I like a little then."

"That's just the thing," quoth Tipple-much, Rising from where he sat,
And trying to balance as he walk'd,
"That's right, I'll stick to that.
But, then, to drink too much, why that—
Why that I should despise;"
"That's right; that's right," quoth Tipple-mor Who looked more drunk than wise.
"That's just the talk I like," quoth he;
't Come, brother, join our band;
We'll take another glass on that,"
And seized him by the hand.
With bloodshot eyes and ranged clothes,
Came then poor Tipple-all,

with discount eyes and ragged clothe. Came then poor Tipple-all,
To join his bothers at the bar—
And for the liquor call.
"Is Tipple-a-little then your friend?"
Good Tipple-none replied,—
"You see how all these Tipples range
Themselves upon your side.

Themselves upon your side.
Tis right they should, for one by one, From grade to grade you fall; Thus Tipple a-little comes, at la hus Tippie-a-little come To be poor Tipple-all.

To take the only name that's safe:
And that is—TIPPLE-NONE."

FLOGGING AN EDITOR. About twenty years ago, when a certain Western State (which we will not name) was a Territory, and a very few inhabitants, a young lawyer from one of the old States emigrated thither, and settled in the town of K-. He succeeded admirably in his profession, and rose rapidly in popular favor. He had been there nearly two years, when he induced a printer to come and print a weekly paper, of which he was editor and proprietor. Squire S. was much pleased for a while with editing a paper. He was a man of very low stature, but he used the fresh air, 2. The following to one of the most remarkable cures on record, from Burilington County, N. J.:

Mr. F. G. Brewster.—Dear Sir.—In the month of June, 1846, I took a severe cold, which brought on a severe and protracted illiners. The Billious Fever followed by Pleurisy and Dysentery: the first five weeks I had a very severe and incessant cough, which seemed to set at deflance the skill of one of the best Physicians in the city of Philadelphia, where I then resided. Myself and wife frequently requested permission of my physician to use your Pectoral Mixture, the beneficial effects of which she had experienced in her own case, nine years before—to which she also cheerfully testifier—which he would not grant till the end of five weeks, and my cough still increasing, when he said he could do no more for me; but we must try it on our own responsibility, as he knew nothing of its properties. I at once procured a bottle of your agent, the use of which cured my cough entirely, and I got well. My physician came twice a day to witness its effects, and unhesitatingly ascribed the cure to your medicine, which lociteve is the best mixture for coughs in use. I have constantly kept it in my family since, and recommended it to others with the same beneficial effects.

Vour respectfully.

There is no doubt in the world of the greatness of Doctor Bull, and the excellence of his Sarsaparilla.

Some of the most scientific physicians in the city have applituded the Barsaparilla and, what is a great deal better, the million applaud it too. It is having a litemendous saile. SORBEL-HOW TO GET RID OF IT. A friend informs us that he has a field of five or six acres so completely overrun with sorrel, that nothing else can grow; and he wishes to know how it may be exterminated. Had you informed us more about the relative location of your field as respects the surrounding land, we might have given you information perhaps, that could have been made more permanently beneficial. You inform us that the field in question is what is called second bottom.*

Lands of this description, if extending back from the "first bottom" to the highlands surrounding, are sometimes affected by springs making from the higher grounds, rendering the surface too moist and cold :00 long in the spring for the rapid growth of the grasses, and when the surface becomes dry and warm at a later period, the plant in question will vegetate and thrive. Frosts. upon lands of this description, will also produce its worst effects by throwing out the grass roots and thus giving useless plants a better chance to gain the ascendancy. If I have rightly apprehended the position of your field relative to the surrounding ground, the first step to be taken for the permanent improvement of your field, would be to dig a ditch of sufficient size and depth to carry off all the water that may ooze from the adjacent hillside, and that accumulates from rains and scows at different seasons of the year. If, however, your soil is naturally dry and warm, the ditching will not be
