"Dayron, May 1, 1847.

"Dr. A. M. Mauriceau—My Pear Sir: 'The Married Woman's Private Medical Companion,' for which I enclosed one dollar to your address, came safely to hand. I would not have troubled you with these few lines, but that I am impelled by a sense of gratitude, for myself and wife, to give utterance to our sincere and heartfelt emotions.

"My wile has been perceptibly sinking for some three years or more, in consequence of her great anguish and suffering some months before and during confinement; every successive one more and more debilitated and prostrated her, putting her life in imminent danger, and which was, on the last occasion, despaired of. I supposed that this state of things was inevitable, and resigned myself to meet the worst. At this time thow about two months! I heard your book highly spoken of as containing some matters reaching my case. On its receipt and perusal, I can not express to you the relief it afforded my distressed mind and the oy its pages imparted to my wife, on learning that the great discovery of M. M. Desomeaux provided a remedy. It opened a prospect to me which! I atthe conceived was possible. No peruniary consideration can ever repay the obligations I am under to you for having been the means of imparting to us the matters contained in 'The Married Woman's Private Medical Companion.' But for this gere another year would have passed over my head, in all human probability my wife would have been in her grave, and my cluddren left motherless."

Then why not every man gain the celebrity of General Tayltr, a Daniel Wester, or a lifency Clay? And yet there are some who are foolish enough to doubt that a man may be born with the power to see into future events. How can it be possible that the destiny of man should be destined by the mere shuffling of a pack of cards 1 and yet there are thousands who allow themselves, with open months, to swaltow the greasy words of some old woman, whose true skill consists in filling them with wonders that are most difficult for the digestion of others who are more credulous, yetimore scientific. It is such that bring discredit on a profession that has been acknowledged to be a science of the highest oru der, from time immemorial, and is the only profession that has boty authority to sustain it. In addition to his power to foresee future events, he has the power to give such information as will effectually redeem such as are given to the too free use of the bottle. If I express myself rather warmly, you will see that I can not do so too warmly, when I inform you of the extent to which I have, through it, been benefited. I will state my situation when I obtained your book through the merest curiosity.' I look upon it as one of the most fortunate events of my life. I had been married some ten years, and was the father of seven children. I was long struggling unceasingly to the end that I might gain a moderate competency, but the results of my utmost exertions at the end left me about where I was at the beginning of each year; and that only, with the most stinted economy, sufficing with barely the necessaries of life. Finally, this constant effort was beginning to have its effect upon my health: I felt less capable to endure its continuance, while I felt the necessity of perseverance.

"This constant, unceasing struggle on my part was imperative, in consequence of the prostrated condition of my wife (with occasional intermission) for six years, much of the time confined to her bed, and of course incapable of taking the charge and management of household affairs. Her condition arose from causes of which I was ignorant. Oh! what would I have given had I the six years to live over again! What would my wife have given to have been spared the long days and still longer nights prostrate on a bed of sickness!—all of which would have been avoided, had I then seen a copy of "The Markied Woman's Private Medical."

The brooks that sing the livelong day,
Through the deep woods and meadow lands,
Washing away the glittering sands,
Are happiest in their play; Far up you wild and shady hill I hear the rumbling waterfall Dashing beside the ruined wall,

Where stands the grey old mill. O, beautiful the earth and ky! And sweetly comes the mountain breeze, While neath these tall and aged trees I'd almost love to die!

Yes, when the soft twilight of the heart' Steals o'er the land-cape growing dim; And sweeter sounds the evening hymn. Let tears unbidden start. With upturned eyes see the new moon Hang her pale light in heaven's own blue, When noisless falls the silvered dew—

SHEEP. These gentle creatures, who both feed and lothe us, require protection, under shelter, during the winter. The better they are kept, the greater and more beautiful will be their fleeces—the more money they will bring into your pockets. Their shed, which should be tight, and face the south, and open upon a yard, must be bedded every few days with traw, so as to keep them clean. They should each receive about three pounds of hay daily -if given a gill of oats, bean, or pea meal, laily, two and a half pounds of hay will answer, or the like quantity of well cured fodder or straw. Two pounds of roots, to be cut up, and two pounds of long provender for a day's ration a head. A trough, with salt strewed over tar should, at all times, be accessible to them. . If, however, you supply them with pine boughs to browse on, you may dispense with the tar. The yard, which the sheep have access to, should first receive, a foot of earth in depth, fashioned into a ditch shape, which should be kept covered with straw, from time to time, for the double purpose of adding to the comfort of the sheep, and absorbing their urine. Sheep dung and sheep urine thus protected from deterioration, is among the richest of manufes, and we venture the assertion, that a flock of one nundred sheep, furnished with the right kind f material, would make manure enough from November till May, to fertilize fifteen acres of land.

Fowls may be fattened in four or five days, by the following process: 1 Set some rice over the fire with skimmed milk, as much only as will serve one day. Let it boil till the rice is swelled out; add a tenspoonful of of sugar. Feed them four or five times day in pans, and give them as much each time as will fill them. Great care must be taken that they have nothing sour given them, as that prevents their fattening. Give them ear water or the milk from the rice to d By this method the flesh will have a clear whiteness; and as rice goes further than barley-meal, it will be found more economi-

My reply is as follows:

For about facetty years I had been suffering from Dyspepsia. Every year the symptoms became worse, nor could I obtain permanent relief from any course of medical treatment whatever. About fourteen years since, in consequence of frequent exposure to the weather, in the discharge of my pastoral duties, I became subject to a swere the charge of my pastoral duties, I became subject to a swere the indestribable anguish. Palsy and Paralysis.

All physicians acknowledge that these terrible diseases are caused by a deficiency of Nerveus Energy in the affected limbs. Da. Chairris's Galvanic Articles will supply this deficient power, and a complete and entire cure is thus effected. 1000 Cases of Palsy and Paralysis have been reported to Dn. "A. H. Chenavir. M. D.—Dear Sir: One of my patients, inknown to me, obtained your Gairenic Belt and Necklace, with the Magnetic Fluid, for a serious affection of Deafness. The case was that of a lady whose Nervous system was much disordered, and her general health poor. Much was done previously to the application of the Belt, but with very little success, and I feel it only right to tell you, that since, she commenced wearing the Belt and using the Fluid, but a few weeks ago, she has ENTRELY RECOVERED HER HEARING, and her general health is better than for several years."
