From Commission Warchouse. A Card to Male Readers. To those who intend visiting Philadelphia to make purchases, it is important to know where it can be done to the best advantage, such as are about to buy HAT's for their own head, or by the case to sell again, are respectfully informed that there is an establishment at No. 1, Strawberry street, on the second door, conducted by E. DAWI, on the cash system entirely, where HAT's of the best materials, and of the latest fashion, can positively be obtained at from one to two dollars less than at the showy and extravagant stores in the fishlonable streets of the city, where rents are from one to three thousand dollars per annum!

dollars per annum!

At this establishment, on account of locating himself in a by8 street, and up stairs, the proprietor procures his store at the low rent of one hundred dollars. The vast difference in the profits which there must be between the two descriptions of stores, every one can answer!

A visit is carnestly solicited, as it is certain in one will ever regret doing so.

The Credit System
A FOE TO HONESTY.
All the world ought to be by this time aware that the "credit system" is one of the most unmitigated curses that ever afficied humanuts, and has created more validiated humanuts, and has created more stylenistic and the other miluences of a false and artificial state of society. Therefore, we wish most earnestly to impress upon all dealers of every kind, in this commercial ago, the great palladium of honesty and fair dealing. "Cyst and no two enters." If this motto should be universally adopted, mankind would become streedly homes.

to have been glass. This vasain the time of Bonaparte, was removed from the church in Genos, to the museum in Pasis, and there was subject to ap examination, which proved it to be a false gem. It has since been returned to its place; but still it is by the priests, declared to be an emerald, and the vase presented to Solomon and used by our Saviour. The full beauty and perfection of many genos in the Museums of Italy, can only be seen by the sid of a glass, and one is therefore handed to the traveller at the door. There is evidence too, of their use of the telescope; they are said to have seen ships at a great distance by the sid of an insirument, and without such sid it its impossible to conceive how the astronomers of Babylon could have gained their extensive knowledge of the stars. The stories of Herodotus have been deemed so incredible that he has been deemed the father of lies, in contradistinction to the father of lies, in contradistinction to the father of history. Yet science has discovered many of the stories to be not only portionally been proved by actual experiment probable, but probable. For instance, the story of Archimedes having set fire by means of a glass to the enemy's fleet lying at a great distance, has not only been proved by actual experiment probable, but that the result must have followed from the observance of the condition stated. Science and research may bereafer prove all his seeming lies to be indeed truths. The Marquiv of Worcester had a discovery in his mind which he could not carry out, but would sometime, he-declared, be brought into use, by which a tesketite-of water might be made to blow up an enemy's fort. When the steam engine was really discovered, this arguing the blessing, that the most folly acknowledging the blessing, that the most foll

SHERIDAN'S PROCRASTINATION.—Much of the inconvenience to which Sheridan was subjected aross from his procrastination; whether it was a doed to sign or a letter to frank, he would still put off doing it. Nothing was ever done in time or place. Letters containing money, or bearing intelligence of importance, remained unopened. Whether private or official business demanded his attention, still there was the same indolonce, the same unwillingness to apply, which exprusibly led sttention, still there was the same indolence, the same unwillingness to apply, which eventually led to the most serious results. Professor Smyth was waiting one merning for him in his ante-room, and happened to cast his eyes on a table that stood in the middle of the room covered with manuscripts, plays, pauphlets, and papers of every description. As he proceeded to tumble them over and look at the superscription, he observed that the letters were most of them unopened, and that some of them had coronets on the seal. He remarked to Mr. Westley, the Treasurer of Drury Lane, who was sitting by the fire, having slao for a long time danced attendance, that Mr. Sheridan treated all alike, wafer, or coronet, paper or peer, the letters as far back as the time of Mose; a portrait supposed to be of Nico, the King who drove the large racities into the Red Sea; and even the colors of this are perfectly reserved.

Even so may the progress of science prove the assertions of Herodotus true. There was also a liquid fire which could be thrown into the enemy's ships at a distance to destroy them. This was made use of by the Norwegian pirates as late as 1400, but the art of making it is now unknown.
