ONE OF THE MESMERISERS.

A few years ago the following story was overheard in the cars on the road between Albany and Buffalo. One of the conversants, it seems, was a mesmeriser -- a regular " professor." He was dilating upon its rapid development-its astonishing discoveries developed through its agency. Finally he got upon his superiority as a "professor" -a congenial theme-and here he was at branches :- and pear trees a century old, home. ADVANTAGE OF SCIENCE. The skill of Linnaus, derived from his in timate knowledge of science, devised a method of destroying an insect, or of preventing its ravages, which had cost the Swedish government many thousand pounds annually by its destruction of ship timber in a single dockyard. The insect was the Cantharis Navalis. By merely a knowledge of the season when the fly laid its eggs and attending to that fact, the timber was immersed in water at the proper time, and thus the ravages of the insect prevented.

By his botanical knowledge he also ascertained the cause of a dreadful disease among the horned cattle of his country, which had baffled all conjecture, and was considered wholly unaccountable and irremediable. Under the management of Mr. Forsyth, and by his knowledge of vegetable physiolo- of washing. gy, timber trees in Kensington Gardens which had become hollow, were filled with new wood, and made to produce new and thrifty which had become so decayed and knotty as ver the garden walls with new branches, bearing a profusion of fine fruit.

These three facts strongly illustrate the importance of an intimate knowledge of the things about us which we are constantly handling, raising and using in all our operations upon the farm. This is certain knowledge, science; it saved the ship timber, healed the diseased cattle and rejuvenated the trees. The farmer, of all men, ever has bearing a profusion of fine fruit. the trees. The farmer, of all men, ever has something scientific to learn; he should study, reflect and examine, until lie can walk in his fields and hold intelligent converse with his soils, trees and plants in relation to their wonderful structure, springing and growth.-New-England Farmer.
