10,829 tons, which is 2,133 tons less than th mantity sent last wook. The buriness of the Region is almost entirely suspended at present. At many of the Collieries there is scarcely a hand at work, except marely to attend to the machinery and keep the Collieries in order. There, are but fow driving Gaugways, and there is no disposition menifested : make arrangements for an increased bariness this year, except where Collierios were partially sus pended last year. This is unquestionably the wisest, and in fact the only policy that can be parsued by our Operators in the absence of any demand for Coal, and the present state of the market. This policy, it is true, bears extremely hard on the laboring classes, but under existing ireumstances, we cannot see how it can be avoid ed. Our Begion is prepared to meet any domasd that may be made on it, with but little preparation, and that preparation can be made wheneve he domand requires it. The subject of tolls for 1858 is beginning gitate the trade. The general impression is hat the interests of our carrying companies would be subserved better by reducing the rates and increasing the business to the full depacity of the ransporting machinery now owned by the Railroad, and the Boats ranning on the Canal, and has secure the same amount of revenue on the ncreased business.' The arguments in favor of this plan are these':

lst. It would prevent any further decrease of the population of the Coal Region of Schuylkill County, which must necessarily take place if the trade continues to diminish as it is now doing. The Coal trade fell off last year 398,018 tons, and it is admitted that the population of the Coal Region diminished several thousand during the last year. The trade for the present year, which commenced on the first of December last, has fallen of upwards of 42,000 tons .- and the population of the Region must continue to diminish in the same ratio. Of course, this effects the miscellaneous trade, particularly of the Bailroad, in the diminished amount of merchandise and passengers transported over the road, which is the most profitable portion of their business.

2d. Even if the revenue received on Coal would be the same on an increased business of three or four hundred thousand tons, the Railroad Company would be largely the gainer by, the in-Delaware Cosl Co. Pottsville, Water Co. by an increased development of the Region .-Large population and extensive developments, is what gives trade to transporting companies, and their business increases just in proportion as this policy is encouraged.

We are not the advocates for very low rates,bey are as pernicious in their tendency as charges that are too high. The Transporting Com panies must receive sufficient revenue to furnish the best facilities, and to keep their works in good condition for economical use,-for just in propertion as their facilities are crippled, so in proper tion must the rates be increased hereafter to give these facilities, and the trade will, of course, be subjected to heavy additional expenses.

The adestion is, whether it is not better for the Companies to reduce the charges so as to run up the business to the full espacity of the present muchinery, and receive the same amount of revenue for this increased business-and thus in-extend their business bereafter, instead of produ-ting the opposite results by higher oh arros, which Fing the opposite results by higher charges, which

Measure for Measure. Indra . The arrest of the pirate Walker has coment an un-ucky moment, as it seems likely to add fuel to the fires of sectional and party strife new racing in the country. It basheen very differently received by the two nations ato which this Union is becoming more and more divi-ited every day. In the South Walker and his rrimes are isfended, and has a spin-under as here, which if commoicd every day. In the routh Watker and nus rinnes are isferided, and ho is applauded as a hero, whilst Commo-lore Faulding, who arrested him, by orders of the gor-rament, is denounced. The lawlers adventurer is sus-isineli and praised with enthusiastic acelamation-the public officer who, clothed with legal authority, perform-d his duty, is made the object of furjous r'tuperation. The grounds on which Com. Paulding is attacked are itransely inconsistent with any reasoning by which Trangely inconsistent with any reasoning by which Walker can be justified. The former, it is said, violated the law of nations by making the arrest on the soil of Nicaragna. But so did. Walker, in a much greator de-gree, by invading that soil with heatile purposes.
