THE NEW BOUTE TO PHILADELPHIA. We ask attention to a communication in our columns, on the subject of the proposed new outlet from our Coal fields to Philadel phia. The importance of this new thoroughfare can only be appreciated by those who have long felt the want of it.

Projects for a route, to "relieve the Readind B. B. of a portion of its over burthened itounage," in the language of our correspondent, have been agitated in the "Coal diggings" for several years, past, but the difficulties in separable from the location of another road along the valley of the Schnylkill, preoccupied hy a canal and a rival rail road, were considered insurmountable. In the mean time, the Recessity of some decisive measures was daily becoming more apparent, and it has been and is reudered certain, that by the time the new line could be completed, the demand for coal would exceed the capacity of the routes combined.

With regard to the two lines now in operation, it may be remarked, that in order to ensure even moderate dividends to the stockholders, after paying interest on the enormous liabilities of those companies, high charges will have to be perpetuated, particularly by the Bailroad; and the Canal cannot be used in the winter season. Now let us examine the elements of the new route-as the astronomers say. If the Allentown and Auburn, and the Norristown and Allentown railroads should be built, they will doubtless be able to sustain themselves profitably, independent of the traffic between Pottsthe conduct of that Institution. ville and Philadelphia; and therefore all the

While he is an carnest advocate of a attingent licease system, in the sale of intoxicating liquors, we favor entire, uncompromising prohibition but though we differ on this point, we must express our undisguised admiration at the consistent and many internet in which Mr. Koch has opposed and still opposes the continuance of the grog shops of our county. Under the circumstances, we can heartily support him for the office, which he would so admirably fill. Mr. Koch's views on the subject of the grog-shops of this region, are well known. Three years since he drew up a bill, well framed and digested, on the subject which we sent to Senator Hendricks. It was the first of the character, and, reflected credit on the france. Of the candidates for the Sheriffalty, we think Mr. Koch most eminently fitted for the position.

Of Mr. McKeown, the other candidate, w know nothing ; but have no doubt that he is an excellent man. Mr. Koch, however, is undoubtedly the best candidate in the field. THE ALMS HOUSE INVESTIGATION .- This

2.3 Our Court-Licenses-Sudden change of Opinion-A Scene in Court, &c .--- A few weeks ago, our Court took occasion to express their views on the License system, in commenting on the Ro-port of the Grand Jury. These views were in acordance with those held by our citizens, who deeply deplored the awful effects produced on the community, by the legions of Groggeries which infested every hole and corner of the Region; and every good citizen feit rejoiced, that the Court

(which, a large portion of the community looked upon as having favored this interest, by their acts eretofore,) was determined to take a stand, and enforce the new law effectually-that under its provisions, only one or two persons, according to opulation, would be licensed in each district, to sell by the quart and upwards-and that the streams of manufactured and adulterated poison that flowed from the rectifiers establishments would be dried up. These declarations we need not say, caused great rejoiding among the friends Court applauding their decision-and testimony was collected to lay before the Court, to substanti ate charges that had been made against this class of applicants in this Region. Great pains was also taken to collect the kind of testimony, which, recommend that it be enclosed ; but were not preit was understood the Court desired as necessary, pared to say whether it would be best to board it ; to have these applicants rejected. It was underup close, or to enclose it from the curb, leaving a stood in every quarter of the Region, in conseuence of declarations made by the Judge, that if this testimony was produced, they would be rejected.

Such were the state of affairs up to Monday, October 1st, the day before the time fixed for the hearing of applicants for licenses; it was then Mr. Severn presented a petition from the citi-

rumored that Judge Jones ofeReading, had decizens in favor of having the Market House roded that under the new law "Restraining the sale of Liquore," the Court had no discretion in the premises, and was bound to license every applicant, Mr. Knercher said that every town of any size be came up to the requirements of the law .--man in the community ridiculed as absurd-but on Tuesday, when the applications were heard, this position was taken by F. W. Hughes, Esq., on behalf of one of his clients, and the aid he. received from the bench in arriving at his points, (which was duly acknowledged by Mr. Hughes)

He said that there was no reason why we should soon satisfied every person in the Court House, and George Bosengarten. not have as good a market as the folks have in that Judge Hegins had backed out from his for Reading or Harrisburg, therefore he would go for mer position, and had embraced this new construcenclosing the House, and did not think any other tion of the law. The question was argued very part of the town fit for the keeping of a market but satisfactorily by Messre. Bartholomew and Parry, on the other side-but the pettish interruptions of these contlomen in their arguments by the bench showed both painfully and conclusively that the Street Committee on the subject of curbing and opinion of the Court was irrevocably fixed. At Henry S. Dennison. this stage of the proceedings, a drunken man staggered through the Court House, up to the platform directly in front of the Judges seat, a miserable and pitiable object, as if sent by Pr.vidence to take that position in the presence of the Judges and people, to plead for protection. After remaining a few minutes he staggered out againwhen the Judge gave a labored opinion, and decided that he had no discretion under this law, and was bound to grant licenses to all who might apply, provided they come up to the requisitions of this law. The Court acknowledged their change of opinion on this point within two days, (after the opinion of Judge Jones had arrived from Reading.) and seemed to apologise for mislanding moved that the bonds be entered up, which mo- the people, in having expressed a different opin their construction is as minute and perfect as if tion being seconded by Mr. Schoener, was adopt- lon from the bench but a few days before. rules of Court-and then their views were expressed from the bench a few weeks ago-also in private conversation with regard to the kind and number of licenses that ought to be grantedwhich would seem that the Court was then thorougly conversant with the law-but our Court, in its opinions, seems to be something like the Irishman's flea-"you put your finger upon it, and it is there-but when you take it up, it isn't there." Then the coincidence of opinion between Mr. Hughes and the Court, as to the right point, which the Court aided in defining, struck every person as a little remarkable. The declaration too from the bench, in giving the opinion, that "the Court had nothing to do with the morals of the people," was a most extraordinary declaration---a declaration which we presume was never heard from any other Court in Christendom-or at least we never heard it before. It sounded monstrous to us, and seemed to clash very harshly with all our preconceived ideas of the establishment of Courts DISSOLUTION. — Ine partnersnip heretofore existing between Emanuel Friedman and Emanuel Straus, trading under the firm of STRAUS & FRIEDMAN, has this day (September 24, 1855.) been dis-solved by mutual consent. nary works of fiction. In connection we would remark that the author is a writer of decided ge nius and originality, and that we think "The Deserted Wife," her latest production, will occupy a prominent place in the literature of the country. Apropos, we know of no publisher in the coun try, more indefatigable; nor any one that is creating a more extensive business than Mr. Peterson
