Maria Louisa was a lineal descendant of one of the proudest monarchs of Rome. The blood which circulated in her veins had passed to her from the Cwasrs, and through the heroic heart of Maria Theress. She had been cradled and nurture ed amid scenes of moral sublimity and regal magnificence, which one would think would give an impress of grandeur even to the meanest soulting in the serious of the same of the proudest monarch. Gri of the Blue eye bright and Beaming .-Oh, for the time of the Summer's dawn,
To hear the lark his carol singing;
Oh, for a walk in the dew-clad laws;
When health from every broeze is springing;
Oh, for the shade of the hawthorn tree;
With mid-day sun above it gleaming,
Oh, for each hours to spend with thee,
Girl of the blue eye bright and besming?

Oh, for the time of the evening's close,
With not a breath its peace destroying;
Oh, for a share of its sweetrepose,
But not alone the bliss enjoying;
Oh, for the bearth and the Winter drear,
When joyous hearts with love are treaming;
Oh, for such hours with thee to share,
Girl of the blue eye bright and beaming; Girl of the slue eye origin and deaming!

Oh, for a life 'mid scenes like this,
 Unclogged by worldly wealth or splendor;
 Oh, 't were a life of rediant bliss.'
 Shared with a feeling brart and tender;
 Oh, that the fairy scene might be,
 In a land where Freedom', fig. is streaming,
 Twere heaven on sant to be there with thee,
 Girl of the blue eye bright and beaming!

TTO The Greek Slave .-

It may be, an itent story tells us true,
Of a fair nymph, whom Dian changed to stone,
Of a fair nymph, whom Dian changed to stone,
Of a fair nymph, whom Dian changed to stone,
Of a fair nymph, whom Dian changed to stone,
Of rival charms, though mortal, jealous grown;
For here, enacted the like tale we view,—
Here stands a maid more fair than ever gree
From girthood's blossom, though most aweely blown,
— And here she stands, with all the mortal flown,
Save its soft grace—and she is marble, too.
Her soul, like a pure star, before it set,
With its live lustre hath each limb imbued,
And that remains 1 her charms to helghten yet,
Heaven fixed her in this touching attitude.
Hore I will worship as at hallow'd shrine,
For beauty, grown immortal, is divine.

I Wouldn't Would You !-EF I Wouldn't Would 100 I - wouldn't give much for a girl with a bonnet That cost fifty dollars when first it was new. Who sports a large muff with a halry tailpn it. That hangs down in front of it, just as it graw. I wouldn't give much for this female—Would you?

wouldn't give much for a women who prances,
Promenading all the thoroughfares through i
Giving winks to the clerks, or else amorotis glances
Enough too to turn her eyes all askew;
I wouldn't give much for this female—
Would you?

The Human Face .-The Human Face.—
Give me she face
That's warm—that lives—that breathes—made radiant
By an inforreing spirit from within.
Give me the face that varies with the thought:
That answers to the beart, and seems the while
With such a separate consciousness endued,
That, as we gaze, we can almost believe
It is itself a beart, and of itself
Doth feel and palpitate.

For such an one
One need but look into, to converse with.
Why I, without a thought of weariness,
Have sat and gazed on such for hours,
And in the eloquent beaming of the face
Have felt a spirit hold communion with me

Mankind's Concern.—
For forms of government let fools contests.
Whate'er as best administer'd is best:
For modes of faith let graceless seados fight's
Hiscan't be wrong whose life is in the right:
In faith and hope the world will disagree.
But all mankind's concern is charity:
All must be false that thwart this one great end,
And all of God, that bless mankind, or mend.

The Bible Within this savful volume lies
Within this savful volume lies
The mystery of mysteries;
Happiest they of human race
To whon their God has given grace
To read, to fear, to hope, to pray.
To lift the latch, to force the way;
And better had they ne'er been born;
That read to doubt, or read to scorn.
