Business Establishments and Chan-GES.—The Miners' Late Insurance & Trust Company, lately chartered, with a capital of $100,000, nas gone into operation in this place. It has no Banking privileges, as lately reported, but is vested with the usual rights of dealing in paper, as all similar tustitutions are. This establishment is in the hands of men of ample means and of high repute in the business community. It will doubtless meet with that confidence and paironage which its worthy objects and the character of its managers deserve.

The large stock Manufacturing Company, of which General J. M. APOCALYPTIC LECTURES. Most readers of the JOURNAL are aware that a course of Lectures on the Book of Revelation, which book closes the Canon of the Biblo, is being delivered on Friday evenings by the Rector of Trinty Church in their capacious Lecture room. But in this beey community few are able to find time, at least there are few business men, who seem to have leisure, to attend these weekly expositions of the Divine Word. And then it is a character of the course of the property that it would have "fall thinks done the Divine word. And then it is a character of christianity, that it would have "all things done decently and in order," and have its advocates "live peaceably if possible with all men," while yet they testify boldly its "tritth. So that those who have most of the christian spirit are ever carethe truth in love." The result however is, that these being no "aintheaterical show, no "aintheaterical show, no "aintheaterical show, no "aintheaterical show, no interest exceeding the inspired record, and an impartise entered exceeding the inspired exceedi

Notwithstanding the numorous compounds which are daily offered under the name of specifics, yet there has long been wanted a preparation that would ensure a safe and effectual cure of the many diseases to which every horned animal is subject. The object of the presentione, containing ingredients of the most valuable description, is to enable all those who may own cattle afflicted with disease, to obtain a Medicine unsurpassed by any other even-offered. Its composition is entirely different from the Hor e Powder, being adapted expressly to horned animals and their diseases. and their diseased.

It is unnatural, and inconsistent to administer the same medicine to both species for the cure of entirely different diseases. What may be valuable as a remedy in one ignifiance, is entirely inactive and useless in the other. We have, therefore, prepared two semedies of dissimilar natures; which we warrant to eradicate the diseases for which they are recommended.

Which has all the advantages which Weights wand Pulleys have in keeping Windows in any position; and also has many advantages over them, some of which are there: If you use Weights on your Windows, they are liable to get out of order, cords break, &c. The Expanding Sash cannot break. If you use Weights the Sash must be loose in the Frame; so as to cause an unpleanant noise every time the wind blows, and also to admit dust and all in abundance to the great loconvenience of good hoasteepers. The Expanding Sash is sight by expansion, and therefore will not rattle aor admit dust and alr. If you use Weights you cannot remove the Windows from the Frames without removing the strips from the sides, thereby cauting the paint to be rubbed off as well as losing some time in the operation. The Expanding Sash can be removed from, and returned to the Frame, in a moment.

Another great inducement to use the expanding sish, is the cost which, in a new house, would not be more than one half the cost of building the ordinary frame with weights, cords and naties. This Patent can be spplied to old Sash, whether they now have Weights or not, at an expense that is small in consideration of the many advantages gained. It is, in fact, the only sash which, combines economy, convenience and comfort in perfection.
