Interesting Selections. DEFENCE OF BACHELORS.

We find the following in an exchange pa-per, without any oridence of its authorship. As we frequently publish articles against this much abused class, it is no more than fair to give place to anything that can be said in their defence: "Bachelors are styled, by married men who have put their foot in it, as "but half a pair of shears," and many other cutting ti-iles are given them, while on the other hand, they extol their own state as one of such pertect bliss that the change from earth to heaven would be somewhat of a doubtful good. "If they are so happy, why in time don't they enjoy their happiness, and hold their tongues about it? What do half of the men get married for? That they may have somebody to darn their stockings, sew buttons on their shirts, and trot the babies? that they of the Senate chamber, that his ordinary tones in conversing at his desk, could be heard more distinctly than the voices of other er Senators who might be speaking at the time.
