On Thursday, they were In our streets, like angel visits, few and far between. Yesterday, they persisted that it was "a are thing." The fact is, the vote on State offipers is unusually close. In the table of reported majorities on the State ticket published, in anothar colamp, which however, must differ from what the official returns will be, the Democratic ticket leads the Union by 882, with Elk, Forrest, Jefferpon, Junista, McKean, Venango and Warren counties to hear from. Elk and Warren gave Democratic majorities last year. The rest are Opposition districts. It is possible that the official returns will have to be received from the entire State, before the result will positively be moyn. The majority on either side will not er-

At that election there was great excitement, and a full vote was out. That there should be a legitimate increase of 11,217 votes in five months, cannot be credited The threatened frauds must have been perpetra ted. Will the people endure their repetition at the November election ?

Although the Democrats have carried a majority of the Congressional Districts, it is believed from the retarns, that the State Legislature in both branches, will be anti-Pierce and anti-Buchan, though by what vote it is impossible to

In our own County, the vote is unusually large and it is believed with much reason, that in Cass, Blythe and other Townships, a large number o illegal Democratic votes were polled. This, in connection with the absurd charge made by Demperatic crators in this Region, to the effect that n case of Fremont's election, the negrocs of the South werp all to be let loose, and would come

North to work with the white laborers, has had the effect of giving the Democracy here a larger majority than they could otherwise legitimately have secured. All in all, whether we have secured the State ticket or not, the Opposition to the present Na- Berks, (Offi

Its result is to convert the Constitution framed to secure to the people the right of self government into a means of depriving them of that right. This mode of construction, in the abstract so again, thisome extent, in public, view. After so long a cotirement from political affairs, it may reem proper for me to make explanation of this to ream proper for me to make explanation of this to my persitaal friends. This power is asserted upon the credit of several implications and inferences, requiring for their support a latitude of construction, compared with which ordinay liberality is narrow and strict. The, result of it, if this power be sustained, and I may say the purpose of it, as in the preceding instance, adds nothing to the attraction of the thing itself. It catends Slavery over all the Ter-

To illustrate these, let ritories of the United States acquired or to be ac-quired. The same praciple would seem to au-thories the indefinite extension of polygamy. Thus are coupled together two modes of constraing the Constitution as opposite as the poles, both asserted by the same advocates; one, by an extremely strict construction, depriving the pon-ple of the power of self-defence; the other, by an extremely loose construction, conferring upon a few an almost unlimited power to corrupt and anso far as a ther of these proposed modes of construction depende of can depend upon argument or decisions, they have been long since adjudica-
