"The effect of Cod Liver Oil in most of these cases was voly remarkable. Even in a few days the course was voly remarkable. Even in a few days the course was mitigated, the expected often diminished in quantity and opacity, the right average cased, the pulse became slower, and of letter volume, and the napetite, flesh and strength were gradually improved. If conclusion, I repeat that the pure fresh oil from the Liver of the Cod is more beneficial in the treatment of Poinmonary Consumption than any agent, medicinal, dictic or regimenal, that has yet been comployed."

THE ANGEL OF OUR HOME. BY C. H. UUTCHINGS. "There is not an angel added to the Host of Heaven it does liablessed work on earth in those that loved here."—Dickens.

There comes an angel day by day Into this home of ours;
And if we chance abroad to stray, 'Tis there among the flowers.
Its low, sad, gentle voice is heard By night about our bed,

In many a dear familiar word That minds us of the dead. It brightens all our happiness : And, when dark sorrows come, Speaks comfort to our hearts, and is The Angel of our Home.

When first we learned to speak of Douth We felt it by our side-White, blessing us with parting breath, Our own sweet mother died. It stay'd our unavailing tears, And kiss'd our pale cheeks dry

Brought hope to soothe our faithless fours, And pointed towards the aky, Since then, in all our happiness, And when dark sorrows come, 'Tis ever by our side, and is

"THE SUMMER IS EXDED." The time of Song and Flowers has come and gone, and the gentle breezes of Autumn are heard gone/and the gentic precess of Attum are heard sighing o'er the withered beds of decaying flowers, and through the branches of leafless trees, where the morry bird thrilled forth its richest songs.
The melody of the babbling brook is drowed in the passing winds—the quiet, gentle grove has been stripped of its green roof—the hill and valley are fast losing their summer loveliness, and the loaf is ecar and vellow. sear and yellow.

Since last our cheeks were famed by the cooling winds of Actumn, what a change has come over the domestic hearths of many of us! What dear domestic scenes have been broken asunder—the heart's idel laid low in the dust, and familiar faces been buried in the "cold obstruction of the lamb!" tomb!" The stranger disease, whose track in the old obstruction of time tomb!" The stranger disease, whose track in the Oil World was marked by grief and desolation, was waited to our beloyed shores, and its coming was the signal for monaing sobs and crushed hopes.—Our goodly city was not exempt from its tayage.

Three years fled with their usual awiftness.—To Sarah D— they were very slow and painful, yet also was happy in her quiet way, and no one dreamed of the strange tryst she was longing to keep on the other side of that dark river which men so shrink from. She grow feebly daily, as the summer and actumn advanced, and in D— tember she was evidently dying.

Due day her mother had been out of the house, perhaps making calls. She returned at evening, and, among other incidents of news which she had learned, she mentioned to Sarah the death of her old friend, Joseph S—.

The fait girl was reclining in her large arm chair tooking out through the closed windows at the snow on the ground, and the pure moonlight which silvered it. There was no starting emotion visited as her mother mentioned the fact, which to lier was the most solemn yet most juytul news the world could give; for now, how much nearer was their meeting! I saw a smile flash across her face as the joyfut rews reached her ear. I saw her forehead raised to fed the caress which I know she felt! Then she smiled, and looked at me, with finger upraised, and said, 'Wait a little while longer, dear W—'And then, after a moment, she said, 'Mother, is the snow very deep!'

'Not very, dear, Why did you ask!'

'Because; if it were deep, I thought it would be difficult for Mr. Smith to find our lot in the graveyard. Are all the head stones covered, mother!'

How idly and flippantly the word death is said! Who can tell what a day will bring furth! We are here to-day, and to-morrow numbered with the dead! Your fathers where are they?

To use a correct figure of speech,—seventy grains of said taken from the mighty ocean, represent the usual number of years allotted to man.
