DR. J. S. ROSE B celebrated Compound Fluid Extract of FRE-HI HONDURAS SARSAFABILLA.

Prepared by him-only, at his Laboratory.
Quart bottles, $1. Small bottles, $50 cents, Warranted free from Mercury. As a Spring and Summer Medicine, for pucllying the Blood, it has no equal.

This Compound is made by a chemical process, without exposure to the air, and therefore contains all the virtic of the ruly valuable root, Honduras Saraparille, combined with other ingredients, to render it effications in purifying and envicting the blood, and to cursaft Skin Envisions and Skin Diseases, Scroftlinus Forcs, and their lad effects on the Constitution, Dropuscal Swellings, Rheumatien from Mercury, Blids, Old Sores, Kidney and Bladder Affections, cleansing the system of moreury, and raising up a weak and hydren down constitution from any cause.

IIZ hand of a beneficent Creator has planted every country with its own proper actidates against the effects of soil and climate upon the human being. The aboriginal indians are proof of this fact, maintaining as they did, without other aid, a vigor of constitution unsurpassed by any other race. It is from the rnots and plants, which grow spontaneously upon our own soil, that WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS are compounded. They are, therefore, better adapted to meet the particular forms of disease prevailing in our country, than any foreign medicine, or any medicine concocted from foreign drugs can be. ook to your interests before it is too late. and in business-men who have worked hard and struggled against adversity and misiotsone the great er part of their lives, and found the more they tried to get forward the more things went against them;—these men have consulted him for the last thirty years. All those who wisely followed his advice are now rich and happy; while those blinded by prejudice and ignorance, neglected his advice, are atili isboring against adversity and poverty. He shows you the LIKENESS OF YOUR FUTURE WIFE cine or any medicine concerns to the spring drugs can be.

The high celebrity which these Pills have acquired for thoroughness and efficacy, renders any thing more than a about notice unnecessary. Being compounded entirely of vegetable simples, the products of our own soil, they are entirely fres from all mercurial and other deleterious mixture—powerful for good, yet innocent of injury, even to the weakest constitution. They should be resorted to at once in any of the following complaints:

PURE WHITE LEAD WETHERILL & BROTHER, Manufacturers, No. V 65, NORTH FRONT street, Philadelphia, have now a good supply of their warranted pure WillTE LEAU, and those customers who have been sparingly supplied in consequence of a run on the article, shall now have their orders filled. now have their orders filled.

No known substance possesses those preservative and beautifying properlites, so desirable in a paint, to an equal extent with unadulterated white lead; hence any admixture of other materials only mare its value. It has, therefore, been the steady aim of the manufacturors, for many years, to supply to the public a perfactly pure white lead, and the unceasing demand for the article, is proof that it has met with favor. It is invariably branded on one head: WETHERILL & BROTHER in full, and onthe other, warranted pure, all in red letters. Half a tea-spronful of Pepsin infused in water, will digest or dissolve Five Pounds of Roast Best in about two keers, out of the stomach.

JUNE Subscribers back justraceived a further apply of this singular and valuable substance. In addition to the state color, they have a beautiful chocolate or brown, resembling the sand stone now in use, and so much admired for the front of buildings. Its principal ingredients are siltéa, alumina and protoxide of iron, which in the opinion of scientific mensula factorily accounts for its free-proof nature—the two formers ubstances being non-conductors, and the latter acting sea cement, to bind the whole together and make a firm and durable paint.

For use it is mixed with Linseed Oil, and applied with a brush, the same as ordinary posit, to vood iron, tin, zinc, canvass, pape, &c. It herdens gradually and becomes fire-proof; Ir is particularly autin-ble for roofs of buildings, steamboat and car-decks callroad bridges, fences, &c. EXPERIMENTS WITH MANURES William Cliff, of Stonington, Connection, communicates to the New York Agricultoseries of experiments, which he recently made to test the comparative value of coats. and concentrated manures, as top dressinge for mowing lands. After giving each species of these ferulizers a fair trial, he gives the results thus: 1st. That concentrated manures are fapreterable to stable manure for dressing mow ing lands. Eighty, popuds of prepared seperphosphate of lime, or one hundred pound; of guano, produce larger results than twelve dollars worth of stable manure. The ec. mate given of the comparative value of these . manures in the Country Gentleman, that uphundred pounds of guano is about equal to a load of manure, does not do justice to guano as a dressing for mowing lands. It is cheap. er to buy guano at the market price, than to have stable manure given to you, if you have 75 to pay for carting and handling. 2d. That there is good economy in manage larger quantities of guano than eighty pounds to the acre. While this quantity did n a pay expenses, one hundred pounds gave a very handsome profit. It is believed that there would be increasing economy in its application up to two or three hundred pounds per

3d. That tarmers have a cheap method of doubling their crops of hav on all lands that do not now produce over one and a half tonan acre. Five dollans worth of guano sunably composted, and applied early in March. or what is better, in November, could hardly fail to add one ton and a half of hay to the yield of each acre.

4th. That prepared superphosphate of lime to among the cheapest and best of tonnures. The return is larger for the capital invested than any other manure. 5th. That bones dissolved in sulphure acid, is not only a very powerful manure, tu: that where farmers can get bones for carting. or at a small cost, that it is good economy to manufacture superphosphate of time them

6th. That hen manure is an article of very great value as a fertilizer. Farmers are perfeetly sate in having large flocks of positry -a place to keep them-and abundance at loam, charcoal dust, and plaster of Paris, av absorbents. 7th. The experiment suggests to farmer, that more capital invested in manures would make their farming far more, profitable. If any one doubts it let him invest a few dollars in guano, or in some good prepared superphosphate of lime, and apply it to any of his xhausted mowing fields the turns will rarely fail to be more satisfactor, than that of bank stock.

LIQUID MANURE The subject of liquid manure is at the present moment exciting a great deal of attention in England, and most striking results have taken place from its skillful and persevering applications. We have known instances in this country, where little advantage has been derived from its use, simply because vultivaors did not know how it should be applied In all justances where it has been most successful, it has been frequently applied, at the very largely diluted with water. In this wet. a constant and equal supply of nurretion is afforded to the growing plants, which is not the case when they are glutted at one time and deprived of it another. For, the coricleing ingredients being in a state of solution. re ready for the immediate use of the plants, while with ordinary solid manure, these ingredients are slowly and gradually dissolved. and sparingly furnished. Liquid manuring is, in fact, only a modilication of the process of irrigation, in which a small quantity of manure is contained in a very large quantity of water, and thus very widely and frequently spread. Its superior advantages consist in its being all ready for absorbtion by plants, however dry the soil. may be; while solid manure can be of an use whatever, unless there is water in the soil! dissolve it, and it often happens that if the water be in sufficient quantity to effect a tree solution, there will be such a surplus for the plants, that they will be flooded. Immense quantities of liquid manure are made and wasted in the sewers of towes. which, in some instances, has been applied to the production of enormous farm crops. But. generally, its use has been confined to gardens; as for example, in the case of strawleaves, as to vield little or no fruit. The difficulty is to be avoided by withholding a supply till the plants are forming their flower buds, and ceasing ogain during the ripeding of the truit. This rule is to be observed as nearly as practicable with fruit trees, and even with melons. It must be likewise remembered that it is during rapid growth only that liquid manure can be of any use, and it may be even prejudicial at other times. The great heat and dryness of America will render this mode of treating plants even moreadvantageous than in England. - Country Gentleman.

FRUIT TREES. If fruit dwindles in size, and becomes defective and knotty, a scientific farmer knows that the earth needs phosphate of lime, one of the most necessary ingredients to a full and perfect developement of fruit. The scientific farmer would then gather leaves, and burn, or pulverize them and after digging round his tree so as to expose the toots, put half a bushel of bone dust, leaves and leached ashes, mixed in equal portions. to each tree, and thus afford material for a perfect developement of the fruit. If peach trees dwindle, the leaves crisp, and curl up, or in other words have the yellows, they need iron. A man may as well live without breath, as a peach tree without tron. If the ground does not naturally furnish it, the owner must, or be disappointed. in his hope of fruit. In such case go to the smith, or machine shop, and get the scales, or what is better, the iron turnings, and digging away, round the roots, so as to expose them, apply one quart of scorio, of scales, or turnings, to each tree, a pint of salt, and a peck of leached ashes, and the curled leaves will give place to delicious fruit.
