J. H. McLean—Dear Sir.—I take this method of thanking you gratefully for having been the means of reatefulg my son, fitten years old, an entire cripple for nearly one year, now a linie and healthy young sean. Two years age my son had an attack of filtenmatism—I used several bottles of Mexican Mustang Liniment on him, and various other liniment and remedice, but all to no effect; he still got worse.—The flesh on his legs dried to the bones, the muscles became contracted, drawing his feet up on a right angle with his body, so that he had to crawl on his hands and knees, or hobble along on short crutches in a sittling posture. No one can form an idea now he suffered by the changes of the weather, the most exerciating pains. Baoks imported to order, weekly; from England, France and Germany, in much less than the ordinary eruciating pains. Mr. Listen, of Illinois, called at our house. He was cured some time ago of bleeding plies by your Wolcanic (Oil Liniment. He gave us a part of a battle; which ne always carried with him. I nead it on his aide, and it relieved the pain immediately. A few days after, he sent netwo buttles by "Mail."—I applied it twice a day, and it relaxed the mustles and cured him entirely. He can now work, walk or from as well as ever. Yours respectfully. JESSE RURROUGHS

Justine Carraway & Mustard seed and importance, as a support during labor, and that moderately used, they are salutary.
You have probably heard men say that they could perform more labor in a day by the use of ardent spirits than without them. Now, lutely necessary, are, at least, of great use of ardent spirits than without them. Now, let me tell you how they do this. Under their atimulating effect, they draw upon those latent energies which Providence intended should be reserved for some great emergency, for sickness and old age. These men who labor under the stimulus of strong drink, very soon waste their energies and wear themselves out. Hence you see drink ing men more infirm and decrepted at 45 than they would have been at 60 if they had been imperate. If they are attacked with a violent disease, they often sink right down and die. The Doctors say their constitutions are so impaired by their drinking habits, that they have nothing to build upon, and this is the reason why they cannot save them.— The idea that strength is imparted by the use of ardent spirits is most utterly preposterous and absurd. But men under their influence draw upon those latent energies which they > thus speedily wear themselves out. Ardent pirits impart no more strength to you than the flash of the lightning or the roar of the hunder. I beg of you to think of these things, and say, from your own observation and experience, if they are not true. Another thing, Rum sellers are not your friends in any sense. Let your money be gone, and then ask them for a favor. They will soon point you to the loor, and tell you to go to temperance men t you want charity. How many hard laboring men, who have spent their money at grog shops, have been kicked out of doors when it was gone! This proves that rum sellers hove no love for you, after your mohey is spent. Let me beg of you to forsake these human harpies. They can clothe their children in broadcloth and silk, while yours
