

POTTSVILLE, PA. SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1857. THE YEAR upon which we have fairly outered, can be made if the means are properly applied, one of profit, morally and pecuniarily. To this Region, in fact the entire Coal Region of Pennsylvania, it may be the commeacement of a new era of prosperity. The same system in the management of the American Coal Trade, which has been introduced successfully in England, would inure to the benefit of the operator, and prevent those fluctuations in prices which unsettle the confidence of consumers. The plan for the reorganization of the Trade which is recognized as the only one that can save us from irretrievable ruin-meets the hearty approval of the large mass of the operators. They are disposed to give it a fair trial. This is

The Coal Trade is peculiarly hazardous to the operator. Faults are often met with in veins which blast the brightest hopes, and House. rain the enterprising miner. In addition to this, an entire lack of system in regulating Wool contained in the Report of the Secrethe supply to the demand, conjoined with so tary of the Treasury, are these:-There were many flimsy paper calculations, propagated 1,559 manufacturing establishments, with a to advance selfish interests, tend to distract capital of $28,118,650—consuming 70,862,the business; and convert it into a game of 829 pounds of Wool. The value of the raw chance, in which "the longest pole knocks majorial consumed, was $25,755,99h. The number of hands employed was, males 22, history of the trade of this Region for the last 678, females 16,574. The value of products twenty years proves it. The few who have in 1840, was $20,696,999; in 1850, $43,207, succeeded in acquiring fortunes in the basi- 545, and the estimate for 1655, was $56,406; ness, can attest how severely the pell-mell manner in which the Trade has been conducted, has recoiled upon them. The remedy now lies within the reach of our business men. If they are wise, they will profit by the opportunity offered of retrieving their shattered fortunes.

Another project, tending to enhance the found in the Auburn and Allentown Railroad. Its feasibility; importance to the Trade; its pounds. necessity as a link in the chain of railways through Pennsylvania, from New York to the West, and the beneficial influence it will exert on every description of business, point to it as a fitting companion to the thorough reorganization of the Coal Trade. That road should go through immediately. Every man of business who has a dollar invested in this. Region, should lend his hearty co-operation to a project, which will enhance the value of his other investments. veys of routes have been made, and the wor will ere long, be pushed vigorously to completion. It is rendered imperatively necessary, as the Mine Hill Road is rapidly filling up with business, and will not be able in the future, to accommodate all the trade from the Mahanoy Basin. These improvements will give to the Auburn and Allentown Railroad a heavy and remunerative trade, which could not find its exit by any other means.-These facts should induce redoubled exertion on the part of the Region, to gain and maintain a position in the business world, which neither time nor circumstance can affect.

Wool is to be reduced to eight per cent and raw silk, flax, jute, manilla, and most of the chemical and dye stuffs to four per cent, to the free list. Ten per cent. is to be levied upon imports belonging to schedule "I" if imported in foreign ships, as a discriminating duty in favor of American nevi gation. The idea of this bill is the revenue principle upon which it was pretended a the time of its enactment, that the law of 1846 was found. It is thought that it will receive a very feeble and limited support-But it may serve to defeat the plan of the majority of the Committee. And this was probably one object of introducing it.
