"A central, or very nearly central, solar eclipse at any place is indeed of rare occurrence. At the city of Paris only one takes. place in the 133 years between 1767 and 1900, and, although in Boston we have been more favored than Paris, the phenomenon in the century and a quarter between 1775 and 1901, and perhaps many more years, occurs here but four times—namely, in the annular obscurations of April 2, 1791, May 26, 1854, and September 28, 1875, and in that which was total on June 16. 1806. The eclipse of February 12, 1831, was also onnular at Nantucket and at Chatham, Cape Cod, but not elsewhere in New England.'

FROM EUROPE. Russian Defeat. Bombardment of Russian Forts.

AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA.

CITY OF GLASGOW REPORTED. By Europa and Franklin Dates to 10th. We have much interesting news by these arrivals. On the 18th or 19th ult., Omar Pacha. with 70,000 men, advanced towards Dobrudscha, and a battle took place with Gen. Luder's corps between Sillistria and Rassova. The latter was forced to retreat towards Czernavola, and it is said the Russians lost many guas, ammunition, stores and baggage wagons, and even their military chest! On the 20th a Turkish flying corps crossed the Danube below. Silistria in order to destroy the Russian strand batteries. They advanced to Kalaresh, where there was hard fighting for some hours. The Turks tought bravely but being overmatched, were ulin-mately forced to retire. The Russians in the Dobrudscha, finding the resistance of the Turks stronger than they expected, have come to a half tria was still holding out on the 23d ult., for the Turks. The Russian batteries at the Salma mouth of the Danube have been bomharded by the Allies. Napier still blockades the Baltic; but a most formidable force of row boats is being organized by the Russians to harass the inrading fleet from the shallow water. The Russian losses by the bombardment of Odessa are reported to be considerable. The greater part of the outer batteries were ; considerably damaged, and those at the north angle of the fort were dismantled.— The Russians, who fought with great energy, had 200 men killed and 300 wounded, more than half of whom will hencefor the La unfit for service. Six warehouses have become the prey of the flames. The town has, comparatively, but little suffered, but some of the more exposed buildings, and especially the palace of Prince Woronzaw, have been burned down. The appearance of Odessa is totally changed .--

The terrible cannonade has broken all the windows. Several chimpeys have fallen down, and some church lowers have been The allied fleet had bui 8 men killed and 15 wounded.

Large badies of French troops continue to march in the direction of Toulon, for emberkation for the Levant. An Imperial decree calls into active service, on land and affort 80,000 men from the 140,000 of the class of

The Greek insurrection would seem to be nearly crushed; the insurgents having been severely beaten by the Turks.

It is stated that the gold usually stored in the citadel at St. Petersburg is being removed to Moscow. This looks as it the Czar expected to have to shift his quarters. Twelve Russian trading vessels have been aptured before Sebastopol by three steamers the combined fleets. Austria has submitted a new proposition to Russia. Its conditions were regarded as being probably the final attempt of Austria to restore peace before she declares herself. Persia sides with the Turks. Letters from natum to the Persian govern

Teheran, in the Journal of Constantinople, announce that Count Kanikoff, Russian envov extraordinary, had sent from Tiffis an ing two hours to declare which side it would take. The Shah answered by giving orders that 50,000 men, under Mehemet Khan, DEMINDS his numerous customers that he is throw prepared to furnish every grade and quality of Biack, Diesa, Otter and Rocky Mountain Beaver Hate, Panama, Canton, Peadal, Senuet, and other diesa. Russia the restitution of the provinces wrested by her from Persia on different occasions.

The general policy of the Turks seems to be to merely act in the defensive—to watch the operations of the Russian forces, and wait for the arrival of the allies. A report was current that a French mer chant vessel had been captured in the English Channel by an American Privateerhe bark Grapeshot; but the story is regared as a boar. ARRIVAL OF THE AMERICA. Liverpool Dates to 13th inst. The report of the steamer, supposed to be he city of Glasgow, seen by the ship Baldour, is confirmed. When first observed, she headed North but altered her course toward the B. and then immediately disappeared! The Baldour steered toward the spot and saw large quantities of biscuits and boxes, &c., floating about. When the steamer was first seen a barque was along side, but the latter steered south, and as no one was seen on board the steamer it was presumed hat the barque had saved the passengers. The latest War news states that the negotiations for an offensive and defensive alli-ance against Russia, between Sweden and he allied powers, was reported to be progressing to a satisfactory conclusion. It was reported at Paris, that Spain, Portugal and iedmont are willing to join the allies. Fourteen Russiau merchantmen had been aptured in the Black Sea. . Further, but still incomplete details are given of the bombardment of Odessa. The affeir seems to have been a mere destruction of vessels and property, without any certain result. The attacking force consisted of 9 war steamers and a detachment of rocket boats. The Russian batteries fought with extreme bravery, and the battle leated 12 hours. The British ldss is stated at 20 men
