On one occasion, not more than three years perore ms death, it is said, "ne was preaching to one of themost crowded cougregations that ever assembled to hear him. In the middle of his discourse, he observed a great commotion in the gallery; (he was always greatly annoyed at any noise in the chapel;) for a time he took no notice of it, but finding it increasing, he paused in his sermon, and looking in the direction in which the confusion prevailed, he exclaimed, "What is the matter there? The devil seems to have got before his death, it is said, "he was preachamong you." A plain country-looking man immediately started to his feet, and addressing Mr. Hill in reply, said, "No sir, it aint the devil as is a doing on it; it's a lady wot's fainted; and she is a very fat un, sir, as don't seem likely to come to again in a hurry." "Oh, that's it, is it," observed Mr. Hill, drawing his hand across his chin, "then I beg the lady's pardon-and the devil's too.

Dear Size—I delayed onswering the receipt of your privatation, until I had an opportunity of witnessing its effects in my own family, or in the families of my friends.

This i have now done with a bigh degree of satisfacton, in cases both of adults and children.

I have found it, as its ingredients show, a power for remedy for colds, and coughs, and pulmonary discases.

BENEFITS OF DRAINING. Wet soil should be drained, as no soil which retains in its body a superabundance of water can be very productive, or bear crops of superior quality, no matter of what its constituent elements may be comprised. The following practical effects of draining, are summarily given by Professor Rogers:

low either by capillary attraction, or springs 3. It allows the water of rains to penetrate and find a ready passage from the soil, instead of washing the surface. 4. The descent of water through the soil is followed by fresh air, which occupies a space just left by the water. 5. The soil after thorough draining becomes closer, more friable, and easy broken: this is especially true of stubborn clays, which in practice, become altogether another

6. By freeing the soil from the excess of water it becomes warmer, and thereby advances the crop to an earlier harvest; thus is equivalent to a change of climate. 7. When the autumn is wet, draining carries off the superahundance of water, and prepares the land for sowing fall crops, which would otherwise be retarded, or altonother prevented. 8. In its consequences it is equivalent to in actual deepening the soil. 9. In wet soils, bones, wood, ashes, rape lust, nitrate of sods, and all other artificial manures are thrown away. 10. It produces a more salubrious climate, and conduces greatly to the health and moral happiness of the whole population. DISEASES OF CATTLE.

Horn Distember .- Farmers are generally ware of the fact that cattle once attacked with the horn distemper are subject to similar attacks every succeeding winter or spring. have found by experience that a dose of soot and salt given occasionally, with a little spirits of turpentine between the horns, will prevent an attack.

Black Leg .-- Many calves are lost every year by this disease. It is generally believed to be caused by change of feed in the spring. have kept a large number of calves for several winters past, and have never had one affected with this disease. I raise a large quantity of roots, principally sugar beet, and feed them during the winter to my young stock. The change in the spring is not so great as though they had been kept on dry feed during the winter, and I think calves fed partly on roots during the winter will not be troubled with black leg.

Many of our cows are attacked with a disease soon after calving. For a short time they appear well, but soon are taken with an inflammatory disease, I suppose, and most thus attacked die, unless helped speedily.-The best remedy we have found, is a tablespoonful of saltpetre, dissolved in a pint of whiskey. This remedy is quite successful.

-Genesee Farmer. THEY WERE PARMERS Adam was a farmer while yet in Paradise, and after his fall was commanded to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. Job, the honest, upright, and patient, was a farmer, and his stern endurance has passed into a proverb." Socrates was a farmer, and so wedded to his calling the glory of his immortal philosophy. St. Luke was a farmer, and divides with Prometheus the honor of subjecting the ox for the use of man. Cincinnatus was a farmer, and the noblest Roman of them al!. Burns was a farmer and filled his soul with poetry. Washington was a farmer, and retired from the highest station to the quiet of rural life, and presented to the world its speciacle of human greatness. To those names may be added a host of others who sought peace and repose in the cultivation of their mother earth; the enthusiastic Lafayette, the steadfast Pickering, the scholastic Jefferson, the fiery Randolph, all found in rural pursuits an El Dorado. FARMERS' ACCOUNTS. We have for a long series of years watched retty narrowly the habits of many farmers, and we have found that those who have kept constant and accurate accounts, and settle regularly and punctually with their neighbors, also keep all their farm operations in neat and regular order. On the other hand, those who are careless and slack in settling uted or paying their debts, also keep a slipshod account with every part of their farms; no system, no clock-work regularity is maintained in their yearly routine of work.-They also waste time in hunting for displaced tools: waste money by doing work out of season, and waste happiness by fretting over the disorder and confusion which their own hands have created. To avoid hese evils, begin anew, by settling, in some shape or other, with every debtor and creditor, and keep a strict and careful account

Ashes applied as a top dressing answers a very excellent purpose on most pastures. It increases the value of feed, and serves to bring in the grasses. Other top dressings often prove heneficial, such as plaster, bone dust, lime, and salt, according to the nature and condition of the soil to be treated. The cheapest and best application for a particular pasture may be determined by a careful analysis of the soil, or by well conducted experiments. pastures are not exhausted so rapidly
