myself, when I hear persons who live on the rich and fertile prairies of the west, praise the larg-riance of their soil, and boast of the boundial crops they yield with little labor, that they ought to be regarded somewhat as we now look upon those early settlers in the Mohawk valley, who, it is said, were in the habit of carting the manure made upon their lands to the river, and throwing it in, for fear, that should it remain, their lands

made upon their lands to the river, and throwing it in, for fear, that should it remain, their lands would become too rich. In their wisdom, supposing their landscould never be exhausted, they continued to plow the same fields, until at last "a change came o'er the spirit of their dreams," and they found to their cost that the lands they supposed inexhausibly fertile, had become sterile and unproductive; and such I think will be the result of the present sy-tem of cultivation pursued by our western fineds. Chemistry shows us that by taking a succession of crops off from the same ground one year after another, without any return to it, the inevitable effect must be ultimately, that it will loos its for-tility. The lands of our country, especially the richer portions of it, have quite too commonly met this usage. A few years since it twas not un-frequently remarked by our farmers, that they formerly received goods crops from particular por-torops from the same ground that would not get trouble of cultivation. Something, they said, must he wanting in the soil, but what they did not know. Chemistry has solved this problem, and it is now beginning to be understood by them that the's soil must be ded with proner ford as
