Next in order comes a standing army, and over shadowing navy; then follows, of course, an en-ormous national debt, pension lists, and heavy and oppressive taxation-not levird on foreign goods t upon our own people, by direct taxa And should the prople complain, then, like his illustrious friend Santa Anna, with his standing army of one hundred thousand men, this "model" President of ours can administer an anodide of balls and bayonels; to cure the discontents, and teach the people submission to their masters. Such is the magnificent "Democratic column" erected on the ruins of the Jeffersonian column of other and better days-a new column, all bright and dezzling with military glory, built of the bones and cemented with the blood of thousands of the best men of the Republic. Sir, the gentleman seems to be in estaters with his model inaster and his gorgeous column; in celebrating its ad vent, they seem to have guaffed their goblets o <text><text><text><text><text><text><text> glory to their bitter dregs. But in the very midst of their revely, sporting their pleasure-bosts in the oceans of blood and rivers of tears which was
