No Young unmarried woman," says Jeremy Lewis, "ought to be permitted to read a novel of any description. Had I a daughter with a heart of ice, and a face as grim as the lion's head on an antique knocker, she should never pore over a tale of love, to make that ice smoke or induce her to believe that her face was as good as her neighbor. Nature teaches us to sigh soon enough in all conscience, without our needing the bellows of imagination to inflate the lungs prematurely."

THE LONGER I live, the more I am certain that the great difference between men, the great and the insignificant, is energy -invincible determination-an honest purpose once fixed—and then death or victory. The quality will do anything that can be done in the world : and no talents, no circumstances, no opportunity will make a two legged creature a man without it.

IT IF THE STARS were to appear but one night in a thousand years, how would men believe and preserve for many generations the remembrance of God which had been shown. But every night come out these preachers of beauty, and light the universe with their admonishing smile.
