GOOD NIGHT. Why does water melt salt ?- Because very minute articles of water insinuate themselves into the pores of the salt by capillary attraction, and force the crystals apart from each other. How does blowing hot foods make them cold ?—It causes the air which has been hea-

Why is there always a strong draught through the keyhole of a door?-Because the air in the room we occupy is warmer than the air in the hall; therefore, the air from the hall rushes through the keyhole into the room, and causes a draught.

Why is there always a strong draught under the door, and through the crevices on each side?—Because cold air rushes from the hall to supply the void in the room caused by the escape of warm air up the chimny. It you open the lower sash of a window there is more draught than if you open the upper sash. Explain the reason of this. If the lower sash be open, cold external air will rush freely into the room, and cause a great draught inward: but if the upper sash be open, the heated air of the room will rush out; and, of course, there will be less draught

By which means is a room better ventilated-by opening the upper or lower sash?-A room is better ventilated by opening the upper sash; because the hot vitiated air, which always ascends towards the ceiling, can escape more easily.

By which means is a hot room more quickly cooled-by opening the upper or the lower sash ?- A hot room is cooled more quickly by opening the lower sash; because the cold air can enter more freely at the lower TAKEN by SKY-LiGHT, corner of Makestonge & Centre streets, superior in the delineation of feature and life-expression of the eye. Why is the gallery of all public places hotter than the lower parts of the building? -Because the heated air of the building ascends; and all the cold air which can enter through the doors and windows, keeps to the floor, till it has become heated.
