"Well, I was going to tell you how one dog with the white ears, got on one side of the meeting-house, and the other meeting-house with the yellow dog; no, no, I mean, one meeting-house with the yellow, green cars, got on one side of the dog, and the other, he -no, no, the white dog with the yellow ears, he give a yelp at the meeting-house, and the dog-ohl dad, I give up. I don't believe there was any dog at all!"

NOTHING is more common than to hear the foreigners in this country, boasting of the vastly better and cheaper things, they used to have in that blessed land they came from; but the truth comes out very neatly in this conversation we overheard in market the other day:

An Irishman asks a Long Island woman the price of a pair of fowls, and is told, "A dollar.'

"And a dollar is it, my darlint; why, iu my country you might buy them for a sixpence apiece."
