The lower reservoir, or Tumbling Run, breached and otherwise injured by the flood of September, 1850, has been substantially rebuilt, and is again ready for use in the storage of water. The pipes used for drawing its contents have been carried through the bank, and the valves changed from the upper to the lower ends of them. 1 They are thus rendered more easily accessible for extensions of the call of amination and use than on the old plan, and thereby give increased safety and efficiency to the structure. The waste weir of this re-servoir has been greatly enlarged, and is 30,371 15 now capable of passing more than double the quantity of water due to it heretofore. The waste weir of the upper reservoir on Tumbling Run has also been somewhat enlarged.

Five new landings, resting upon thirty substantial stone piers, and supplied with substantial stone piers, and supplied with the necessary mil-tracks, switches, schutes and scales, have been erected on the South dock at Port Carbon. The Company's siding along the Mine Hill and Schuylkill Haven Railroad at Schuyl-kill Haven has been extended for several hundred feet to make more car room. Some additional track room has been given on the Dundas Dock at Schuylkill Haven.
