THE SOURCE OF HAPPINESS.

You might wear a crown, but a guilty concience would him it with thorns; you might roll in wealth, but an accusing conscience would haut you like a degoor; you may launch forth hunt you like a degoor; you may launch forth hunt you like a degoor; you may launch forth hunt you like a degoor; you may launch forth hunt pleasures of the world, but conscience will register every deed and fortell a day of reckning. Milton has put the deepest philosophy into the mount of the arch fiend when he exclaims — "The mind is in its own place, and in itself; an make a hell of heaven—a heaven of hell."

The will anywhere else. The world within is our though and constant abode. Our thoughts are our, massion, our food, our wealth, our inheritance. Everything is viewed through the medium of thought. Here the present world, the world to come, ourselves, our friends, our foes, and even the Deity, are reflected, surveyed and contemplated; and hence, to have peace within, is heaven.—When all is tranquil sround, the mind may be tike the troubled sea; and on the contrary, the last thunder may roar, the earth quake, and the heavens dissolve and melt with fervent heat, and yet the sool, far from feeling the least alarm, may be will an sing. Nor need we wait for happiness till death has unlocked the portals of blus. To walk by faith, and serve our generation according to will each has unlocked the portals of blus. To walk by faith, and serve our generation according to him at a time when the will of God, will enable us to realize no small amount of blessedness.

Douglas Jerrold, thus graphically describes the Douglas Jerrold, thus graphically describes the Archimedesu lever?

"The power of the press is as boundless as that of society. It reaches the throne—it is enclosed in the cottage. It can pull down injustice, however lofty, and ratio up lowliness, however lofty, and ratio up lowliness, however deep. It castigates crime which the law can only punish without repressing it. Wherever an eye can see, or a hand can write, there is the press. Persons in tribulation rely on if for redress, and they feel sure that wrong will not go unpunished if it be known to the journals. Like light, it penetrates into every nook and cranny of society, and carries help and healing on its beams. It nips rising abuse in the but. It stops the tide of tyranny when setting in full flood. It derives its vast power from the practites of its being. Speaking out truth and representing reason, it concentrates on one point the whole moral power of society, and persuades and governs without violence, by the mere knowledge that the physical power of society is always ready to influence the right. As it comes into operation, the course of society
