The Louisville Journal says that a certain Democrat went to Washington to get an office from Mr. Polk just before the Presidential election. Mr. Polk designated an indifferent office which he could give the applicant then, but told him if he would wait till after the 4th of March. which he could give the 4th of March, the forested Cass, who would then undoubtedly be president, could give him something better. The poor fellow, as his ill luck would have it, chose to wait till after the fourth of March.

This reminds us of Pai's dream, continues the editor of that sprightly Journal. "I once dramed," said Pat. "I was with the Pope and he exed me will I fink? the digestive organs; and to secure acaum, we must remove these obstructions or restore the blood to its natural state.

The averaion to taking medicine is most effectually removed by Clickser's Vegetable Pargative Pills; being completely enveloped with a coating of pure white sugar (which is as distinct from the internal ingreduents as a nut shell from the kernel) and have notated of medicine. Moreover they neither nauscate or gape in the silchlest degree, but operate equally on all the diseased parts of the system, instead of confaining themselves to and racking any particular region. Thus, if the Liver be affected, one ingredient will operate on that particular organ, and by cleansing it of any excess of bits, restore it to its natural gate, another will operate on the blood and remove all impurities in its circulation, while a third will move nil impurities in its circulation, while a third will effectually expel whatever impurities my have been discharged in the stomach, and hence they strike at the vool of discass, remove all impure himors from the body open the poves externally and intrigually separate all foreign and obnoxious particles from the section as the nest of discass, the control to the heart, lunzs, and liver; and thereby they restore kealth, even when all other means have tailed.

I have had physicians learned in the profession. I have had ministers of the gospel, judges of the bench, aldermen, lawyers, gentlemen of the highest entition, and multitudes of the poor use it in every variety of tway, and there has been but one voice—one universal voice—saying.

off by the wind.

There is no time better then the present to cut ecions for grafting; in doing this great care should be taken to ascertain and select the best varieties, and they should all be immediately labelled after cutting so as to prevent mistakes arising from placing wrong names upon them. When grafts are cut long before they are to be set, they may be conveniently preserved in damp (not wet) moss placed in a celler, or by burying their larger ends in moderately moist earth. With regard to the relative advantages of grafting and budding, each has its peculiar merics. Budding is less laborous, but requires more attention, that is, it is first necessary to insert the buds, then in a few days to generate the lightness before it cuts the light and remove the ligature before it cuts the limb, and lastly to cut off the stock above the bud; but in grafting, after the first operation is performed, no turther care is needed. Budding however requires less skill, and consequently more generally succeeds: besides, some kinds of fruit, as peaches, and nectarines, can rarely if ever be propageted by grafting.

Grafting with wax is greatly superior to the old, clamey and dirty method of using clay. It may be prepared by meling and incorporating tagether, three parts of rosin, three of becawax, and one of tallow; or on account of the high preserved becawax, a larger quantity of rosin and tallow may be successfully used. Care should however be taken that it be not too soft, as in that case it
