which five Pro Slavery men were killed, are as follows:

'On the day on which these men were killed, a flag inscribed, 'Head Quarters of the Pro Slacery Army.' was hoisted over Sherman's store. A Free State man went in and inquired the price of powder. The man told him he charged ten cents a pound to Pro-Slavery men, but as he was a d-d nigger thief, he would have to pay twenty five cents. Some angry words passed between the parties. Wilkinson then seized on the squatter, and told him that, as he retused to acknowledge the Territorial laws as valid enactments, they would give him a lesson to teach him what his principles would lead to. They said he cught to have heen hanged long ago; and now, as they had him in their power, by G-d they would give him his due. They kept him confined an hour or two. After dusk they took him out, went down with him to the woods, put a rope around his neck, and an end of it over the limb of a tree and were preparing to hoist him up. "'Fire!"

"The report of five rifles was heard simultaneously with this unexpected demand.' Five corpses-the bodies of the Doyles. Sherman and Wilkinson were seen stretched on the grass as soon as the smoke cleared away. "Fly,' cried the same voice who had given the order to fire.

"The man whose life was so mysteriously and unexpectedly saved, as soon as he removed the rope from his neck, went into the wooda and shouted for his friends. "But they had disappeared as suddenly and mysteriously as they came." The latest telegraphic despatch states, that Col. Sumner, with the United States troops, is dispersing all the armed bands of both parties, and a prospect of peace prevails.

The Independence correspondent of the Re-publican says that the Missourians will not endure the presence of the investigating committee much longer, and that their forbearance had almost ceased to be a virtue.
