Wit and Humor.

DODGING THE RESPONSIBILITY.

"Sir!" said Fieryfaces, the lawyer, to an unwilling witness, "Sir! do you say, upon your oath, that Blimpkins is a dishonest man?"

"I didn't say he was ever accused of being an honest man, did I?" replied Pipkins.

"Does the Court understand you to say, Mr. Pipkins, that the plaintiff's reputation is bad?" inquired the Judge, merely putting the question to keep his eyes open.

"I didn't say it was good, I reckon."

"Sir!" said Fieryfaces, "sir-r-! upon your oath—mind, upon your oath, upon your oath, you say that Blimpkins is a rogue, a villain and a thief?"

"You say so," was Pip's reply.

"Haven't you said so?"

"Why, you've said it," said Pipkins, "what's the use of my repeating it?"

"Sir-r!" thundered Fieryfaces, the Demosthenean thunderer of Thumbtown, "sir' I charge you, upon your sworn oath, do you or do you not say Blimpkins stole things?"

"No, sir," was the cautious reply of Pipkins. "I never said Blimpkins stole things, but I do say—he's got a devil of a way of finding things that nobody lost!"

"Sir-r," said Fieryfaces, "you can retire," and the Court adjourned."

LAZIEST YET.

During the summer of 1846, corn being scarce in the upper country, and one of the citizens being hard pressed for bread, having worn threadbare the hospitality of his generous neighbors, by his extreme laziness, they thought it an act of charity to bury him. Accordingly, he was carried toward the place of interment, and being met by one of the citizens, the following conversation took place:

"Hallo! what have you there?"

"Poor old Mr. S."

"What are you going to do with him?"

"Bury him."

"What! is he dead? I hadn't heard of his death."

"No, he is not dead, but he might as well be, for he has no corn and is too lazy to work for any."

"That is too cruel for civilized people, I'll give him two bushels of corn myself rather than see him buried alive,"

Mr. S. raised the cover, and asked in his usual dragging tone. "I-s i-t s-h-e-l-l-e-d?"

"No, but you can soon shell it."

"D-r-i-v-e o-n b-o-y-s."

SAILORS' YARNS.

Old Jack Ringbolt had been spinning old Mrs. Tartaremetic any quantity of salty yarns; she was quite surprised at Mr. Ringbolt's ups and downs, trials, travels and tribulations. Honest Jack had assured the old dame that he had sailed over many and many cities, all under water, and whose roofs and chimneys with the sign boards on the stores, were still quite visible. He had seen Lot's wife, or the pillar of salt she was finally frozen into!

"And did you see [illegible] wife?" asked the old lady.

"Yes, marm—bu[illegible] there now—the cattle got afoul of the pillar of salt one day, and licked it all up."

"Good gracious, Mr. Ringbolt!"

"Fact, marm; I seed 'em at it, and tried to sheer 'em away."

"Well, Mr. Ringbolt, you've seen so much, and been around so, I'd think you'd want to settle down. Why don't you take a wife?"

"Well, marm, I have took scores more now, but then their husbands never seemed to like it, so I gin it up!"

☞ One of the actors at the Comedie Francaise, stopped short in a tragedy at this passage, "I was in Rome." It was in vain he began the passage several times: for he could never get farther than Rome. At last there was no help for it, and seeing that the prompter, as embarrassed as himself, was unable to find the place or to give him any assistance, he turned his eyes coolly upon him, and said with an air of dignity, "Well, sir, what was I doing in Rome?"

☞ The Alderman's Advice to his son. —We take the following from Punch:

Mr. Gobble—You see, Sam, you are a very young man, and when I am took away, (which, in the common course of events, can't be werry long first,) you will have a great deal of property. Now, I've only one piece of advise to give you. It's this—and by all means act upon it: Lay down plenty of port in your youth, that you may have a good bottle of wine in your old age.

☞ An old fellow who had become weary of his life thought he might as well commit suicide, but he didn't wish to go off without forgiving all his enemies. So, at the last moment he removed the noose from his neck saying to himself, "I never can nor will forgive Noah for letting the copperhead snakes into the Ark. They have killed $2,000 worth of my cattle; when he and I meet, there will be a general fuss."

☞ A Smart Lad.—A boy from the country was recently taken into a gentleman's family. One evening, after having been called up to the drawing-room, he came down into the kitchen, laughing immoderately. "What's the matter?" cried the cook. "Why, dang it," said he, "there are twelve on 'em up there, who could'nt snuff the candle, and they had to ring for me to do it!"

☞ A married lady, who was in the habit of spending most of her time in the society of her neighbors, happened one day to be suddenly taken ill, and sent her husband in great haste for a physician. The husband ran a short distance, but soon returned, exclaiming, "My dear, where shall I find you when I get back?"

☞ Judge Jeffries, taking a dislike to a witness who had a very long beard, told him "that if his conscience was as long as his beard, he had a swinging one." To which the fellow replied, "My lord, if the conscience is to be measured by the beard, your lordship has neither the one nor the other."

☞ The charms of English ladies were formerly so irresistible that they enjoyed what is called "an European reputation" for sweeping everything before them; but at present the only European reputation which English ladies enjoy, is—thanks to the long dresses—that of sweeping everything behind them.

☞ A Sign of the Times.—There is a coffee house in Cincinnati which has for a sign an inverted boot. Can you guess what it means? What boots that boot? The Daily Commercial says it signifies "foot up." Capital.

☞ An Editor in Vermont, having received two gold dollars in advance, in pay for his paper, says, "that he allows his child to play with other children as usual."

Scientific and Practical.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES.

It is singular that half the world do not know how to make buckwheat cakes; even here in our own enlightened State, we are, in many sections of the country, in the "dark ages" on this important subject. It really gives us pain to see the good dames baking them the size of a dinner plate, and a half inch thick, piling them up upon each other long before breakfast is ready; and there they lie, steaming and sweating, and cooling till the pigs will hardly relish them. This steamed fodder is what some people call buckwheat cakes! Now the real buckwheat cakes are made thus: Take warm water and thicken it with flour, to which add a tablespoonful of molasses, to make them brown well.—Brewer's yeast is best, but it cannot be obtained except in large towns. In the morning add a little soda. If the batter is of the right consistence, and the cakes baked quickly and eaten direct from the griddle, they will be quite different from the tough, heavy things too often stacked up before the fire.

CURE FOR CHAPPED HANDS.

Most of our juveniles, during the winter season, are troubled with chapped hands; for the benefit of the mothers, who are obliged to listen to their endless complaints, we publish the following receipe for chapped hands:

"Take 3 drachms of camphor gum, 3 do. white beeswax, 3 do. spermaceti, 2 ounces olive oil—put them together in a cup upon the stove, where they will melt slowly and and form a white ointment in a few minutes. If the hands be affected, anoint them on going to bed, and put on a pair of gloves. A day or two will suffice to heal them."

CURE FOR HEADACHES.

A work has been published in Paris, by an eminent physician, in which is described a new remedy for headaches. He uses a mixture of ice and salt, in proportion of 1 to 4, as a cold mixture, and this he applies by means of a little purse of silk gauze, with a rim of gutta percha, to limited spots on the forehead or other parts of the scalp, when rheumatic headache is felt. It gives instantaneous relief. The skin is subjected to the process from half a minute to one and a half minutes, and it is rendered hard and white. It is said to be good in erysipelas and diseases of the skin.

TO CLEAN WHITE FURS.

Wash them in cold lather, or soap and water, with a little soda and blue in it; then draw them with the hand, the same as flannel, through several lathers, until they are clean; rinse in clean water, shake them well, and hang up to dry, frequently shaking them while damp.

WASHING STAIRS AND PASSAGES.

The sides of stairs and passages on which are carpets or floor cloths, should be washed with a sponge instead of linen and flannel, and the edges will not be soiled. This is an item for housekeepers.

TO RISE EARLY.

Place a basin of cold water beside your bed, dip your hands in the basin, and sleep will not again seal you in its treacherous embrace.

Information for the People,

OR THE PLAIN "WHY" AND "BECAUSE"

☞ Why does the chameleon change color? Because of the circulation of the blood of the reptile, in increased temperature, either of the ambient air, or of its own body, producing all the variations of the skin. As the passions of the human mind change the color of the skin, as well as form of the features, and according to the rapidity of the flow of blood: so the feelings of the chameleon may also, in some measure, produce analogous changes in the reflecting surface of the skin.—J. Murray, F. L. S.

The reflection of colored objects on the glittering scales of the chameleon, probably gave origin to the fable that its color is regulated by that of the bodies near which it is placed.—Notes to Blumenbuch.

Whatever may be the cause, the fact seems certain, that the chameleon has an antipathy to things of a black color. One, which Forbes kept, uniformly avoided a black board which was hung up in the chamber; and, what is more remarkable, when it was forcibly brought before the black board, it trembled violently, and assumed a black color.

It may be something of the same kind which makes bulls and turkeycocks dislike the color of scarlet, a fact of which there can be no doubt.—J. Rennie.

☞ Why was the invention of wine probably coeval with the grape? Because the delicious sweetness of the grape juice suggested its separation from the fruit, as a drink. The principle of fermentation is present in the grape: the juice, if kept a few hours, will spontaneously ferment; and the singular appearance of the effervescence, resembling boiling in the cold, would sufficiently stimulate curiosity to complete the process. The enlivening effects of the liquor, when vinous, would also assist. It is, therefore, very probable, that wine was discovered nearly 6000 years since, very shortly after the creation of the world.

☞ Why are the tusks of the elephant teeth and not horns, as was once supposed? Because, although ivory, they are formed like other teeth by successive secretions from a pulpy root. The tusk does not adhere to this root, but is held in its socket as a nail is held in a plank, by the elasticity of the parts alone.

☞ Why have cats, and other domestic animals, their passions strongly excited, when viewing themselves in a looking-glass for the first time? Because common experience leads them to expect the object to be in the direction in which the rays come to their eyes, instead of in the real place of the object.

☞ Why is cast-steel so called? Because it is prepared by fusing blistered steel with a flux composed of carbonaceous and vitrifiable ingredients, casting it into ingots, and afterwards, by gentle heating, and careful hammering, giving it the form of bars.

☞ Why, in crossing rivers, is the elephant safe when his body is completely immersed in water? Because it is only necessary for him to bring the tip of his trunk to the surface, so as to breathe the external air.

☞ Why does the trunk of the elephant seize upon large and small objects with equal certainty? Because of the muscles of the trunk, which are nearly 40,000, and have the power of distinct motion.—Cuvier.

☞ Why does the elephant throw up his trunk when attacked by the tiger? Because it may be as far as possible out of reach, and if the trunk be once scratched by the tiger, the elephant becomes ungovernable.

☞ Why is cambric so called? Because it was first manufactured at Cambray in France.

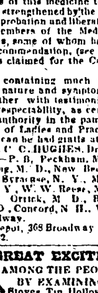
DR. MARCHISI'S

UTERINE CATHOLICON.



THE discovery of the above preparation has established a new era in the history of Medical Science; it is, in truth, one of the greatest Medical Discoveries of the Age, because it will cure more than nine-tenths of the diseases which are peculiar to females in every stage of life, and which have heretofore resisted the best efforts of the Medical profession in all countries, to a degree beyond that of almost every other malady to which any portion of the human family is heir. The diseases to which we refer are usually known by the term of FEMALE COMPLAINTS, and comprise all the derangements to which females are liable by the peculiarities of their organization. Among these are Prolapsus Uteri, or Falling of the Womb; Chronic Inflammation, and Ulceration of the Womb; Incidental Hemorrhage, or Flooding; Fluor Albus, or Whites; Chlorosis; Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, &c., with all their accompanying evils. (Cancer excepted) of whatever duration and severity. All these complaints can be pleasantly, safely and certainly remedied by this preparation.

THE claims of this medicine to the confidence of the public are strengthened by the fact of its having received the approbation and liberal patronage of many prominent members of the Medical Faculty in the United States, some of whom have voluntarily given testimonials of commendation, the pamphlet containing all that is claimed for the Catholicon as a curative agent.

Pamphlets containing much useful information touching the nature and symptoms of the above diseases, together with testimonials from Ladies of the highest respectability, as certified by the Rev. [illegible] and Physicians, may be had gratis on all which applications will be supplied here, at the same advance that Philadelphia merchants have in buying from the same parties.

One-sixth of all that certain house in the town of Pinegrove, which Peter Filbert occupied the 1st July, 1829, with all the appurtenances thereto belonging, as well as 20 acres of ground around the house, and also one-sixth of every other malady to which any portion of the human family is heir. The diseases to which we refer are usually known by the term of FEMALE COMPLAINTS, and comprise all the derangements to which females are liable by the peculiarities of their organization. Among these are Prolapsus Uteri, or Falling of the Womb; Chronic Inflammation, and Ulceration of the Womb; Incidental Hemorrhage, or Flooding; Fluor Albus, or Whites; Chlorosis; Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, &c., with all their accompanying evils. (Cancer excepted) of whatever duration and severity. All these complaints can be pleasantly, safely and certainly remedied by this preparation.

THE claims of this medicine to the confidence of the public are strengthened by the fact of its having received the approbation and liberal patronage of many prominent members of the Medical Faculty in the United States, some of whom have voluntarily given testimonials of commendation, the pamphlet containing all that is claimed for the Catholicon as a curative agent.

Pamphlets containing much useful information touching the nature and symptoms of the above diseases, together with testimonials from Ladies of the highest respectability, as certified by the Rev. [illegible] and Physicians, may be had gratis on all which applications will be supplied here, at the same advance that Philadelphia merchants have in buying from the same parties.
