Wit and Anmor.

A HEW TOOTH PULLIEU MACHIER Jour PREBRIX contributes the following here story to one of the California papers. Those who read it may give it, as much credence as they please. The truth of the relation seems to us to e extremely problematical!

Dr. Tushmaker was never regularly bred a physician or surgeon, but possessed naturally a strong mechanical genius and a fine appetite; and finding his tacth of great service in gratifying the latthe propersity, he concluded that he could do more good in the world and create more real happiness therein by putting the teeth of the inhabitants in good order, then by any other way. So Tushmaker became a dentist. He was the man who first invented the method of placing small cog wheels in the back teeth for the more perfect mastication of food, and he claimed to be the original discoreres of that method of filling cavities with a kind of putty, which becoming hard afrectly, caused the teeth to ache so grievously that it had to be pulled, thereby giving the tentist two successive fees for the same job., rushmaker was one day when a steut old sliew named Byles presented himself to have back tooth drawn. The dantist seated his point in the chair of torture, and seized his point in the chair of torture, and seized his point in the chair of torture, and seized his point in the chair of torture, and seized his point in the chair of torture, and seized by the manufacturers of Water Motres, will supply all orders laft with them, at their prices.

FORMO TEACHING.

The didn't come. Then he tried the turn-screw, exerting his utmost strength, but the tooth wouldn't stir. "Go way from here." sected in his office in the city of Boston, Mass., said Tushmaker to Byles, "and return in a week, and I'll draw that tooth for you or know the reason why." Byles got up, clapped his handkerchief to his jaw, and put forth. Then the dentist went to work, and in three days invented an instrument which he was confident would pull anything. It was a combination of the lever, pully, wheel, and axle, inclined plane, wedge and sorew. The eastings were made, and the machinery put up in the office, over an iron chair rendered perfeetly stationary by iron rods going down into the foundations of the granite building.

In a week old Byles returned; he was clasped into the iron chair, the forceps connected with the machine attached firmly to the tooth, and Dr. Tushmaker stationed himself in the rear, and took hold of a lever four feet in length. He turned it slightly. Old Byles gave a groan, and lifted his right leg. Another turn ; another grown, and up went the leg again. "What do you raise your leg for?" "I can't help it," said the patient.-"Well," rejoined Tushmaker, "that tooth is bound to come now." He turned the lever clear around with a sudden jerk, and snapped old Byles' head clean and clear from his shoulders, leaving space of four inches between the severed parts :-They had a post mortem examination—the roots the tooth were found to extend down the righ side, through the right leg, and turned up in two prongs under the soul of the right foot! "No wonder," said Tushmaker, "he raised his right leg." The jury thought so too, but they found the roots much decayed, and five surgeous swear ing that mortification would have ensued in a few months, Tushmaker was cleared on a verdict of "justifiable homicide." He was a little-shy o that instrument for some time afterwards; but one day an old lady, feeble and flaceid, came in to have a tooth drawn, and thinking it would come out very easy, Tushmaker concluded, just by the way of variety, to try the machine. He did so, and, at the first turn, he drew the old lady's skeleton completely and entirely from her body, leav-Tushmaker took her home in a pillow case. She Tushmaker took her home in a pillow case. She lived seven years after; they called her the "In-lived seven years after years aft dia Rubber Woman." She suffered terribly with rheumatism, but after this occurrence never had a pain in her bones. The dentist kept them in a glass case. After this, the machine was sold to the contractor of the Boston Custom House, and the contractor of the Custom House, and the contractor of the Boston Custom House, and the contractor of the Custom House, and the cu dia Rubber Woman." She suffered terribly with the contractor of the Boston Custom House, and it was found that a child three years of age could, by a single turn of the screw, raise a stone weigh ing twenty-three tons. Smaller ones were made on the same principle, and sold to keepers of hotels and restaurents. They were used for boning turkeys. There is no moral to this whatever and it is possible that the circumstances may have become slightly exaggerated. Of course there can be no doubt of the truth of the main incidents.

An Illustrative Trait of Inish .- A few weeks ago we were called from the breakfast-table to assauge the grief of a handsome young Irish mother of nineteen, who brought a fine boy of three years to our office, with the second phalanx of his thumb broken by a falling window-sash. She gave the warmest demonstration of affection, and enlisted our sympathy for her and the child. We splitted and bandaged it very carefully, and she was pro fuse in her acknowledgments; she brought it regularly twice a week for five weeks, and it progrossed beautifully to a cure. At the last visit she took out her pocket-book and assured me that her husband, a thriving mechanic, was very grateful to me, and desired her to pay my bill. Never expecting any thing for the service, as our friends the Irish have a "winning way wid em" when dealing with heretics, I told her if she was really suxious to pay I would receive $5.—the price of a single visit. It would have amused the oldest stager of a doctor in Irish practice to see the beautiful young creature thank me and show her handsome teeth and grin, while she clutched her pockse book as though she had taken a dose of strychnine, and curtseyed at every step toward the door, If I get one half the blessings she invoked upon me, (she forgot the $5,) I shall see Saint Pether the for sure. She never stopped till she got out in the street. O Paddy, Paddy! but sure thou art a darlint! It was worth $20 good .- The Scalpel.

GOOD FOR SOMETHING AFTER ALL.—Having an abiding faith in the axiom that nothing was created in vain, we have long sought for some apology for the existence of those wretched little creatur known as poodle dogs, and at last we have found out their uses. A lady who kept one of the curly abominations, recently lost her pet, and called upon a polloceman to find it. The next day the officer came with the dog, which was very wet and dirty. The lady was overjoyed, and asked forty silly questions, among others, "Where did you find the dear baby?" "Why, marm," replied the officer, "a big nigger up in Sullivan street had him tied to a pole and was washing windows with him."—N. K. Dispatch.

He saked him why he chose so strange an attitude. The answer was, to look in the glass. "Why," said his friend, "there is no glass there." "Bless me!" Burrows observed, "I did not notice that before."
