JOHN EANDOLPH .- The following anecdote of Randolph C believe has never appeared in epirit may be greetified by the hearty grins of some of your readers. Perhaps it may be considered a fair specimen of Randolph's wit—always keen, and often bitterly sarcustic and severe. No one seems to impute such exhibitions of the man to a deliberate malignity of heart, but disappoint-ment in early life had, without subduing, rendered him a misanthrope. He had a kind and gen-erous heart, amid all his eccentricities.

He was a man of fine talents, and was opposed in his political opinions to Randolph. During the canvasted that should he be elected, he would seen give Randolph a lesson, and, despite his dreaded powers, teach him his place. He was elected, and in due time found himself seated a fifty. This is creditable to the intelligence of the working men of Scotland.

Singular temerity and hardihood. A new member, who was not expected to say one word during his first term, breaking his shell in this manner, and assaulting the man that scarce one of them dared to raise a peep against. Prodigious! sure the man would never survive. But days passed on, and yet old John showed not the least consciousness of having been attacked -perhaps he was not intending to notice the matter at all. At length, after the lapse of con-siderable time, Randolph rose to address the House on a motion then before it. He never wanted an audience. During his remarks, he took occasion to allude to "the death of his much lamented

MOST WONDERFUL CURE 1.

Penetrated with a deep sense of gratitude for the benefit experienced by the law of Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar, and that pilots, who, like me, have languished through years of affiction and suffering, without being able to find a remedy, may know where it can, be obtained, it voluntarily make the following statement:

about 4 years since, after being affected with a violent the cough continued, which was, with scarcely any intermission, during this long period, language falls totell, the cough continued, which was, with scarcely any intermission, during this long period, language falls totell, what I have suffered from debility, pains in the breast, and side, night sweats, difficult expectation. The relief occasionally obtained by the discharge of the matter which obstructed the healthy action of my system but increased my fears, as the purulent matter discharged was frequently as every with blood.

During this time I was under the trestment of several physicians, and took many of those preparations recommended as servicable in the cases of others, but without relief; and I, at length, concluded that evers, in my card, was hopeless. But how agreeably changed; las now my opinion; I have used, for about three weeks, in my card, was hopeless. But how agreeably changed; las now my opinion; I have used, for about three weeks.
