads to farthings, and farthings to pounds should be discontinued. It is also the opinion of the best informed teachers, that the use of those books composed chiefly of a foreign currency should be prohibited in our schools, as their use is believed to be a waste of time and money, without the least benefit or advantage to any one. Those who have examined the work, and many who are using it in their schools, can speak for themselves. It is also the cheapest arithmetic in the United States.

The following recommendation is from Thomas II. Burrowes, Eq., the late able and talented superintendent of the Common Schools of the state—and who may very properly be termed the "Father of our Common School system."

"I feel pleasure in expressing the opinion that the Columbian Calculator, by Mr. Almon Ticknor, is a most valuable school book. The adherence to our own beautiful and simple decimal system of money, and the exclusion of the British currency of pounds, shillings, and pence, which forms one of its chief differences from other arithmetics. and pence, white the solution is a decided and valuable improvement. It always appeared to me useless, if not worse, to puzzle the beginner in arithmetic with questions in any other money than our own, at a time, too, when the unavoidable intricacies of the acience are sufficiently numerous and difficult; to task all his patience, and when the teacher's chief object should be to excite and sustain his interest in the study. After he has become well versed in the principles of arithmetic, and complete master of all calculations in our own coin, it is not only proper to give him a knowledge of those of other lands, but it will be found practicable to do so in one-tent of the time requisite for that purpose at an earlier period. In many other respects, also, the Columbian Calculvitor is a superior work, and I therefore cordially recommend it. Thos II. Burnowes.

PURE WHITE LEAD.

Wethering & Brother,

MANUFACTURERS, No. 65, North Front street,

MPhiladelphia, have now a good supply of their var yanted pure WHITE LEAD, and those customers who have been sparingly supplied in consequence of a run
on the article, shall now have their orders filled.

No known substance possesses those preservative and beautifying properties, so desirable in a paint, to an equal extent with unadulterated white lead; hence any admixture of other majerials only mars its value. It has, therefore, been the steady aim of the manufacturers, for many wears, to supply to the public a perfectly pure white lead, and the unccasing demand for the article, is proof that it has met with favor. It is invariably branded on one head: WETHERILL & BROTHER in full, and on the other, werenzed pure, all in red letters. and on the other, warranted pure, all in red letters.

WHO WOULD HAVE THE TOOTHACHE?

Jardelia's Celebraica Odonlaigic A RE warranted to cure the most inveterate toothache in one unnute. These Drops are offered to a discerning public, with a confidence attached to no other remedy for this painful affection; the objections urged against Kreosote and other remedles of a similar nature definition and other remedies of a similar nature do not exist against this, as they are warranted not to injure or discolor the teeth in the slightest degree: on the contrary they will arrest decay, remove scurry and tartar, and impart a delightful fragrance to the breath. the contrary they will arrest decay, remove scury and waterar, and impart a delighfulf fragrance to the breath. No remedy has ever been discovered which so effectually and permanently removes this truly painful affection. If a cure is not effected the money will be refunded. In order to put this preparation within the reach of all, the proprietor has reduced the price to 124 cente per vial, with full directions, and his signature attached to each, without which none can be grouine. Try it: Be sure to ask for and take none but JARDELLA'8 Odostalgie Drops, et there are many imitations. The following has been voluntarily tendered. I have applied and witnessed the application of Jardella's Odontalgic Drops to the teeth whilst violently aching, and in no case have they failed to effect an immediate cure.
