bush clambering around the casement, and I was not long in making the discovery that the aforeraid cottage with the rose-shaded window, contained a fair lumate, a flower whose beauty on shone the roses that clustered around the window. She was the belle of the village. Her asms was Mary sweet poetic Mary. I have a passion for the name of Mary.

It was a beautiful summer morning, and I had raised the wisdow to admit the breeze from the flower-decked fields, and it was not long ere I pernower decrees window was also hoisted and shat awast little Mary was sitting busily engaged with her needle. I worked but little that morning. My eyes constantly wandered toward the cottage window where little Mary sat, and all s of strange, fantastic notions whirled through my brain, and I began to think I felt a light touch Union. Oh! she was a sweet creature; she had a form that would have shamed the famous Venus de Medici-a cheek that out. finshed the richest peach, and a lip that would have tempted a bee from its hive on a frosty morning. I thought as I gased on her in mute admiration, that I had never looked on one so exquisitely beautiful. She seemed the embodiment of everything lovely and bewitching. Well, time passed on, and one day Mary expressed a desire to September 28, '56 passed on, and one day Mary expressed a desire to gent visit the printing office. "Good," thought I, "what a chance! But as I raised my lips from hers, she lifted her delicate little hand, and gave me a box on my ears that made me see more stars than were ever viewed by Herschel, through his big telescope.-Somewhat nettled, and my cheek smarting with pain, I again seized her waist, and said: "Well, if you don't like it, just take back the Patent Horse-Radish, Potatos, Bread, Cracker, or Sugar I began to be seriously alarmed, and apologized in the best manner I could, and to my surprise she seemed more pleased than angry but there was a lurking devil in her eye that told me there was mischief afloat. As I stood surveying the black covering of her hand, scarcely able to suppress a laugh at its strange metamorphosis, she quickly raised it on high, and brought it down kerslap upon my cheek. Before I could recover from surprise, the same little hand had again descended, and left its inky imprint on my other

"Why, Mary," I exclaimed, "what are you about?"

"I think you told me you rolled ink on the face of the form," she replied with a loud laugh, and again her hand lit upon me—taking me a broad slap in the middle of my countenance, most wonderfully bedaubing my eyes. With a light step and a morry peal of laughter, she skipped through the door. She turned back when beyond my reach, and has recently fore meaning through the door. and her reguish face peering through the door-

I say, Charley, what kind of a roller does my hand make?" "Oh," said I, "you take too much ink." "Ha! ha!" she laughed, "well, good bye, Charwhis is love in a printing office. The devil fly away with such love,"

The next morning, when the editor came to the office, I rather calculate he found things a little topey turvy. However, that made no difference to me, for I had mixled before daylight. I bore the marks of that scene many a day, and now, whenever I see a lady entering a printing office, I think of little Mary, and keep my eye on the ink keg.

—Small Quarto, 98 pages, 22 maps; beautifully liinstrated. The work is every way adapted to the capacity and wants of the young beginner. Care has been taken to avoid everything which should be reserved for the more advanced pupil. The maps have only the principal features delineated, hence they can be easily atudied. The lessons are copiously illustrated with appropriate engravings. For instance, in treating of an island, the subject is illustrated by a map and a picture of an island. So of a peninsula, and of other physical foatures.

MODERN SCHOOL GEOGRAOut PHY.—Large Quarto, 134, 40 maps, and numeous illustrations. Designed for that very large class of pupils in our schools who wish to learn the more important facts of Geography, but have not time to consult the more elaborate freatises. In this book, great years have been taken, by orphous exercises, to make the pupil thoroughly acquainted with the maps, and familiar with localities. It embraces the whole subject of Geography as ordinarily taught, and it is a complete work in itself.

HAT CAPS .- The bay harvest is fairly begun, and there is no time to be lost in procuring these indispensable articles. Any man who cuts ten tons of hay should have a lot of these extempraneous shelters. Coarse cotton chacting, a yard and a half or two yards wide, will answer a good purpose. Cut them equare and fit with loops of short twine at the corners, and four plugs or sticks a foot long to fasten them on to the hay rocks, in case of a shower or storm. Then there is no hurrying and over-exertion to get a load of hay into barn before the shower overtakes you.
