The the products of the introduction of the miles of the surfounding of the character, and many of his sayings and doctor of the same tavern is not supplied with a sufficiency of stabling, and that there is only a rought kind of sheet, quite unfit for keeping or maintaining horses, and in fact the same of the surfounding of the surfoundin tion of Gen Prence, an acknowledged Freetrader, and bidding the party God-speed in London Times—no one can read it without feeling his blood boil with a sense of indignation toward the party corruption in this country, which has elicited this bold avowal of preference, on the part of a foreign power, for a doctrine which is known and felt to be ruisous to our best interests:

"So far as the general interests of the Union and sis relations with ourselves are concerned, General Pierce has our less wiskes for his success."

'The primary question for the United States in this election is the national sanction and raviolable establishment of the principles of free trade For, though no country is more interested in the adonuous and extension of those primariles, that the adoption and extension of those principles than the American Umon, the light has hitherto been carried on against the avowed opinions of the Executive Government. Mr. Fillmore's messages and Mr. To the Honorable the Judger of Corwin's reports have continued to avow profes-tionist doctrines worthy to rank with Lord Granby's of the South, will secure, probably forever, the as-cendency of liberal commercial principles; and if Lord Derby should next year be disposed to take oubt that it will serve to remove the last illusion of the protective system from his mind. In this respect, and on this point, we take General Pierce to be a fair representative of the opinions of Mr.

prove that the Democratic majority, whatever may be their other differences, are unanimous in their testimony on behalf of a liberal commercial policy, and any Government he may form will be one on wernment he may form, will be one on which this country may rely for effectual co-operation in reducing, wherever practicable, existing impediments to international intercourse."

The London Chronicle, also, adds its testimony in favor of Gen. Pierce's election .-It is evident that the true issue of the coming contest is fully understood and appreciated in England, and that the triumph of the Locofoco party is earnestly hoped for, as Gen. P. is regarded as an important ally to British interests. The Chronicle, after exalting him to the ekies, candidly makes the following admission, which shows that the only thing commending him to its favor, is the committal of the miscalled American Democracy to British Free Trade:

We are not aware that there ever existed a politwith the exception of the great question of Free Trade—which possesses, by the way, a far more restricted interest in the eyes of Americans than it does with us—it is difficult to cite a single grand article of Democratic faith. A party which is thus mind by personal attachments and dishless, much more than by any fixed personson is plainly execution. imited by personal alternments and manners, fruen more than, by any tixed personation, is plainly capable of being railied round a name—though it be but a name, and nothing more—with a facility quite foreign to the tactus of actions in older countries. The benefit of all peculiarity has now been successively enjoyed by Mr. Polk and Mr. Pierce.

THE HEND CLAY.-The burning of the Henry Clay, omine Hudson, last week, with the untimely fate of many of her passengers, havergated an intense excitement. and was signed by the following persons !] Upwards of 80-95 bodies have been recovered. The testimony in the coroner's examinaben proved the racion of the boat beyond question. e Law and the Testimony-Let the Public judge for itself.

The License Law of Pennsylvania expresssays, that no man shall be licensed to keep Public House, who is not of good repute 9 n his neighborhood, and if there is any int doubt on the subject, the Court is bound not only to hear evidence, but to seek it to ascertain whether such is the case or not. The following is an extract of the law: "Section 5. No Court shall license any person to keep an lan or Tavern unless from the petition and certificate, or from their own knowledge, or upon evidence sought and obtained, they shall be atisfied of the persons applying, and of the suffi-iency of the accommodations as aforesaid." The friends of Temperance have been inswered that they neglect to bring forward testimony and to follow up their case in opposition to the granting of licences-that me morials and remonstrances are not evidence. We now wish to show by the annexed official report of the Court proceedings that those who opposed the Umbehauer (Pinegrove) and the O'Donnell (Silver Creek) lienses, were prepared and did produce the necessary evidence and offered to produce nore—that they spent both time and money, and used all the means allowed by the Court and the law, to effect their object.
