THE PACIFIC RAILROAD. Northern Route-Cost-Distance, &c. &c This great enterprise will, doubtless, form prominent and probles subject for the next Congress, now soon to assemble; and, in orderthat our readers may the better be prepage red to understand and appreciate the lengthy speeches and magnificent schemes it is sure twenty-five miles of track have been laid from Chi cago west, and a considerable expenditure has been made for equipments. The company will soon commence the blainess of transportation and the road will be completed to the Wisconsustine by the

from the competed to the Wisconsin, the by the first day, of July next:

Of the portion in Wisconsin, fifty-five miles are located and under contract, and the grading is in progress at various points. This portion passes through Janesville in the Rock River Valley, the rincipal town in the interior of the State, and ex-

The cost of building and thoroughly equipping this line is estimated, in round numpers, at $100,000,000.

But without confining ourselves farther, for the present, to any one particular route, the advantages and disadvantages of each of ers (not already taking the Book) to purchase this vassed before ibig, we append the following | We have been especially taken with the beaut cogent reasons for an early connection of of the following-it alone, we think, is worth the some kind between the Atlantic and Pacific price of the book : sea-boards, from the November number of A MITHER'S BLETHER ABOUT HER BAIRN. Putnam. The completion of such an enterprise within the pext fifteen, or, at most twenty years, may be set down as a foregone conclusion-our "manifest destiny"-and it it is, therefore, well for every one to understand the reasons for so magnificent and costly a scheme. Putnam accordingly explants:

The passages to the East, as everybody probably Lhows, are now inside, that, by the Mediterranean Sea to Cairo, through Suez, the Gulf of Aden, and Bombay to Cauton; 2d, around the Caps of Good Hope to Calcutta and thence to Canton and 3d by the Istamus of Penama, and thence to Shanglio The neurest of these, which is partly by steamer and partly overland, is 9,658 miles from London, or about 120 days; the longest, which is by the Cape, is 18,550 miles from Liverpool, or 170 days sail; while the route by the Ishainus from Liverpool is 12,930 miles, or 63 days for steamers and 139 for sating versels. From New York to Canton, by the Cantonne, is 20 followings and by the ton, by the Cape route, is 20.000 miles, and by the I-thmus 19.300 or 51 days seauming and 125 days said. Now, gon-pared with these, a route across this continent would place Liverpool within 57 days of Shanghai, and New York within 25 days. which would be a saying of more than half the time by the shortest of the other routes, and more than two thirds of it by the longest. While; accor-ding to the calculations of the most experienced from there would be an equivalent reduction in the men there would be an equivalent reduction in the expenses of fransportation, and more than an equivalent increase of profit; in the new markets, should along our western coast and annong the islandjot the South Plottie, which like additional facilities for intersourse would open. Thus, we see at a againce, that a ratiroad, such as is now proposed, ewould nender the people of the United States the smallers of the inconceivable wealth of the 190, 2001,007 of China, of the 50,000,000 of Japan, and of the cuter frowing collines that are seen descent of the other growing millions that are soon destined to fill the gold-bearing fields of Australia.— Europe would be compelled to make her trade-tributary to us and the young Republic, which the Depotisms have affected soloften to depise, bound yet stronger to internal unity by the cords of sym-pathy and interest, would give the law of freedom to the world. A new Rome, in the extent of her indeur and strength, she would be better than me, in the display of the one and the exercise of The other; for the would spread her ares, not by merce, united to the more glorious persussions of Christianity

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN AFFAIRS,

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT]

In the absence of "dreadful accidents" and other "highly interesting news," permit me to show you a sight worth seeing. It is no more nor less than Schuylkill Haven, as seen from Schuylkill Mountain. Behold the scene! It is true that the valleys which surround us have been strimed of their very pensively worked. sons the false doctrine that "the end justifies the Behold the scene! It is true that the valleys which surround us have been stripped of their verdant tinte, but there is still grandeur in the gigantic chain of mountains that surround that beautiful town! Nuture, as if fearful of offending the most fastidious, has kindly decked them with laurel and evergreen, framing, as it were, an immense battlement, crowned with budges of victory! At the foot of the mountain upon which we stand, flows brings vividiy to our memories the wrongs of the Red man on the one hand, and his vindictive deeds will fade, though it never can erase, those blotches in the history of our country. I have often thought that if an artist, one who could appreciate "the grand and the beautiful," could sit with his pencil and easel, where we now stand, how his soul would be enraptured when beholding the scene before him! Methinks I could see the workings of fairt, at a mere allusion to the hidden beauties of his countenance as he views object after object 11sing pitch of "excitement" this could be that "Mines and Mining," A play, &c., &c. As an Engilie, she is probably insurpassed.

According to promise I will give your lady readers a sixtetch of the fashions, although it I make any binner, let them remember that I co not present the do be a D'Orsay, or a Beau Brummel, but merely notice what passes directly before my evers.

In the various styles of dress, platds, and those on the various styles of dress, platds, and those of a large and startling pattern, predominate—the contrast of colors being in many cases striking.—

Dresses are worn open in front with rich underhandkerchiefs as a general rule. Cloaks are the rage of the present Winter, and are made of velevet and cloth, though the hon ton seems to be the tornier. The style of making varies; one of the most graceful of which is a tight buddice, buttoned in frant, with a deep care star on hour the lives of the contrast o in front, with a deep cape set on about the line of the shoulders and reaching about to the knee, be-ing somewhat shorter in front than behind where it reaches its greatest depth. The whole is heavily underclothes (I am told) are worn deeply and expensively worked.

Stimutch for the fashion; and now dear ladies one word for the customs. It is the mode in New York, especially since fancy skirts have come into lashion, for the feminines invariably to carry their garments in their hands, well taken up. The proverbialithit of New York crossings may be urged in excase, but hundreds of ladies have I seen with all displayed, when promenading a walk, destinute of sparticle of mud or dirt. This is all very fine for the connoisseurs in a pretty foot and a well of the mountain upon which we stand, flows gently the River Schuylkill, the name of which brings vividity to our memories the wrongs of the Red man on the one hand, and his vindictive deeds of retaliation on the other. But let us, for the present, forget the past—it is a gloomy picture. Time allows why, when fashion so ordained, also inform me why when fashion so ordained, also inform me did he tables trait their creams a quarter yard in must and filth and never dream or any remedy.—
Ahli tis fa-hion! And once again, how many hundred ladies do I see continually with their underhandsterchiefs so outrageously thin and wom for lamit as the depletion at the analysis of the property of the analysis of the property of the second section of the second section and the second section as the second section of the second section and the second section as the second section as the second section as the second section section as the second section section section and section sect ow, as to display to the eye of every looker on, all

One of the parties exploring a railroad route to the Pacific, has discovered in the vicinity of the Colorado, two hundred miles above ats confluence with the Gila, a pyrafurnished in a letter to a California newspa-

from the Egyptian. It is, or was more slen-der or pointed; and while those of Egypt are composed of steps or layers, receding as they rise, the American pera mid was, undoubted-, a more finished structure. The outer surface of the blocks was evidently cut to an hogle, that gave the structure, when new and complete, a smooth or regular surface from top to bottom.

From the present level of the sands that surround it there are fifty-two distinct lavers

Such is the age of this immense structure. that the perpindicular joints between the blocks are worn to the width of from five to. ten inches at the bottom of each joint, and the entire of the pyramid is so much worn by the stories, the vicissitudes and the corrodings of centuries, as to make it easy of ascent, particularly upon one of its sides.-We say one of its sides, because a singular fact connected with this remarkable structure is, that it inclines nearly ten degrees to one side of the vertical or perpendicular. There is not the slightest probability that it was thus everily accounted for.

By whom, at what age of the world, and for what purpose this pyramid was erected, will probably forever remain a hidden mys-tery. The party, in their unsuccessful attheir wanderings, discovered other evidences of a nature that would seem to make it certain that the portion of country upon the Colorado, now the most barren, was once the garden and granary of the continent, and the abode of millions of our race."

plate-not much larger than one's handtaining asbestos, which concentrates and diff. over the whole expense. Of its complete success in conking we can peak with a confidence founded upon careul observation and repeated experiments.-We have eaten meats cooked by this new promatical-precision, having carefully computed takes just ten minutes of time, and costs only half a cent ; to boil a kettle containing half a gallon of water, occupies exactly twelve minutes, and consumes less than a cubic foot of gas. To get up a breakfast of four dishes, will cost only three cents, and can all be done

lence Belge gives an account of the introducion of aerial navigation for practical purposes in that country. It seems that the enormous quantity of water produced by the melting of snow, occasions a great rise in the rivers in the Spring of the year, intercepting the communication between certain distance of three and a half versies from each other, and separated by a small stream. In order to keep up the communication, and permit the workmen to pass and repass, a large stationary balloon is fixed by three cords over each of the factories at the height o about 200 metres. From each of these balloons is suspended a cable reaching the op-NOTIGE. A' correspondent of the Washington Intelligencer' referring to the heat some time ago. savs: "Dr. Franklin was the first, in 1750, to remark an atmospheric temperature above that of the blood, and to notice the power of the human body to retain its lemperature while all innaminate substances grew steadily warner. President Madison, of William and Mary College, Virginia, in 1779, gives the following curious remark and quotation: "I do not recollect ever to have seen, the thermometer here at more than 95, though Dr. Franklin mentions that in June, 1770, it " . I expected that the natural heat of the fact was, my body never grew so hot as the air that surrounded it, or the inanimate bodies immersed in the same; for I remember well that the desk, when I laid my arm on exceedingly warm to me, as it they had been warmed before the fire. tion of gas to come into general use. It is he invention of Mr. John Power, an Englishman, of the firm of Messrs. Skinner & Power, of Brooklyn.

The modus operandi is perfectly simple.--The common gas pipe is tapped at any point; an India Rubber tube is attached, through which the gas is conducted into a small iron that forms what may be called the store .-This plate is filled with perforations, con. fuses all the heat. The computation ande by the inventor goes to show that a small office might be heated for the riflur sum of fifteen cents a day.
