CONSUMPTION AND ALL Diseases of the Lungs and Throat are positively carable by inhalation, which conveys the remedies to the cavities in the lungs through the air passages, and coming in direct contact with the disease, neutralises the tubercular matter, allays the cough, causes a free and easy expectoration, heats the lungs, purifies the blood, imparts renewed vitality to the nerrous system, giving that fone and energy so indispensable for the restoration of health. To be able to state confidently that Consumption is curable by inhalation, is to me a source of unalloyed pleasure. It is as much under the control of medical treatment as any other formidable disease; ninety out of every hundred cases can be cured in the first stages, and fitty percent. In the second; but in the third stage it is impossible to save more than five per cent. for the lungs are so cut up by the disease as to bid defiance to medical skill. Even, however, in the last stages, inhalation af fords entraordinary relief to the suffering attending this sarful accurge, which annually destroys ninely-five thousand persons in the United States alone; and a correct inscalation shows that of the present population of the searth, eighty millious are destined to fill the Consumptive's grave.

Trinly the quiver of death has no arrow so fatal as Consumption. In all ness it has been the great enemy of life, for its spares neither age nor sex, but aweens off alike the brave, the beautiful, the graceful, and the gifted! By the help of that Supreme Being, from whom cometh every good and perfect gift, I am enabled to offer to the sufficient a permanent and meets very in Con-ND ALL Diseases of the Lungs gifted. By the help of that Supreme Being, from whom cometh every good and perfact gift, I am enabled to offer to the affilted a permanent and speedy cure in Consumption. The first cause of tubercles is from impure blood; and the immediate effect, produced by their deposition in the lungs, is to prevent the free admission of air; into the air cells, which causes a weakened vitallity through the entire system. Then surely it is more rational to expect greater good from medicines entering the cavities of the lungs than from those administered through the stongach; the patient will always find the lungs free and the breathing easy after inhaling remedies. True, inhibiation is a local remedy, nevertheless if acts constitutionally, and with more power and certainthe slightest pain; inhaling the ordinary burning gas, will destroy life in a few houri.

The inhalation of ammonia will rouse the system when fainting or apparently dead. The odor of many of the medicines is perceptible in the skin a few minners after being inhaled, and may be immediately detected in the blood. A convincing proof of the constitutional effects of inhalation, is the fact that sickness is always produced by breathing foul air. Is not this positive evidence that proper remedies, carefully prepared and judiciously administered through the lungs should produce the most happy results? During eighteen years practice, many thousands, suffering from discares of the lungs and throat, have been under my care, and I have effected many remarkable curea, even after the sufferers had been pronounced in the last stages, which fully satisfies me that consumption is no longer a fatal disease. By treatment of consumption is original, and founded on long experience and a thorough investigation. My perfect acquaintance with the nature of tuberles, dac, enables me to distinguish, readily, the various forms of disease that simulate consumption, and apply the proper remedies rarely being mistaken even in a single case. This similiarly in connection with gertain pathological and microscopic discoveries, enables me to relieve the lungs from the effects of contracted chests; to enlarge the chest, parify the blood, impart to it remewed vitality, civing energy and tone to the entire system. There are two things about this herb that appear to me surprising; first that it grows in our pastures, in some places quite plential, and yet its value has never been known until I discovered it in 1846—second, that it should cure all kinds of humo?

In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and great popularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1853. I goddled it and sold about six bottles per day of it. Oum that they are so often used with no benefit, and TO FOUNDRYMEN, MACHINISTS & OTHERS. even with injurious results. For the present, at PURVES, N. E. corner South least, and in the great majority of cases, the farmer should rely on the manure made on his own)

There is one method of improving land which, t seem to us, farmers have not sufficiently tried. We mean the mixture of different soils. Some They have no texture; manure applied to them leaches away immediately. Other fields, again, are a stiff clay. They remain wet and sold late in the spring, and the soil is always lumpy and hard to till. Now, why may not an exchange be made in these fields, to their mutual benefit? Du-Phila.

Having completed their large assortment of the above gloods for Spring and Summer Trade, would respectfully invite the attention of purchasers to the same. GEORGE A. LEINMI, (Promptetor.)

To remedy these evils, we would say-let every farmer see to it, that his barn-yard is annually ed from the waste corners of his fields, or learn from the woods; and to these, let every thing he added in the shape of rubbish which accumulate about a farm house. Whenever the barn yards cleaned out, let a layer of this material be sput. over the yard a good foot deep and let it be adde. from time to time, as manure accumulates. To will absorb the liquids and check the passing and of the volatile gases. And whenever the mater is thrown up in heaps, let frequent layers of the material be added, and if possible, a good spruling of plaster. And when the heap has ature its allotted size, let the whole be covered with good coat of muck. It will then rot wither waste, and the whole pile will be as good un much unmixed manure. We believe that more use might be made the is common, of the contents of privy vaulum & the droppings of hen roosts. These manurerry among the most powerful in the world. Pring vaults should frequently have a coating of man saw dust or other deodorizing material, to aby the liquids and to retain the ammonia. Symmatically and properly attended to, this mann would not be half so offensive as it now is and would be found of great value. We are barry to know that some sagacious farmers and gardes ers are opening their eyes on the subject. Iles roosts should also be supplied with muck place There is hardly they thing about a fame to
