No country on the face of the globe can exhibit a similar rapid progress in any one branch of domestic industry —Many other branches were transferred to our own country, and sprang up almost as rapidly —but it is unnecessary to enumerate them in , this petition.

Your petitioners do not believe that the Tariff of 1842 protected one class of the community at the expense of the other, but like the dew of Heaven, it fell upon all alike -- the Miner, the Laborer, the Mechanic, the Mahufpeturer, the Merchant, the Farmer, and the Planter, all partook of the blessings of prosperity which it diffused throughout the whole country, and among all classes of people. So completely identified are the different branches of industry, that no one can be built up or prostrated without affecting the others, nor can the Laborer prosper without the Capitalist, the Manufacturer, on the Farmer; nor can the Farmer, the Manufacturer, or the Capitalist, prosper without the Laborer. The latter can only assert his rights when all the people are employed and the country is in a flourishing condition. It is then that he can dictate his own terms and throw off any vassalage that may exist, and be a freeman in every sense of the word; and besides, when prosperity reighs throughout the country the consumption naturally increases, while the production decreases. Under such circumstances the reward the Laborer receives inc consumption infution in the second body together ; his favorite test hour system can then be established throughout the country, and he be permitted to take a day or two occasionally to visit his friends or for recreation, without being threatened with a discharge if he absents himself from his work. The man of small means is also protected from the overgrown capitalist—the increased consumption, produced by good wages, creates a market for all the productions of the manufacturers, and the small producer enters the market on the same footing with the large capitalist; but the moment protection ceases and consumption decreases, and the market becomes glutted with foreign and domestic productions, the man of small means must succumb to his more wealthy competitor, who monopolizes the whole, trade at home, if lucky enough to escape the ruin which generally follows from the influx of foreign goods, produced by the low labor of Europe. These are the natural effects of protection, and the want of protection, to American Industry

Your petitioners have also been taught to believe that the right to manufacture and protect our own labor, was one of the principal elements that entered into that great and glorious struggle of our forefathers, which resulted in the establishment of our present Institutions—this right was purchased and sealed with the blood of those who fell on the battle-field, and we their descendants, would prove recrease to the trust if we did not maintain it inviolable, and hand it down as a precious boon to posterity; they burst asunder the fetters that bound them to down-trodden Europe, and if our Representatives of the present day desire to reinstate us into the same colonial vassalage, as regards the right to manufacture and protect our own labor, they will most assuredly be held responsible to the people for their conduct.

Your petitioners live under peculiar institutions-here the masses make the laws, and in order to make good laws, it is necessary Your petitioners live under peculiar institutions—here the masses make the laws, and in order to makel good laws, it is necessary that they should be intelligent i to secure the advantages of education, our highest rates of wages must be maintained; and in order to maintain these rates, the laborer must be protected from the low labor of Europe—this, we believe, can only be accom-plished by levying such duties on foreign products, which is the result of that labor, to make up the difference. They therefore respectfully petition your honorable bodies to repeal the Tariff Bill of 1846, which discriminates against American Labor and Industry, and pass a Bill framed upon the principle of the Tariff of 1842, with such adequate rates of protection, which the present wants of the different branches of Trade require—a Bill which not only discriminated in factor of American Labor, but substituted specific for ad valorum duties, by which alone the numerous fratids of the custom houses can be detected, and a uniform sets of duties of light the different protection. a uniform rate of duties collected at the different ports.

We would take this occasion to state, that although Pennsylvanians, we do not desire protection to our leading products, Coal and Iron, alone. We feel that it would be unjust to ask for any bill that would not embrace all the varied manufactures and productions that require protection ; believing, as we do, that such partial protection would not inure to our benefit so long as those who purchase and consume our productions are left without the ability to make use of them. Your petitioners do most earnestly invite your immediate attention to this important subject. We firmly believe that the desired change is absolutely necessary to arrest the total prostration of American Manufactures-and unless arrested without further delay, LABOR, which is the foundation of the wealth and prosperity of the country, cannot meet with itw just reward.
