It was he who four years ago addressed the men of 1812, and advocated a new bounty land law to place the soldiers and the sailors of our "second war of independence" upon the same footing as the Mexican recruits who entered the service but a short period before the close of the war and became entitled to one hundred and sixty acres of land. Schooled in parliamentary proceedings by a long service in Congress, he was appropriately called to preside over the deliberations of the immense Convention of veterans held on the 8th of January last. Delegated as the chairman of our conimittee, he gave his heart to the object, and remained at the Capital from the adjournment of the Convention, with the exception of two days, till the 4th of March, when the work was consummated by the approval of President Pierce. When the fact is stated, that for his labors during four sessions of Congress, Judge Sutherland has uniformly refused to receive any remuneration either for his time or expenses, the disinterestedness of his conduct is put beyond question, and deserves the highest commendation.
