WHICH 18 AGGRESSIVE ?- The country situated to the north-west of the Ohio river, which for a period was known as the North-western Territory, was originally claimed by Virginia, except a small part of it bordering on Lake Erie, which was claimed by Connecticut. In 1784 this Territory. was coded by the States named to the United States, and thus they obtained a perfect title to the whole. In 1788 Virginia gave her assent to the whole ordinance of 1787, which was reported by the committee of which Mr. Jefferson was chairman. The report in his hand-writing is now to he seen among the archives of Congress, in the Department of State at Washington. Among the provisions of that Ordinance was one which asserted that after the year 1800 of the Christian North or South: era, in the States created out of said Territory there shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, otherwise than in punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, to have been personally guilty. From 1787 to 1854, when the Missouri Compromise was repealed, eight laws were passed and approved, re-enacting, sanctioning, confirming and extending, as well in length of time as extent of space, the ordinance of 1787. It had been approved by the people of all sections of the country. As an unanimous act of legislation the Ordinance of 1787 is entitled to even more consideration than the Constitution, which encountered much opposition in the National Convention that made it in which it received the signatures or votes of but thirty-pine out of fifty-five members who attended the Convention, and was ratified by small majorities in many of the State Conventions. Yet that sacred compact has been invalidated

by a body of slaveholders, numbering 347,525, of which 173,022 only hold over one slave each .---The South charges the North with being aggressive, yet it repudiates principles which brought, happiness and prosperity to our country, and bythe substitution of the legislation of 1854 for that of 1787, plunges a new territory into all the horrors of civil war, and imprisons free American -citizens for daring to defend their assailed liberties.
