

THE ROYAL PRINCE.
And take their place in Norman blood.
The purple accents on each Lip and cheek in delicate hue;
And all, though not in the same
From the same love look their rise,
As in light as a dove's eye.

THE BRIDE'S CONFESSOR.
By Miss G. Lee.
A sudden thrill passed through my heart,
I knew not why, nor how, nor where,
I felt as if I were in pain,
And I could not tell the cause.

For the Ladies.

BOTANY.—The study of this beautiful science is particularly adapted to young ladies, to whom we would recommend it as a lasting source of pleasure and amusement. It will give to the mind a habit of accurate observation, and the enjoyment experienced in its progress will be such,
that difficulties much greater than those which attend
the study of any other science will be forgotten.

Interesting Sketch.

THE FINE ARTS.—Drawing and Painting,
where a good taste is manifested, are truly elegant accomplishments for a lady. They teach her to be content with the simple and the plain,
and to admire and imitate that which is good,
and to be content with the simple and the plain.

Deferred Items.

PRESS ONWARD.—The mystery of Napoleon's career was this—under all difficulties and discouragements to "press on." It was the secret of his success, and the secret of his triumph over all his enemies. He was not discouraged; he was not deterred; he was not
discouraged; he was not deterred; he was not discouraged; he was not deterred.
