

Wit and Humor.

Puzzling a Yankee.

"Americans," says the gen newspaper, the Yankee Blade, are an inquisitive people...

"How'd he do?" exclaimed the latter, bustling up to him as he lighted for a few moments at a hotel...

"Yes, I have been there for ten in my life," "You are going to be surprised," "You're just regularly one a year."

"You don't say so?" "Well, I declare you are a lawyer, or may be a trader, or perhaps some other profession or calling?"

"Yes, I have always pursued some one of those professions," "You're just engaged in trading."

"Yes, men and women; horses and carriages, and a furious north-west," "You don't say so?"

"What'd you think they'd do with Sims?" "Why, sir, it is my opinion that either deliver him up to the courts, or let him free."

"You've had a monstrous sight of rain in Boston—did an awful sight of damage, I suppose?"

"No, they hauled it on to the Common, under the Liberty Tree," "You're a circus man, are you?"

"Yes, I am," "You're a circus man, are you?" "You're a circus man, are you?"

"The Fakir's again," "This wonderful phenomenon assumes, Proteus-like, as many characters as there are faces in the human countenance."

"What's the price of eggs?" "Eight cents a dozen, if you want a single dozen."

"I'll take them eggs," said the Fakir, "I'll take them eggs," said the Fakir...
