THE BLOOMER COSTUME. (Dilivered without prejudice to the real merits of the question.)—"Don't a lady's dresses of the present day take so many lengths to make up—according to the taste of the wearer—but with the Bloomer costume, I should be sorry to say what lengths the lady, who wears it, might feel inclined to go to."

Scientific and Practical.

TO THAW OUT FROZEN PUMPS. The best way that has ever yet been found to secure a log pump from freezing, is to have a steam box from the platform to the nose, a foot square, and connected with the pump, so that the pump shall pump through the platform, and an aperture shall be cut in the platform to let the steam into it from the well.

"Should the Bloomer costume be adopted, petticoats will go out, and petticoats going out, there may be an end, at last, to all petticoat government!—of which no one will be more heartily rejoiced than I."—The Herpecked Husband.

"The jolly good health of the Bloomer costume! For I tell you what, Bill, our 'bush, with all the shaking in the world, won't carry more than sixteen ladies, pack me as tight as you will; but I find that it will take twenty Bloomers comfortably, and allow each an 'em a Bloomer lady on her lap! It's the dress, my boy, you makes the difference."—The Bam Conducter.
