TOM SMITH. h's all my eye and Tommy Tom Smith—he kept a blacksmith's shop ' Close by Bankside, but drank Till he lost bouse and home, and then He forged upon the bank.

One day as he was blowing up :

Says he, "to strike while the iron's hot is best, with me 'tie neck Or nothing now." He little thought How soon he'd have a cheek.

Tom took a toat and started off,— That is, the boat took him; And as he crossed the stream be thought "With me 'tis sink or swim. "If they should pay it—what a treat,
If not retreat fmust;

So if a dust they don't kick up.
They'll come down with the dust." Tom at the Bank the check presents; The clerks begin to grin; And then, instead of getting notes, He found they noted him.

"A forgery," salutes his ear, From all of them at last. "Your cheque is forged," said they, "but, you Aresure of being cast." To Cope, the marshal, he's consigned;
Tom tried to break away,
But found he could not cope with those
There mushal'd in array. With six offenders he was chain'd
And fastested side by side,
He dream's not, when he cross'd the atream,
Of going with the tied.

Poor Tom was tried, and guilty found— "Twas then he grasped for breath;"— To prove his writting—one they found, His own kand caused his death."

INDIGESTION OR DYSPERSIA.

Facts for the People:

THE constantly increasing popularity and sale of B.

A. Fahnestock's Vermitinge has induced persons who are envious of its uncers, to palm off upon the public pieparations which all medical men know to be inefficacious in expelling worms from the system.

This Vermitinge made its way into public favor upon the ground of its own intrinsic merits, more than any other medicine of the kind now used; and, while many worm remedies have, by dint of puffing, been forced into sale, and shortly after gone into the obscurity which their worthlessness justly merited, B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge continues to be triumphantly sustained. It has only to be used and its effects will fully suntain all that its said of its wonderful expelling power:

EETHIFICATE.

We certify that we have used B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifug in our families, and in every case it has provided all-ticked and effect tund remedy for expelling worms from the system. We cordially recommend it to parents who have the ldren afflicted via the dangerous malady.
