THE MINERS' JOURNAL, AND POTTSVILLE GENERAL ADVERTISER.

Wit and Humor.

LOOKING OUT FOR NUMBER ONE.

We recollect hearing a Dutch friend of ours, or rather neighbor, in the kingdom of New Jersey, when we were "farming," give a direction to his son, which may be considered a practical commentary upon Lord Mansfield's "dictum."

"Hans," said he, "you go to mills right off, dere ish no corn meal."

"Yah," said Hans, "and dere is no corn shelled neider."

"Nein? Vell, ten I tells you. How much corn Schmidt borrows? —you know ven—last year sometimes."

"Vel, pout vun bushel." replied Hans.

"Yah! so I tink, too. Take de mare, Hans, and tell Schmidt you come for de corns vot he borrows. And Hans, take a couple of pags mit you, mine soh Hans. Schmidt have very short memory, Hans, and dant vorth viles taking ron pushel to te mills, Hans."

WAYS AND MEANS.

Two Irishmen, who were travelling together got out of money, and being in want of a drink of whiskey, devised the following ways and means:

Patrick, catching a frog out of a brook, went forward and the first tavern he came to, asked the landlord what creature that was? "It's a frog," replied the landlord. "No sir," said Pat, "it is a mouse." "It is a frog," rejoined the landlord. "It is a mouse," said Pat, "and I'll lave it to the first traveller that comes along, for a pint of whiskey!" "Agreed," said the landlord.—Murphy soon arrived, and to him the appeal was made. After much examination and deliberation, it was decided to be a mouse, and the landlord, in spite of the evidence of his own senses, paid the debt.

☞ FASTIDIOUS TASTE.—An amusing little incident occurred at the Wright House last evening. A verdant looking chap sat down to take "some fillin'," as Joe Lawson would say, and in due time a waiter presented himself at the back of our hero's chair, and inquired:

"Tea or coffee, sir?"

"Tea," he answered.

"What kind of tea?"

Greeny looked up in the waiter's face, and, with considerable emphasis, said,—"Why store tea, of course. I don't want your blamed sassafras."—Indianapolis Journal.

☞ A WESTERN editor gives the following as the most approved method of killing fleas in those parts:—Place the animal on a smooth pine board, and hedge him in with putty; then READ him an account of all the railroad and steamboat accidents which have happened in the last twelve months.—As soon as he becomes so frightened as not to be able to stir, draw out his teeth, and he will starve to death.

☞ A MAN IN Cathance was pursued by a large snake. All at once it occurred to him, just as the reptile was preparing to jump at his throat, to run around a small birch-tree which stood in his path, as light as he could spring. He did so, till he got the "critter" in a snarl, when he stopped suddenly, threw a back summerset, and the snake trying to follow him, tied himself into a hard not.

☞ "I AM NOT very far-sighted," observed the captain, "but I rather think I am quick at hearing, shipmates. A good many years ago I was in London, and was one day standing with a friend alongside of St. Paul's. 'Look here,' says he, pointing to the steeple, 'do you see that little mouse running along the weathercock?' 'No,' says I, 'I don't see nothing, but I can hear him trot distinctly.'"

☞ HOW PLEASANT, when one is lying in full gaze at the voluptuous moon, counting the jewels that flash in the deep blue sky, with a heart entranced by adoration, is it to feel a bedbug as big as a sea turtle, trotting into the middle of your back, and to hear about forty of the "ancient regime" gallinippers singing "Scots wha ha' wi' Wallace bled," outside of your mosquito bar!

☞ A KEEPER of a boarding house in New Orleans, finding that a tall buckeye was rather severe on his corned pork and cabbage, after helping his ravenous guest for the third time, thus addressed his Western friend:—"I beg your pardon, sir, but I should like to know if you have't been in the pork packing business, you seem to understand it thoroughly."

☞ REPORT.—A celebrated barrister one day examining a witness, who foiled all his attempts at ridicule by her ready and shrewd answers, at last exclaimed:

"There is brass enough in your head, madam, to make a five pail kettle."

"And sap enough in yours, sir, to fill it," quickly retorted the unintimidated witness.

☞ A YANKEE, who lately removed to Wisconsin, writes to his brother, in Massachusetts, that the section where he resides is in a prosperous condition. He says that but one failure has ever occurred in his county, and in that case the man paid one hundred and twenty-five cents on the dollar.

☞ THE REV. MR. FREEMAN, Missionary to South Africa, writes that the natives vanquish the lions by seizing them by the tail, and lifting them off the ground. He says they are so astonished at finding their hind legs suddenly of no use, that they are stupified, and so killed!

☞ A FAIR HIT.—"Here, you hog trotter," said a half dandy soapfat to an Irish laborer, "come tell the biggest lie you ever told in your life, and I'll treat you to a whiskey punch." "An' by my sowl, yer honor's a gentleman," retorted Pat.

☞ A LAZY FELLOW named Jack Hole, living near Covington, Kentucky, has adopted a way of spelling his name, which throws Fonotype far enough into the shade. He makes a big "H," and then jabs his pen through the paper for the "Hole."

☞ "POUR, what am a jury ob inkwest?" "Wal, de fact is, nigger, a jury ob inkwest am a lot of fellers what sits down on a dead man to find out wedder he am dead for certain, or only playing possum."

☞ WANTED TO KNOW.—The length of the Rule of Three? How many days in the March of Intellect? The depth of the well where Truth is found? The width of a broad hint?

☞ THE OLD lady who used to dry her clothes on the equinoxial line, has gone to Greenland to get the north pole to draw her cistern water with.

☞ WELLERISMS.—"Come, rest in this bosom," as the turkey said to the stuffing.

"Ours is no common lot," as the toads said when they got into a clover field.

☞ A WOMAN, charged with being drunk and disorderly, denied the latter offence, saying that "she was too drunk to be disorderly."

Scientific and Practical.

☞ WASHING LACE.—I have lately used the following method of washing lace, lace collars, or crotchet collars, and find that it not only makes them look well, but saves much of the wear and tear of other washing:—Cover a glass bottle with calico or linen, and then tack the lace or collar smoothly upon it, rub it with soap, and cover it with calico. Boil it for twenty minutes in soft water: let all dry together, and the lace will be found ready for use. A long piece of lace must be wound round and round the bottle, the edge of each round a little above the last, and a few stitches to keep it firm at the beginning and end will be found sufficient, but a collar will require more tacking to keep it in its place.

☞ TOBACCO FOR WOUNDS.—Mr. H. Van Ansdall, of Eaton, Ohio, makes the following statement over his own signature, as to the efficacy of Tobacco on certain wounds. He says:

"I have seen a number of deaths reported from Tetanus, or lock-jaw, induced by wounds from nails and other iron instruments. The oxide of iron, when introduced into the flesh, by puncture of nails, &c., or cuts from rusty edge-tools, occasions the most intense pain, as I have experienced many others have testified to the painful nature of such, though not otherwise dangerous wounds. Tobacco (abused by friend and foe, as it is) will relieve the pain resulting from such wound, in ten or fifteen minutes, if properly applied: my mode has been to take a piece of good, strong tobacco, and chew it until it is saturated with saliva, and then apply it with a bandage. It has never, within my knowledge, failed to give relief, and I have seen it applied to wounds that were deep and painful."

☞ VARNISH FOR OIL-PAINTINGS.—Dextrine 2 parts, alcohol 1 part, water 6 parts. Varnish for drawings and lithographs:—Dextrine 2 parts, alcohol half a part, water 2 parts. These should be prepared previously with two or three coats of starch or rice, boiled and strained through a cloth.

☞ TO CURE A FELON.—Take one table spoonful of red lead, and one table spoonful of Castile soap, mix them with as much weak ley as will make it soft enough to spread like a salve, and apply it on the first appearance of the felon, and it will cure it in ten or twelve hours.

☞ FATTENING POULTRY.—Coop up poultry to fatten, and they will do well up to 12 or 14 days. Keep them in the coops beyond that time, and feed them as much as you like, they will grow leaner every day until they grow a skinful of bones, and die.—Agricultural Gazette

☞ TO KEEP CLOTHES PURE. Lay between the folds of garments that have acquired an unpleasant odor from being laid away for some time, pieces of newly-made charcoal. The charcoal will absorb the odor and render the clothes sweet and nice.

☞ SAUCE FOR BOILED MUTTON.—Two spoonfuls of liquor the mutton was boiled in, two spoonfuls of vinegar, three eschalots, and a little salt. Put in a saucepan, with a little flour, a piece of butter the size of a walnut; stir up and give it a boil.

☞ WOOD which proves troublesome by snapping on the fire, may be rendered harmless by turning the stick with the heart inward, when all the snapping will be toward the back of the fire.

Information for the People,

ON THE PLAIN "WHY" AND "BECAUSE".

☞ WHY DOES a razor operate best when dipped in hot water? Because the temperature of the blade has then been raised, and the fineness of the edge proportionally increased.

In some experiments, the knife edges attached to the pendulum described by Captain Kater, in Phil. Trans. 1818, on being carefully hardened and tempered in the bath at 432°, were, on trial, found too soft. They were a second time hardened, and then heated to 212°, at which point the edges were admirably tempered. Thus, it will be remembered, is the heat of boiling water, and further illustrates the preceding question.

In the manfacture of a razor, it proceeds through a dozen hands; but as afterwards subjoinded to a process of grinding, by which the concavity is perfected, and the fine edge produced. They are made in 1s. per dozen to 20s. per razor, in which last the handle is valued at 16s. 6d.—Scissors, in like manner, are made by hand, and every pair passes through sixteen or seventeen hands, including fifty or sixty operations, before they are ready for sale. Common sciesors are cast, and when rivetted, are sold as low as 4s. 6d. per gross! Small pocket knives, too, are cast, both in blades and handles, and sold at 6s. per gross, or a halfpenny each! These low articles are exported in vast quantities, in casks, to all parts of the world.

☞ WHY DOES a razor (if drawn lightly over the hand) dart into the flesh, whereas, if pressed against the hand with considerable force, it will not enter. Because of the vibration of particles produced by the drawing action, which enables the razor to insinuate itself more easily. We witnessed an example only a few days since, when a bon vivant, in a fit of muscheivous ecstacy, seized a pointless table knife and passed it very lightly down the back of his friend's coat. The injury was not immediately seen, but the cloth proved cut, from the collar to the waist; whereas, had the knife been pressed heavily against the cloth, the coat would have escaped injury, and the gay fellow the expense of his folly.

☞ WHY MAY a printing press be said to do the work of fifty men? Because a solitary workman, with his screw, or other engine, can press a sheet of paper against the types, so as to take off a clear impression: to do which without the press, the direct push of fifty men would be insufficient; and these fifty men would be idle and superfluous, except just at the instant of pressing, which recurs only now and then. This illustration is almost literally from Dr. Arnott's works, in which the importance of having correct notions on the subject of the simple machines, or mechanical powers, is illustrated by many other familiar examples.

☞ WHY DO we make gifts on New Year's Day? Because such was the custom in the time of Romulus and Tatius, when the usual presents were figs and dates covered with leaf gold, and sent by clients to patrons, with a piece of money, which was expended to purchase the statues of deities.

☞ WHY SHOULD a road up a very steep hill, be made to wind or zig-zag all the way? Because, to reach a given height, the ease of the pull is greater, exactly as the road is made longer.
