ALWAYS SOMETHING NEW.

HAIR RESTORATIVE. Is, no loubt, the most wonderful discovery of this age of pairress, for it will restore, permanently, gray hair to its original color, cover the head of the hald with a most inxuriant growth remove at once all dandruff and itching, care all serofula, and other cutaueous eruptions, such, as scald head, etc. It will cure, as if by manic, nervous or periodical headache; make the hair soft, glossy, and way, and preserve the color perfectly, and the hair from failing, to extreme old age.

The following is from a distinguished member of the medical profession:

hair foom failing, to extreme old age.

The following is from a distinguished member of the modical profession:

Sr. Paux, January 1, 1855.

PROF ESSOR O. J. WOOD—

Dark Str:—Unsolicited, I send you this certificata—

After being nearly baid for a long time, and having tried all the hair restoratives extant, and having no faith in any. I was induced, on hearing of yours to give it a trial. I placed myself in the hands of a barber, and had my head rubbed with a good stiff brush, and the liestorative then applied and well rubbed in. till the scalp was a glow. This I repeated every morning, and in three weeks they young hair appeared and grew rapidly from August last till the present time, and is now thick, black and iffront—soft and plearant to the torch; whereas, before, it was harsh and wiry, what little there was of it, and that little was disappearing very rapidly. I still use your Restorative about twice a week, and shall soon have a good and perfect crop of hair. Now, I had read of thise things—and who has not? but have not seen hitherto any care where any person's hair was really henefied by any of the hair tonic, &c., of the day: and it really gives me pleasure to record the result of my experience. I have recommended your preparation to others, and it already has a large and general sale throughout the Territory. The people here know its effects; and have confidence in it. The supply you sont us, as wholesale agents for the Territory, is nearly extended, and daily inquiries are made for it. You deserve credit for your discovery; and I, for one, return you my thanks for the benefit thas done me, for I certainly had despaired long ago of ever effecting any such result.

Yours, hastily.

From the Editor of the Real Estate Advertiser.]

Beston, 27 School Street. March. 20. 1855.

Dear Sin:—Having become prematurely quite gray, I was induced, some six weeks since, to make a trial of your Restorative. I have used less than two bottles, but he gray hairs have all disappeared; and although my hair has not fully attained its original color, yet the process of change is gradually going on, and I am in creat hopes that in a short time my hair will be as dark as Ormerly. I have also been much gratified at the healthy moisture and vigor of the hair, which before was harsh and dry, and it has ecased to come out as formerly.

Professor Wood.

CARLYLE, Illinois, June 19, 1855.

I have used Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and have admired its wonderful effect. By hair was becoming as I (hought, prematurely gray, but by the use of his "Restorative," it has resumed its original color, and have no doubt, permanently so.

Important Discovery. CONSUMPTION,

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS AND THROAT RE positively curable by Inhalation, which conveys the remedies to the cavities in the langs through the air passages and coming in direct contact with the disease, neutralizes the tubercular matter, the course of the causes a free and easy expectoration, of the earth, eighly millions are destined to hit the Chnsumptive's grave.

Truly the quiver of death has no arrow so first as Chosumption. In all sges it has been the kreat enemy of He, for it spares neither age nor sex, but sweeps of like the brave, the beautiful, the graceful, and the gited. By the help of that Supreme lieing, from whom cameth every good-and perfect gift, I am enabled to offer to the afflicted a permanent and speedy euro in Consemption. The first cause of tubercles is from impure blood, and the immediate effect, produced by their deposition in the lungs, is to prevent the free admission of air into the air cells, which causes a weakened vitality through the entire system. Then surely it is more retional to expect greater good from medicines entering the cavities of the lungs than from those administered through the estomach: the patient will always find the Anguage of the series of the percent of the percent

New Series of School Geographick
INTRODUCTORY GEOGRAPHY N'TRODUCTORY GEOGRAF11.

Small Quarto, 98 pages, 22 maps; beautifully illustrated. The work is every way adapted to the capatity and wants of the young beginner. Care, has, been taken to avoid everything which sheald be preserved for the more advanced pupil. The maps have only the principal features delineated, hence they can be easily studied. The lessons are coplously illustrated with appropriate engravings. For instance, in treating of an island, the subject is illustrated by a map and a picture of an island. So of a peninsula, and of other physical features.

ODERN SCHOOL GEOGRAPHY.—Large Quarto, 134, 40 maps, and numeous illustrations. Designed for that very large class of pupils in our schools who wish to learn the more important facts of Geography, but have not time to consult the more elaborate treatises. In this book, great pains have been taken, by orplous exèrcises, to make the pupil thoroughly acquainted with the mops, and familiar with localities. It embraces the whole subject of Geography as ordinarily taught, and if is a complete work in itself.

[FOR THE MINERS SCHRAL] LAWFUL BIGAMY.

N. P. R. R. E. H. Maiden young! and maides fair— Maiden with locks of raven hair— Beauteons, Loughing, joyous giris! With resolud lips, and testh like pearls; To each of you I've a word to say! Oh, listen to me, fair maiden, I pray: Virtue, so comely, so beauteously fair— Modesty, twin in the beavenly pair— Truth that gem in heaven's boquet, All are suitors for thee to day. Rach, thy hand and heart would seek: Kach, sweet words of love would speak; Each, for thy brow a garland twine— Fairer than gems from the eastern mine.

Maiden joyous! and maiden fair—
Maiden joyous! and maiden fair—
Maiden with ringlets of waving halr—
Maiden thoughtful, and maiden sad—
Maiden of sorrow, and maiden glad—
Maide of the sparkling, mischlevous, eve,
Dark as the night, or blue as the sky,
Hark to the pleadings of satiors three!
Who ask, but your leave, to wed with thee.
Wed them maiden—the trie so pure—
Wed them maiden—of this be sure,
They will shed o'er your life a wondrous grace,
Pure as the smile on an angel's fare;
And the saraph wings of the beauteous three.
Will ever be spread in care over thee.
Wed them maiden! The nuptial rite,
Angels of beauty from realms of light,
Fain would behold, as with winging sweep,
Their censeless Vigils o'er earth hey keep.

The love of these three will never grow col. If Their heavenly beauty will never grow old i And whatever thy lot thou wilt never repine While modesty, virtue, and truth are thine. Political Economy.

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Letter Fifth.

Junius tells us, Mr. President, that "the ruin or prosperity of a state depends so much upon the administration of its government, that to be acquainted with the merit of a ministry we need only observe the condition of the people. If," as he continues, "we see them obedient to the law, prosperous in their industry, united at home and respected abroad, we may reasonably presume that their affairs are conducted by men of experience, ability, and virtue. If, on the contrary, we see a universal spirit of distript and dissatisfaction, a rapid decay of trade, dissensions in all parts of the empire, and a total loss of respect in the eyes of foreign powers, we may pronounce, without hesitation, that the government of that country is weak, distracted and epirupt."

The first of the pictures bero presented exhibits the state of the American Union at the close of the war in 1815; again in 1824, at the date of the repeal of the protective Earlif of 1828; and again in 1847, when the act of 1842 ccased to be the law of the land. The second is found on examination of the condition of the country, in regard to matters of religious faith, would be discussed throughout the Union:

That, the discord between the Northern and Southern portions of the Union would have reached the point of civil war, attended with a growing disposition, in its various portions, to look compineently upon the idea of dissolution: and, fanally,

In proof that such is the case, and, that the Union is rapidly declining in the estimation of the people of other nations, I beg to offer you the following extract from a work just published, the author of which is not to be suppected of any disposition to magnify the changes he discovered:

"It is evident, as I converse with people here, and in other parts of Northern Europe, that a great change has some over the popular feeling towards America, since I was last on the continent, five years ago. Then America was the ideal everywhere to free-thinking and aspiring mentiopher found the confirmation of his theories of human liberty there; the hard-working, the politically degraded, the idealists, the struggling masses, fait that the Western Republic was especially for them, and even if they could never share its privileges, they were happy that humanity had at length looked on such a giorious effort. The reports of the common freedom, of the education of the masses, of the high morality prevailing, and of the discovered with our oyes of the masses, of the high morality prevailing, and every and the timely was and the timely was in the more in the continuation of the discovered to the production of this last; they are, one and all, now matters of history.

How they have tended to the production of changes in the mode of European thought, is extended to the production of the anges in the mode of European thought, is extended to the production of the substantion at recent British Journal, in which, after, showing, that the idea of the vote by hallot, of "manhoud suffrage," had nearly passed away, the writer proceeds to say that—

"This revulcion of sentiment and opinion is a great measure traceable to the spectacle of the American democracy. We owe a deep debt of graticular to the United States for the pregnant in the mode of the section of the united to the United States for the pregnant in the mode of the section of the united to the United States for the pregnant in the mode of the section of the united to the Uni In proof that such is the case, and, that the Union is rapidly declining in the estimation of the people of other nations, I beg to offer you the reports of the common freedom, of the education of the masses, of the high morality prevailing, came over even exaggerated, and silenced the enemies of popular rights, and converted many doubtful. One felt the effect of all this as a tray-eler. You were not alone; you were the representative of the best thoughts and aspirations of mankind. The warm hand grasping yours, welcomed not you, but a nation of freemen. The did not condemn because property and person had been better shielded under the Republic, than under European Monarchies. The poor, the son had been better shielded under the Republic, than under European Monarchies. The poor, the laborers, were especially your friends, for was not your land the very land which elevated labor?

"All this is quite different now. You are treated politely, as a stranger; or you are welcomed more or less for what you personally lare, but for your country, among the populace you get no welcome.

The glory has departed.

"Within five years, various circumstances have opened the eyes of Europe to our real situation, and, as often happens, the people see nothing but our sins. We are simply now a tricky, jobbing, half-barbarie people, where the worst political corruption of the Old World exists without its refinement; and where brutallity rowdyism, and unlimited despotism have in certain quarters free limited despotism have in certain quarters free play. Our politicians and diplomats are despised; our Constitution is specred at, as inflicting upon us the most disgraceful legislature; and the laboring class and the democrats know that within our limits, a more abominable tyranny over inbor and free speech and thought exists, than the worst and free speech and thought exists, than the worst despotisms of the Continent over exhibited. There is nothing now in our situation to dazic the world. They see with clear eye our blackest sins and our miserable political jobbing.

Such being the state of things in Northern, we may now look to Central Rerope, in regard to which, I, myself Mr. President, can speak. Go where the traveler may, he finds, among thoughtful men—among those who had hoped to find, in this western world, the realization of their brightest hopes, in regard to man's onward progress—a growing doubt in reference to our future. Anxiously do they look across the ocean—dreading to

That, Lynch law would have found its way into the Senate chamber: that it would have superseded the provision of the Constitution, throughout the Southern States: that it would have superseded the civil authority, in one of the States of the Printen: that the right of the States to prohibit slavery within their limits, would be so seriously questioned as to warrant the belief, that the day was near at hand, when it would be totally denied: that all the decisions of the Supreme Court, for sixty years, favorable to freedom, would by this time, have been reversed: that the doctrine of constructive treason would be adopted in Fed-from this, it has, as here is shown, become the beacon light, whose only use is that of warning the world against the sheals and sands, among which our ship is likely to be wrecked. Turn back, Mr. President a little in our history—finding the pages in which are recorded the early efforts of the central power to obtain direction of the currency, and you will, as I think, find the present one, with slight exceptions, centralization has grown steadily; and yot, strange as it may appear in a patriot like yourself, the whole tendency of your message is in, the direction of further centralization.

The more perfect the form of the ship, the more rapid will be her passage through the water, and the more certainly and speedily will she, under proper guidance, reach her destined port. The more rapid, and complete, however will be her destruction, should her pilot run her upon the rocks that lie in her course—the reaction then rocks that lie in her course—the reaction then produced, being in the direct ratio of her previous notion. So it is with nations. The higher their organization, the more rapid is the movement of society, and the more instant is the shock that attends a stoppage in the circulation. The passage of an invading army through Peru, or Maxicu, produces little effect, beyond a small destruction of life and property; but a similar event in England, would cause the closing of factories, the stoppage of mills and fornaces, the abandonment of mines, the dispersion of the people, and the suspension of all the machinery of local government. The power of recuperation exists, however, in the same degree—the recovery from the effects of war, in countries like Franco or England, being much more rapid than it can be, where the societary circulation is languid, and where the waste of ry circulation is languid, and where the waste of property; or of population, can slowly, if even at all, be repaired. In no country of the world, do the effects of change become so promptly obvious as among ourselves; and for the reason, that—the political organization being here more natural than in any other—the tendency to rapidity of circulation is so very great. Universal instruction throughout the northern portion of the Union, tends to the In thirty years before:

Within its walls are four large steam engines, which drive a wagon, carrings and sleigh factory; an extensive Agricultural implement manufactory, and other business done by contractors with prison or convict labor hired by the contractors at so much per day per hand.

Having a description of our city and its business, I will now give you a description of our mineral deposits. Mining is in its infancy here, but it must have a start the same as your region had 37 years ago. We have the material plied, to use the words of Colonel Benton, with the means sequired for conciliating members, and combining interest, and thus securing the passess of almost any bill, the applicants for which were willing, sufficiently liberally, to pay:

That, centralization would so far have grown, as to have caused the expenditures of a single city, to simust equal those of the Federal Government, but thirty years ago:

That, the expenditure of city revenues, and the maintenance of public order, would be in the hands of magistrates, many of whom would be regarded as worthy only of the penitunitary: with gas. The mine is about 5 miles west of the city, (A Drift above water level.) Next is the Jackson City Coal Company. They began to mine about the 20th of October last. They have a drift driven to some distance, and have several brecets started. This vein has good, hard Coal, which is used for steam and domestic purposes. This Company have made large contracts with the State. The vein is from 3 to 31 feet thick,-This company have found on their land near this city, an excellent vein of Cannel Coal, which is pronounced by good judges to be second to none in the United States, except that of Breekenridge, Ky., for oil, or other purposes oor which Cannel Coal is used. This voin is 3 feet of Cannel Coal. with 13 feet of good Bituminous, immediately under it is the same seam, making altogether 41 feet. The amount of Coal mined by this Company is about 700 tons. Their capacity for mining, is from 25 to 30 tons per day at present, and can soon increase to 80 or 100 tons as the demand increases. Next is the Detroit and Jackson Coal Company. They have commenced to sink a shaft to a 4 foot vein of excellent Bituminous Coal 85 feet from the surface, which will be completed in a few months, and will make a valuable colliery. The seams of Coal in this vicinity are merely flat, with scarcely enough fall to carry off the TEKONSUA.

means by the elits of Pottsville, unless he alludes to the indies generally : "We have been amusing curselves lately in forming an aquarium, and I think have succeeded in making one that is quite a feature in our dining room. Its dimensions are, length, two feet six inches; brendth, fiftcen inches and height the same. The bottom soapstone; the sides and ends plate glass. We have had a small one since last spring and have found it such an institution, that we have been induced to try this one on a larger scale. We have just stocked it and do not yet know that the animal and vegetable matter are properly balanced, but think from the experience we have had, there will be no difficulty in arranging it properly. Has the idea reached Pottsville? I should think if introduced among the clife, it would become a very popular ornament and source of amusement. It has been to us the occasion of many long walks and pleasant rambles in search of beauties for it." Cor. ALBERT SYDNEY JOHNSTON, the commander of our Utah army, is a Kentuckian by birth, and is of commanding personal appearance. He was Colonel of a regiment in the Mexican war, and shared the honors at Buena Vista. In 1846 he became a paymaster in the U. / S. The question is, what is the Major's idea of having "a good time of it?" A social meeting would be pleasant; an interchange of thoughts and ideas would be profitable; a peep at the lions would be approciated; and even a pedestrian tour in omnibuses as far as the Major's farm, is not to be rnessed at; but if "baving a good time of it" comes under the head, getting "tight" on the bad rum sold at Philadelphia bare, we are not "in."
